Update:

Glenden P. Riddle, born on July 6, 1947, passed into the presence of the Lord on March 10, 2015. When he died, he and his beloved wife were living in Thailand where they served as missionaries to countries in the Far East. The love that Glen had for God and for Jesus, his Savior, was evident and contagious. He also loved his family very much. Glen's passion for biblical languages, marathons, Blue Bell ice cream, and Dr. Pepper's original recipe from Dublin, Texas, was second to none. We miss him a lot. Praise God, we will see it again!

Εἶπεν αὐτῷ ὁ Ἰησοῦς, Ἐγώ εἰμι ἡ ἀνάστασις καὶ ἡ ζωή· ὁ πιστεύων εἰς ἐμέ, κἀν ἀποθάνῃ, ζήσεται· καὶ πᾶς ὁ ζῶν καὶ πιστεύων εἰς ἐμέ, οὐ μὴ ἀποθάνῃ εἰς τὸν αἰῶνα. Πιστεύεις τοῦτο; Λέγει αὐτῷ, Ναί, κύριε· ἐγὼ πεπίστευκα, ὅτι σὺ εἶ ὁ χριστός, ὁ νιὸς τοῦ θεοῦ, ὁ εἰς τὸν κόσμον ἐρχόμενος.

KATA ΙΩΑΝΝΗΝ 11:25-27

¹ The Greek text for some of the exercises, especially early in the grammar, has been simplified for pedagogical reasons.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

This grammar would not have been written without the support of others. Lord God Almighty, the Creator and Sustainer of all things, deserves highest thanks and praise. As the source of all goodness, He enabled this grammar's completion by providing life to those involved and by providing the necessary opportunities, abilities, resources, etc. For all that, I am thankful. I am also ever grateful that God has given me eternal life through faith in His Son, Jesus Christ, who died for the sins of the whole world. Without His infinite grace, love, and sacrifice, I would be lost.

I would also like to express my gratitude to family and friends. First, I thank my beautiful wife, Ruth Ann, for her continual love, respect, and sacrifice during our many wonderful years of marriage. Her encouragement and companionship have been invaluable. Her devotion to our delightful children is inspiring. Second, I thank my parents, Mary Anne and the late Barry Purtzer, for the many years of nurture and care that they gave. Also, I am grateful to my in-laws, Arden and Marilyn Haeffner, for their ongoing support of my theological education and this grammar. Third, I would like to recognize the professors of Chafer Theological Seminary for the quality education they gave me and for allowing the first half of this grammar to fulfill the requirement for my master's thesis. In particular, I thank Glen Riddle for his friendship, for teaching me much of what I know about the biblical languages, and for his invaluable input into this grammar. He deserves credit for editing the entire grammar, developing the contextual vocabulary system, and writing chapter 29 on conditional sentences. If space permitted, I would individually recognize other family members and fellow believers whose gracious support has positively impacted me and directly enabled this project's completion. A general thank you will have to suffice. I pray that our gracious God will continue to bless all of you!

On the professional side, I extend great appreciation to two individuals and one group. Regarding individuals, I thank Maurice Robinson and the late William Pierpont for producing The New Testament in the Original Greek: Byzantine Textform 2005 and for granting the public permission to copy and distribute that work freely. That freedom is why the Greek New Testament that they compiled served as the text for the exercises in this grammar. Moreover, Dr. Robinson graciously provided a Unicode copy of the Greek text thereby facilitating compilation of the exercises. Additionally, I would like to thank the Gramcord Institute (<http://www.gramcord.org/>) for its wonderful computer software that enables, among other things, sophisticated morphological and syntactical searches of the Greek New Testament. That software was extremely helpful in the development of this grammar.

DEDICATION

This English version is dedicated to my beloved wife, Ruth Ann Purtzer.

God has blessed me with you, the most amazing wife and mother of my children.

 Thank you for leading me to faith in our Savior.

 Thank you for your continual love and support.

 Thank you for your faithfulness.

 Thank you for being a wonderful and dedicated mother.

 Thank you for all the things with which I could fill this page.

You are the love of my life, and I cherish you more than you know.

1 INTRODUCTION AND LOWER CASE ALPHABET

1.1 INTRODUCTION

1.1.1 Purpose of this Grammar

This grammar exists to help people learn the original language of the New Testament, biblical Greek.¹ In particular, we pray that it will be a useful tool for believers who, because of their location or limited resources, might not otherwise be able to learn the language. For that reason, the copyright statement allows this grammar to be posted on the internet, translated, copied, and/or distributed without compensation to the authors.

1.1.2 Approach of this Grammar

This work includes features similar to most grammars such as the memorization of grammatical rules, verb charts, and vocabulary. Although that kind of memorization is necessary for learning any language, we try to minimize those aspects and emphasize the more enjoyable part: translation of the New Testament. This approach allows you to focus on the most frequent and important aspects of Greek while spending more time reading God's Word. While thus occupied, you will learn inductively items not explained in detail in the grammar.

1.1.3 Keys to Success in Learning Biblical Greek

Learning biblical Greek is an enriching experience, and knowledge of the language provides a valuable tool for studying Scripture and for ministry. Your success, however, depends on desire, discipline, observation of context, humility, and prayer.

Desire means that you want to learn Greek. With that longing, the pursuit will be more enjoyable and successful. Without it, the endeavor will probably be tedious and end in failure.

Discipline means working hard and consistently over an extended period of time to learn Greek. Studying once or twice a week is insufficient for most students to learn the language well. Our recommendation is that you study at least thirty minutes per day. Some of that time will be spent memorizing vocabulary and word forms. Another portion will be spent studying how the words combine to form phrases, clauses, and sentences.² Finally, the majority of your time should be spent reading and translating the exercises (sentences from the New Testament). As you advance in Greek, you should dedicate more time to reading the New Testament and less time to memorization. This consistent reading of Scripture will be enjoyable. Moreover, it will help you view Greek more naturally, as a language, thereby improving your understanding the biblical text.

¹ In this grammar, the terms "New Testament Greek," "Koine Greek," or simply "Greek" will be used as synonyms for "biblical Greek".

² The manner in which a language arranges words and phrases to convey meaning is called "syntax". Intermediate level Greek grammars (second year) focus primarily on syntax.

Observation of the context means using the material immediately surrounding the word, phrase, clause, sentence, and paragraph you are reading to help you understand what you are reading. Throughout the grammar, we will identify clues in the context that can be particularly helpful for understanding the text.

Humility means recognizing that learning a language is an ongoing process. As a beginner, be careful not to overstate your knowledge of the language because sometimes more harm can be done by someone who knows a little Greek than by someone who does not know any.

Finally, prayer means asking God for help in your study and use of biblical Greek so that He is glorified and His church is edified.

1.1.4 Reading Direction

1.1.5 Word Order

The order of the words is not as important in Greek for determining the meaning of a sentence as it is in some other languages. In Greek, for example, the subject can be the last word of a sentence, and the verb can be the first word of a sentence. As a general rule, a word may be moved to the front of a sentence for emphasis. The reader knows the particular function of a word in a sentence by the different endings attached to that word. Those endings will be discussed later.

1.2 LOWER CASE ALPHABET

Letters	Pronunciation	Name
α	a in father	Alpha β	b in boy	Beta
γ	g in good ³	Gamma
δ	d in dog	Delta
ε	e in egg	Epsilon
ζ	z in zoo or ds in aids	Zeta η	ey in they	Eta θ	th in thin	Theta
ι	i in sit or ee in feet	Iota
κ	k in king	Kappa λ	l in lion	Lambda μ	m in my	Mu
ν	n in night	Nu
ξ	x in exit	Xi
ο	o in stop	Omicron
π	p in pin	Pi
ρ	r in red	Rho
σ, ζ⁴	s in sin	Sigma τ	t in tall	Tau υ	oo in moon	Upsilon
φ	ph in phone	Phi
χ	ch in Christ ⁵	Chi
ψ	ps in lips	Psi
ω	o in no	Omega

³ When gamma (γ) occurs immediately before gamma (γ), kappa (κ), chi (χ), or xi (ξ), the initial gamma (γ) is pronounced as “n.”

⁴ When sigma (σ) occurs at the end of a word, it is written as ς . Elsewhere it is written as σ .

⁵ This sound is closer to “h” in “harpoon.” English speakers usually give too much of a “k” sound to this letter.

1.3 VOWELS

1.3.1 Basic Vowels

Biblical Greek has seven vowels (α , ε , η , ι , \o , υ , and ω). The vowels are categorized as “short” or “long”. See the following chart.

Short	Pronunciation	Long	Pronunciation
α	a in a father	α	a in f ather
ε	e in e lephant	η	ey in t hey
ι	i in s it	ι	ee in fe et
\o	o in n ot	ω	o in no
υ	oo in m oon	υ	oo in mo on Epsilon (ε) and omicron (\o) are always “short.” Eta (η) and omega (ω) are always “long.” Alpha (α), iota (ι), and upsilon (υ) can be either “short” or “long.” For alpha (α) and upsilon (υ), “short” and “long” pronunciations are the same.⁶ For iota (ι), the student should listen to the teacher’s pronunciation to learn when to pronounce it as long or short.⁷

In addition to pronunciation, the categories of short and long vowels are important with regard to vowel changes and accents. The specifics will be mentioned later.

1.3.2 Proper Diphthongs

Certain combinations of the above vowels result in a single sound when read (as opposed to two distinct sounds). Those combinations are called diphthongs.⁸ The primary diphthongs are:⁹

Diphthong	Pronunciation	Diphthong	Pronunciation
$\alpha\iota$	ai in a isle	$\alpha\upsilon$	ow in c ow
$\varepsilon\iota$	ei in e ight	$\varepsilon\upsilon$	ew in f ew
$\o\iota$	oi in co in	$\o\upsilon$	ou in s oup
$\upsilon\iota$	we in w e

Notice that the second vowel of a diphthong is always iota (ι) or upsilon (υ).

⁶ Some grammars distinguish minor differences between the sounds of short or long alpha (α) and upsilon (υ). Your teacher may want you to observe those differences in your pronunciation of words.

⁸ On rare occasions, a diphthong is not pronounced as a single sound but as two distinct sounds. A diaeresis, two dots placed over the second vowel of the diphthong, indicate when that is the case. The word Καϊαφᾶς has a diaeresis and is pronounced Ka-i-a-phas instead of Kai-a-phas.

⁹ Other diphthongs exist, such as $\o\upsilon$ and $\eta\upsilon$, but they are rare.

1.3.3 Iota Subscript

Sometimes iota (ι) is written under the long vowels alpha (α), eta (η), or omega (ω) as ᾱ, η̄, or ω̄. This is called iota subscript. For these cases, only the first vowel (α, η, or ω) of the combination should be pronounced. In later chapters, recognizing the iota subscript will be important for identifying certain forms of words.

1.4 BREATHING MARKS AND ACCENTS

1.4.1 Breathing Marks

Greek has a smooth breathing mark ' and rough breathing mark '̄. One of the two marks will occur on every word beginning with a vowel, diphthong, or rho (ρ). The smooth breathing mark is silent and does not affect the word's pronunciation. The rough breathing mark adds an "h" sound to the beginning of the word. Examples of the two breathing marks are shown below.

Rough Mark	Pronunciation	Smooth Mark	Pronunciation
ἡμεις	hēmeis	ἐγω	ēgō
Ἱεροσολυμα†	hiērosolūma	Ἄββα†	abba
νιος	huios	αὐτος	autōs
Υιος†	huios	Αὐτος	autōs
ρημα	rhēmā	-	-
Ῥωμαιος†	rhōmaiōs	-	-

† The following are capital letters that will be learned next chapter:
I: iota Y: upsilon P: rho A: alpha

As you can see, the breathing mark will be...

- above a single lower case vowel (ἡμεις, ἐγω).
- above the second vowel of a diphthong (νιος, αὐτος, Υιος, Αὐτος).
- before an upper case vowel that is not part of a diphthong (Ἱεροσολυμα, Ἄββα).
- above rho (ρ) if it is lower case (ρημα) or before rho if it is upper case (Ῥωμαιος).

1.4.2 Accents

Accents are marks written over vowels to indicate what syllable to stress when reading.

Accent	Name	Location on word	Example 1	Example 2
'	Acute	Any of the final three syllables	κοί	ἔχω
'̄	Grave	Only on the final syllable ¹⁰	ἀπὸ	ἀδελφὸν
~	Circumflex	Either of last two syllables but only over long vowel or diphthong.	ἡμεῖς	οὐτος

1.6 VOCABULARY

The end of each chapter contains a list of vocabulary words. Memorize these words while learning the material for the respective chapter. Vocabulary words that have occurred prior to a given chapter will not be translated in the exercises. All other words except for some proper nouns will be translated in parentheses.

A unique feature of this grammar is the Contextual Vocabulary System. Beginning in chapter 2, each vocabulary word will include a short and rhythmic phrase to aid in memorization. Do not memorize the phrase. Simply read it orally whenever reviewing your vocabulary. While learning the vocabulary, you will learn other aspects of Greek as well!

Article

1. ὁ, ἡ, τό the (masculine, feminine, neuter forms)

Nouns

Each noun below is preceded by the masculine article ὁ (the) and followed by the genitive ending ου. The article and genitive ending will be studied later. For now, memorize the article, noun, and additional ending.

Interjection

20. ιδού, ιδε

behold

[†] Π is the capital letter of pi (π). X is the capital letter of χ (chi).

¹ Unlike English, proper nouns in Greek often have the article. Normally it should be left untranslated.

² δέ is a postpositive. Postpositives cannot be the first word of the clause or sentence. Often they are the second word but can occur even farther in the clause or sentence.

³ γάρ is also a postpositive.

2.1 UPPER CASE ALPHABET¹

Upper Case	Lower Case	Pronunciation	Name
A	α	a in f ather	Alpha
B	β	b in b oy	Beta
Γ	γ	g in g ood	Gamma
Δ	δ	d in d og	Delta
E	ε	e in e gg	Epsilon
Z	ζ	z in z oo or ds in aids	Zeta
H	η	ey in the y	Eta
Θ	θ	th in th in	Theta
I	ι	i in s it or ee in feet	Iota
K	κ	k in k ing	Kappa
Λ	λ	l in l ion	Lambda
M	μ	m in m y	Mu
N	ν	n in n ight	Nu
Ξ	ξ	x in ex it	Xi
O	ο	o in no t	Omicron
Π	π	p in p in	Pi
R	ρ	r in r ed	Rho
Σ	σ, ζ	s in s in	Sigma
T	τ	t in t all	Tau
Υ	υ	oo in mo on	Upsilon
Φ	φ	ph in p hone	Phi
X	χ	ch in C hrist	Chi
Ψ	ψ	ps in lip s	Psi
Ω	ω	o in no	Omega

¹ For the first three centuries A.D., copies of the New Testament were written only using upper case letters. Additionally, not all the letters looked like they do here. The sigma (Σ), for example, was more like a capital C. Most modern editions of the Greek New Testament use upper case letters for the first letter of proper nouns, of words beginning a new sentence, and of words beginning a quotation.

2.2 SYLLABLES

The following syllable rules aid in correct pronunciation of Greek words.

- Every syllable has a single vowel (or diphthong) as in:
ἀ-φί-η-μι γάρ ἀ-κού-ω
- Single consonants belong with the following vowel (or diphthong), unless that consonant is at the end of a word as in:²
θέ-λω εγω θε-ός
- Two or more consonants belong with the following vowel (or diphthong) if they can be said together easily as in:
εὐ-ρί-σκω υρά-φω πι-στεύ-ω
- Two or more consonants that cannot be said together easily or that are identical are divided as in:
ἄν-θρω-πος ἀ-μαρ-τί-α εκ-κλη-σί-α

2.3 PUNCTUATION

Most modern editions of the New Testaments use the punctuation listed below.³

Mark	Greek Meaning	Use
.	Period	Indicates the end of a sentence
.	Semi-colon	Separates two independent clauses
;	Question Mark	Indicates a question
,	Comma	Indicates a brief pause when reading

2.4 OMITTED VOWEL (ELLIPSIS)

Ellipsis is a silent marker ' that indicates the final vowel of a word has been omitted because the following word begins with a vowel. The ellipse mostly occurs with prepositions.

	Before Omitted Vowel	After Omitted Vowel	Final Result
1.	διὰ αὐτοῦ	δι' αὐτοῦ	δι' αὐτοῦ
2.	μετὰ ἡμῶν	μετ' ἡμῶν	μεθ' ἡμῶν

² There are some exceptions, especially where prepositions are prefixed to verbs (ἀπ-ερχο-μαι instead of ἀ-περχο-μαι).

1 Ἐν ἀρχῇ ἦν ὁ λόγος, καὶ ὁ λόγος ἦν πρὸς τὸν θεόν, καὶ θεὸς ἦν ὁ λόγος. 2 Οὗτος ἦν ἐν ἀρχῇ πρὸς τὸν θεόν. 3 Πάντα δι' αὐτοῦ ἐγένετο, καὶ χωρὶς αὐτοῦ ἐγένετο οὐδὲ ἐν ὃ γέγονεν. 4 Ἐν αὐτῷ ζωὴ ἦν, καὶ ἡ ζωὴ ἦν τὸ φῶς τῶν ἀνθρώπων, 5 καὶ τὸ φῶς ἐν τῇ σκοτίᾳ φαίνει, καὶ ἡ σκοτίᾳ αὐτὸν οὐ κατέλαβεν. 6 Ἐγένετο ἄνθρωπος ἀπεσταλμένος παρὰ θεοῦ, ὄνομα αὐτῷ Ἰωάννης. 7 Οὗτος ἦλθεν εἰς μαρτυρίαν, ἵνα μαρτυρήσῃ περὶ τοῦ φωτός, ἵνα πάντες πιστεύσωσιν δι' αὐτοῦ. 8 Οὐκ ἦν ἐκεῖνος τὸ φῶς, ἀλλ' ἵνα μαρτυρήσῃ περὶ τοῦ φωτός. 9 Ἡν τὸ φῶς τὸ ἀληθινόν, ὁ φωτίζει πάντα ἄνθρωπον ἐρχόμενον εἰς τὸν κόσμον. 10 Ἐν τῷ κόσμῳ ἦν, καὶ ὁ κόσμος δι' αὐτοῦ ἐγένετο, καὶ ὁ κόσμος αὐτὸν οὐκ ἔγνω. 11 Εἰς τὰ ἴδια ἦλθεν, καὶ οἱ ἴδιοι αὐτὸν οὐ παρέλαβον. 12 Ὅσοι δὲ ἔλαβον αὐτόν, ἔδωκεν αὐτοῖς ἔξουσίαν τέκνα θεοῦ γενέσθαι, τοῖς πιστεύοντιν εἰς τὸ ὄνομα αὐτοῦ· 13 οἵ οὐκ ἐξ αἰμάτων, οὐδὲ ἐκ θελήματος σαρκός, οὐδὲ ἐκ θελήματος ἀνδρός, ἀλλ' ἐκ θεοῦ ἐγεννήθησαν. 14 Καὶ ὁ λόγος σὰρξ ἐγένετο, καὶ ἐσκήνωσεν ἐν ἡμῖν - καὶ ἐθεασάμεθα τὴν δόξαν αὐτοῦ, δόξαν ὡς μονογενοῦς παρὰ πατρός - πλήρης χάριτος καὶ ἀληθείας. 15 Ἰωάννης μαρτυρεῖ περὶ αὐτοῦ, καὶ κέκραγεν λέγων, Οὗτος ἦν ὁν εἶπον, Ο ὁπίσω μου ἐρχόμενος ἔμπροσθέν μου γέγονεν· ὅτι πρῶτος μου ἦν. 16 Καὶ ἐκ τοῦ πληρώματος αὐτοῦ ἡμεῖς πάντες ἐλάβομεν, καὶ χάριν ἀντὶ χάριτος. 17 Ὁτι ὁ νόμος διὰ Μωσέως ἐδόθη, ἡ χάρις καὶ ἡ ἀλήθεια διὰ Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ ἐγένετο. 18 Θεὸν οὐδεὶς ἐώρακεν πώποτε· ὁ μονογενὴς νιός, ὁ ὃν εἰς τὸν κόλπον τοῦ πατρός, ἐκεῖνος ἐξηγήσατο.

3 PRESENT ACTIVE INDICATIVE OMEGA VERBS

3.1 SUBJECT PERSONAL PRONOUNS

3.1.1 Definition and Use

A pronoun is a word that takes the place of another noun in a sentence to avoid repetition. Instead of saying “Jesus walked on water, and Jesus raised the dead,” the sentence can be phrased: “Jesus walked on water, and He raised the dead.” Personal pronouns usually refer to specific people or things. Examples of personal pronouns in English include “I,” “you,” “he,” “she,” “it,” “we,” and “they.”

3.1.2 Person and Number

Pronouns have different forms to reflect categories called “person” and “number.” Person relates the pronoun to the speaker or writer. Number indicates whether the pronoun refers to one person or thing (singular) or more than one (plural).

Person	Relationship of Pronoun to Speaker	Number
		Singular	Plural
1 st	Pronoun refers to the speaker.	I	we
2 nd	Pronoun refers to the person spoken to.	you	you all
3 rd	Pronoun refers to the person spoken about.	he/she/it	they

3.1.3 Forms

The following forms are used when the pronoun is the subject of the sentence.¹

Person	Greek	English
Number: Singular
1 st	ἐγώ	I
2 nd	σύ	you
3 rd	αὐτός αὐτή ² αὐτό ³	he she it
Number: Plural
1 st	ἡμεῖς	we
2 nd	ὑμεῖς	you (plural)
3 rd	αὐτοί αὐταί ² αὐτά ³	they (masculine) ² they (feminine) ³ they (neuter)

¹ Sections 8.1.5 and 8.1.6 present forms for these pronouns when they are not the subject or predicate nominative.

² When αὐτοί refers to a group of people, the group could consist of all males or both males and females.

³ When αὐταί refers to a group of people, the group consists only of females.

3.2 GRAMMAR OF VERBS: AN OVERVIEW

3.2.1 Introduction

Verbs are words that present an action (I walk, jump, fall) or a state of being (I am happy, I am hungry, I am full).⁴ Verbs can be changed into different forms. Those forms and the context in which they occur communicate much information about the verb including tense, voice, mood, person, and number. Consider the verb form “I am watching.”

Form	Category	Information Conveyed by the Form
I am watching.	Tense	Action is presented in progress and in present time.
	Voice	Action is performed by the subject (I).
	Mood	A declaration about the action is made.
	Person	The speaker (I; first person) performs the action.
	Number	One person (singular) performs the action.

A different verb form results in different information being conveyed. “I watched,” for example, would communicate a different tense. The form “I am watched” would communicate a different voice and so on.⁵

Greek verbs also have various forms that reflect tense, voice, mood, person, and number. Those areas are briefly introduced below.

3.2.2 Tense

In Greek, tense primarily conveys how the action or state of the verb is presented by the speaker/writer. A speaker, for example, could use one tense (the imperfect) to emphasize an action in progress by saying “He was running.” In contrast, the speaker could use another tense (the aorist) to describe the same event by saying, “He ran.” In the second instance, the speaker simply states that the action occurred without emphasizing anything else about it. Other tenses present the action in different ways. Specific tenses and how they present actions will be introduced in their respective chapters.

Additionally, tense often communicates when an action or state takes place. Whether an action occurs in the past, present, future, etc. may be shown by the particular tense form used, adverbs that modify the verb, and other time indicators in the context. In other words, it is the entire context and not just the tense form that indicates the time of the action.

Finally, tense can be a complicated subject. This grammar presents simplified explanations and examples suitable for the purposes of beginning Greek. We hope that students, while reading the Greek text, will begin to see the various possibilities involved with tense in their context. Additional study on the subject will be important.

⁴ Although stative verbs in English often include multiple words, in Greek they are often one word.

⁵ The current point is to emphasize the different forms. Knowing the overall context is, of course, also very important because it provides clues that indicate how a verb is being used. For example, in the sentence “I watch the full moon rise as often as I can,” the verb “I watch” is present tense but does not refer to present time.

3.2.3 Voice

Voice relates a verb's grammatical subject to the action (or state) of the verb. In Greek, voice can be active, middle, or passive.

Voice	Relationship of Subject to Action of Verb	Example
Active	The subject performs the action of the verb.	Judas hangs.
Passive	The subject receives the action of the verb.	Judas is hanged.
Middle	The subject performs the action of the verb and also is affected by the action in some way.	Judas hangs himself.

As with tense, the above is a simplification for the purposes of beginning Greek. Further study is necessary to adequately understand the possibilities, especially with the middle voice. For instance, some verbs in the middle voice are often best translated using the active voice because the verbs do not show the subject being affected by the action in some way.

3.2.4 Mood

Mood is a grammatical category that portrays varying degrees of certainty, conditionality, or probability of events in the speaker's (or writer's) statement. In other words, mood is a communicative way of showing the speaker's or writer's "attitude" about what is being said or written. If the intention is to give information, the indicative mood is often used. If the intention is to give an order, the imperative mood is used. If the speaker has uncertainty, the subjunctive mood is used. The following table lists the Greek moods, a very simplified description of each, and basic examples.⁶

Mood	Brief Explanation	Example
Indicative	A declaration or statement	Jesus walks to Jerusalem.
Imperative	A command or exhortation	Walk to Jerusalem.
Subjunctive	A declaration with varying degrees of certainty, probability, purpose, etc.	Jesus should walk to Jerusalem.

The verbal forms studied through chapter 21 are indicative mood. Additional information about the other moods will be given starting in chapter 22.

3.2.5 Person and Number

Person relates the speaker to the verb. Number indicates if the grammatical subject is one person or thing (singular) or more than one (plural).

Person	Relationship of Speaker to Verb	Number
		Singular	Plural
1 st	The speaker is the verb's subject.	I	we
2 nd	The person spoken to is the verb's subject.	you	you all
3 rd	The person spoken about is the verb's subject.	he/she/it	they

⁶ Greek has a fourth mood called the "optative". Since it is very uncommon in the New Testament, it is not here discussed.

3.2.6 Omega and Mi Verbs

Greek has two main groups of verbs: omega and mi. In Greek dictionaries and vocabulary lists of this grammar, omega verbs have omega (ω) as their final letter and mi verbs have mu-iota ($\mu\iota$) as the final two letters.⁷ Consider the following examples.

Omega Verbs	Mi verbs
$\dot{\alpha}\kappa\omega$ (I hear)	$\delta\dot{\iota}\delta\omega\mu\iota$ (I give)
$\check{\epsilon}\chi\omega$ (I have, hold)	$\varepsilon\dot{\iota}\mu\iota$ (I am)
$\dot{\alpha}\gamma\alpha\pi\acute{a}\omega$ (I love)	$\iota\sigma\tau\eta\mu\iota$ (I stand)
$\pi\sigma\iota\acute{e}\omega$ (I do)	$\tau\acute{i}\theta\eta\mu\iota$ (I put)

Omega verbs can be further divided into two groups: non-contract and contract. The dictionary form of contract verbs has the letter alpha (α), epsilon (ε), or omicron (\circ) immediately before the final omega (ω). Non-contract verbs have any other letter immediately before the final omega (ω).⁸

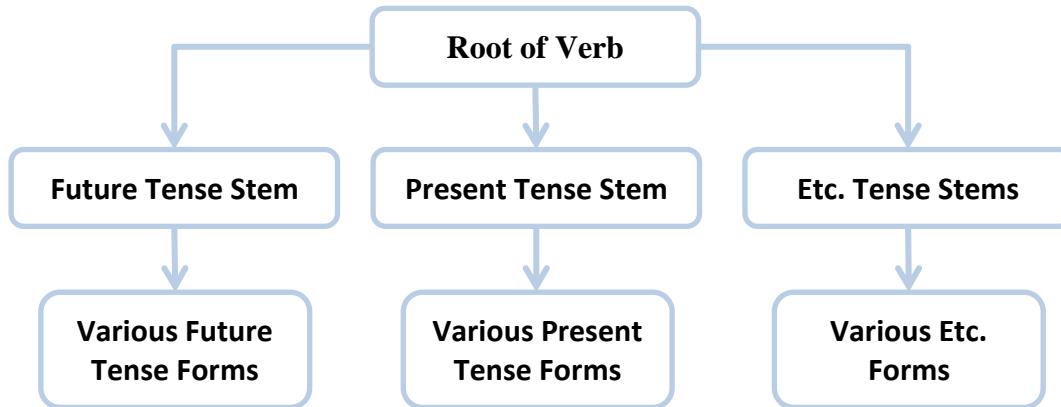

Non-Contract Verbs	Contract Verbs
$\beta\acute{a}\lambda\lambda\omega$ (I throw)	$\dot{\alpha}\gamma\alpha\pi\acute{a}\omega$ (I love)
$\check{\epsilon}\chi\omega$ (I have)	$\pi\sigma\iota\acute{e}\omega$ (I do/make)
$\lambda\alpha\mu\beta\acute{a}\nu\omega$ (I take)	$\pi\lambda\eta\rho\acute{o}\omega$ (I fulfill)

⁷ Greek dictionaries and the vocabulary lists of this grammar list most verbs according to the present, active, indicative, 1st person, singular form (I love, jump, run). This is called the dictionary form. In chapter 14, you will learn that some omega verbs have a dictionary form that ends in $\omega\mu\iota$ instead of omega (ω).

⁸ No dictionary forms of contract verbs actually occur in the New Testament ($\dot{\alpha}\gamma\alpha\pi\acute{a}\omega$, $\pi\sigma\iota\acute{e}\omega$, $\pi\lambda\eta\rho\acute{o}\omega$). In the New Testament, the final two vowels (ω and α , ε , or \circ) are always combined resulting in $\ddot{\omega}$ ($\dot{\alpha}\gamma\alpha\pi\ddot{\omega}$, $\pi\sigma\ddot{\omega}$, and $\pi\lambda\eta\rho\ddot{\omega}$).

3.2.7 Verbal Roots and Tense Stems (An important section)

The root, which is identified in this grammar by an asterisk (*), is the most basic part of a Greek verb. From the root, various tense stems such as the present tense stem, future tense stem, aorist tense stem, etc. are derived. Tense stems are identified in this grammar by a dash (-). Suffixes (letters added to the end of a word) and/or prefixes (letters added to the beginning of a word) are attached to the tense stem to create various verbal forms for that tense. The following diagram displays this basic concept.

The following table displays several examples of roots and their tense stems. For simplicity, prefixes and suffixes that are used to create the various forms are not included.

Dictionary Form	Root	Tense Stems
		Present	Future	Aorist	Etc.
λύω	λυ*	λυ-	λυ-	λυ-
εὑρίσκω	εύρ*	εύρισκ-	εύρ-	εύρ-
λαμβάνω	λαβ*	λαμβαν-	λημβ-	λαβ-	Etc.

With this or any other grammar, you will memorize the dictionary form of many verbs. This means you also will know the present tense stem for those verbs because the dictionary form is formed with that stem.⁹ However, as seen above, the present tense stem is not always identical to the root or the other tense stems. In those instances, it can be difficult to determine the verb's dictionary form and, consequently, its meaning. This difficulty is overcome by learning the root and tense stems of certain verbs.

How will you know which roots and/or stems to memorize? In the vocabulary lists, the roots to memorize appear in parentheses next to the respective verb. Stems to memorize are listed in the chapter for the respective tense. You should take the time to learn them well because there are not that many and they are very important for your success with Greek.

⁹ Simply remove omega (ω) or mu-iota (μι) from the dictionary form to find the present stem.

3.3 GRAMMAR OF PRESENT ACTIVE INDICATIVE VERBS

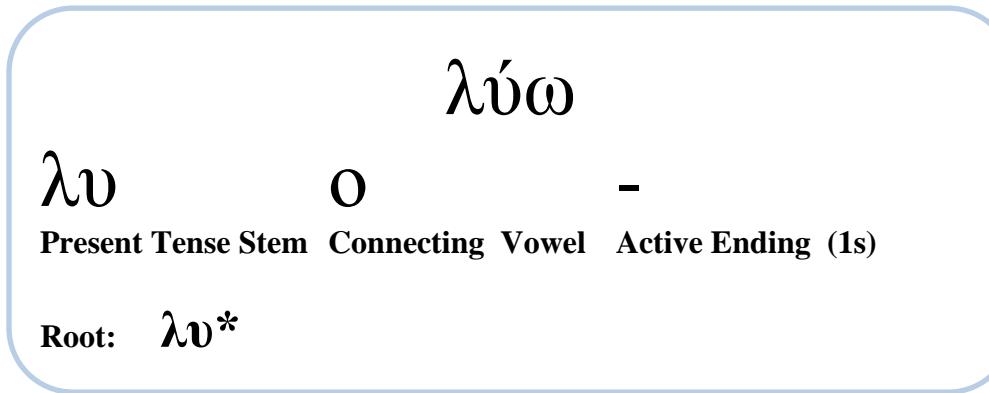

3.3.1 Present Tense

In many contexts, a verb in the present tense portrays an action (or state) as in progress. Often that action (or state) occurs at the present time from the perspective of the speaker/writer. The present tense is similar to a video showing an event as opposed to a still picture of the same event. The following table provides a summary of this information.

Tense	Example	How Action Presented	When Action Occurs [†]
Present	He is running.	In progress or continuing	Present time
[†] The time is with respect to the speaker or writer.

The above explanation is a simplification for the purposes of beginning Greek. There are other uses of the Greek present tense in terms of how the action is presented and when the action takes place.¹⁰ These will be learned as you progress in Greek. Context is always the best guide for understanding a particular usage of the present tense.

3.3.2 Overview of the Present Active Indicative Omega Verb Parts

¹⁰ For example, an author may use the present tense for an action that occurred in the past to give that action a vivid or present feel to it as if it were happening now. A present tense form may also be used to describe something that is still future in time. For now, all present tense forms will be used and translated as present time from the speaker's perspective.

3.3.3 Chart of Endings: Present Active Indicative Emphasized

The verb endings are divided into two sets: primary and secondary. Each set has endings for active and middle/passive voice. Present tense verbs use the primary endings. Those endings are attached to the present stem of omega verbs using connecting vowels. Learn the “Separate” and “Combined” endings shown below.

P/N [†]	C.V. ‡‡	Primary Endings
		Separate	Combined
Active Voice
1s	ο	-	ω ‡‡‡
2s	ε	ς	εις ‡‡‡‡
3s	ε	ι	ει
1p	ο	μεν	ομεν
2p	ε	τε	ετε
3p	ο	νσι(v)	ονσι(v) [‡]

† Person and number
 ‡‡ Connecting vowel
 ‡‡‡ Omicron (ο) lengthens to omega (ω).
 ‡‡‡‡ ε + ζ → εις
 ‡ ο + νσι(v) → ονσι(v)

The nu in parenthesis (v) is called a “movable nu.” The nu (v) is present: 1) if the verb occurs at the end of a sentence or 2) if the verb is followed by a word beginning with a consonant. Otherwise, the nu (v) is omitted.

3.3.4 Present Tense Stem of Omega Verbs

For omega verbs, the present tense stem is obtained by removing the final omega (ω) from the dictionary form. Since many verbs have present tense stems and roots that are identical, extra memorization is not required. Examples of this type are shown below.

Examples where extra memorization of the root is unnecessary

Dictionary Form	Root	Present Stem	Present Form (1s)	Translation
λύω	λυ*	λυ-	λύω	I destroy ἀγαπάω	ἀγαπα*	ἀγαπα-	ἀγαπῶ†	I love
ἀκούω	ἀκου*	ἀκου-	ἀκούω	I hear
λαλέω	λαλε*	λαλε-	λαλῶ†	I speak
πληρόω	πληρο*	πληρο-	πληρῶ†	I fulfill

† Contract verbs. See section 3.5 for vowel contraction table.

Other verbs have present tense stems that are different from the respective roots. Memorize these roots. Knowing them will be extremely important when we study the other tenses. Examples of this type are shown below.

Examples where roots should be memorized

Dictionary Form	Root	Present Stem	Present Form (1s)	Translation
ἔχω	σεχ* or ἔχ*	ἔχ-	ἔχω	I have, hold λαμβάνω	λαβ*	λαμβαν-	λαμβάνω	I take, receive

In the vocabulary lists, a root is listed in parentheses if it is significantly different from the present tense stem. Learn those roots well.

3.4 OMEGA VERBS: PRESENT ACTIVE INDICATIVE

Memorize the forms of λύω.

Person	Subject Pronoun	Stem	Vowel	Ending	Form	Translation
Number: Singular
1 st	ἐγώ (I)	λυ-	ο	-	λύω	I untie I am untying
2 nd	σύ (you)		ε	ς	λύεις	you untie you are untying
3 rd	αὐτός (he) αὐτή (she) αὐτό (it)		ε	ι	λύει	he/she/it unties he/she/it is untying
Number: Plural
1 st	ἡμεῖς (we)	λυ-	ο	μεν	λύομεν	we untie we are untying
2 nd	ὑμεῖς (you pl)		ε	τε	λύετε	you (pl) untie you (pl) are untying
3 rd	αὐτοί (they masc.) αὐταί (they fem.) αὐτά (they neut.)		ο	νσι(v) †	λύονται(v) †	they untie they are untying
† Moveable nu (v). See section 3.3.3.

In a Greek sentence, the subject pronouns do not have to be explicitly stated. This is because the verb endings identify the person (1st, 2nd, or 3rd) and number (singular or plural) of the verb. Consequently, the presence of a subject personal pronoun sometimes indicates that the speaker is emphasizing the subject.

3.5 CONTRACT VERBS: PRESENT ACTIVE INDICATIVE

These verbs use the same primary active endings as omega verbs (ω, εις, ει, ομεν, ετε, and ουσι(ν)). However, those endings interact with the contract vowels alpha (α), epsilon (ε), and omicron (ο) resulting in new vowel combinations.¹¹ The forms are shown in the following table. Focus on recognition of the endings, especially on the alpha (α) and epsilon (ε) verbs, not memorization.¹²

Person	Subject Pronoun	non-contract	ε contract	α contract	ο contract
		λυ-	ποιε-	ἀγαπα-	πληρο-
Number: Singular
1 st	ἐγώ (I)	λύω	ποιῶ	ἀγαπῶ	πληρῶ
2 nd	σύ (you)	λύεις	ποιεῖς	ἀγαπᾷς	πληροῖς
3 rd	αὐτός (he) αὐτή (she) αὐτό (it)	λύει	ποιεῖ	ἀγαπᾷ	πληροῖ
Number: Plural
1 st	ἡμεῖς (we)	λύομεν	ποιοῦμεν	ἀγαπῶμεν	πληροῦμεν
2 nd	ὑμεῖς (you all)	λύετε	ποιεῖτε	ἀγαπᾶτε	πληροῦτε
3 rd	αὐτοί (they masculine) αὐταί (they feminine) αὐτά (they neuter)	λύουσι(ν)	ποιοῦσι(ν)	ἀγαπῶσι(ν)	πληροῦσι(ν)

The following table summarizes the most common vowel changes from above. Learning these changes will be helpful in understanding these and other forms of contract verbs.

1st Vowel + 2nd Vowel = Combination α
ε	+	ω	=	ω ο
ε	+	ο	=	ου
ο
ο	+	ε	=	ου
ε	+	ε	=	ει
α	+	ε	=	α
α	+	ο	=	ω

¹¹ If a contracted vowel has an accent, it will always be a circumflex because two vowel syllables have been combined into one. The result is always a long vowel or a diphthong.

3.6 EXERCISES

Read the following sentences out loud and then translate them. Also, for the first 30 exercises, “parse” every verb. Parse means to write the tense, voice, mood, person, number, dictionary form, and meaning of each verb. Always write those elements in that order. Using that order consistently will help with learning.

2. Υμεῖς λαμβάνετε.
3. Σὺ λύεις.
4. Αὐτὸς λαμβάνει.

4 PRESENT ACTIVE INDICATIVE MI VERBS

4.1 GRAMMAR OF MI VERBS

4.1.1 Mi and Omega Verbs

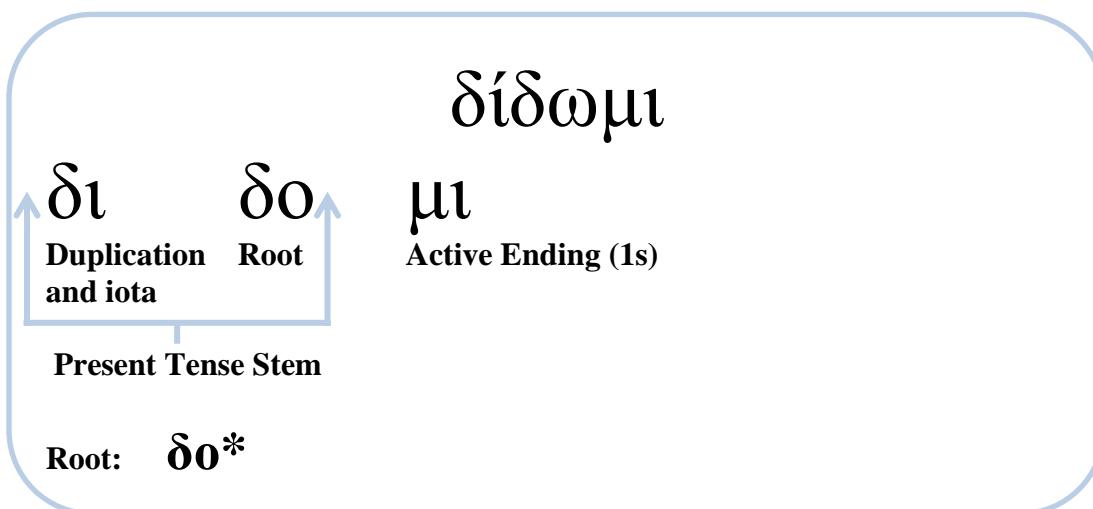

As mentioned, Greek has two main groups of verbs: omega and mi. In Greek dictionaries and vocabulary lists of this grammar, the final letter of omega verbs is omega (ω), and the last two letters of mi verbs are mu-iota ($\mu\iota$).¹ Consider the following examples.

Omega Verbs	Mi verbs
ἀκούω (I hear)	δίδωμι (I give) ἔχω (I have)	εἰμί (I am)
ἀγαπάω (I love)	ἵστημι (I stand)
ποιέω (I do)	τίθημι (I put)

4.1.2 Meaning of Forms

The discussions in sections 3.2.1 through 3.2.7 and section 3.3.1 also apply to mi verbs.

4.1.3 Overview of the Present Active Indicative Mi Verb Parts

¹ Later you will learn that the dictionary form of some omega verbs ends in ομαι.

4.1.4 Present Active Indicative Endings of Mi Verbs

Unlike omega verbs, mi verbs do not normally use connecting vowels. The mi endings are attached directly to the tense stem, which sometimes results in a lengthening of the final stem vowel. Also, some of the mi endings are different from the respective omega endings. Despite these differences, many similarities remain.

P/N	Active Endings
	Omega (ω)	Mi (μι)
Number: Singular
1s	ω	μι
2s	εις	ς
3s	ει	σι(v)
Number: Plural
1p	ομεν	μεν
2p	ετε	τε
3p	ουσι(v)	ασι(v)

4.1.5 Present Tense Stem of Mi Verbs

Since the present tense stems of mi verbs are very different from the respective roots, it is important to memorize the roots and understand how the roots transform into the present tense stem. Although the process is not complicated, success with mi verbs depends largely on those two points. Consider the following example.²

Formation of the Present Tense Stem of Mi Verb δίδωμι

Step	Explanation	Result
1	Begin with the root.	δο*
2	Duplicate the root's first letter.	δδο
3	Insert iota between the duplicated letters. (Present tense stem)	διδο-
4	Attach the ending. (First person singular is used here.)	διδομι
5	The stem vowel may lengthen. (ο → ω).	διδωμι

² These steps do not describe a historical development of a process. They are simply for identification purposes.

The above steps vary slightly with some mi verbs because of pronunciation issues. Consider two new examples compared with δίδωμι.

Formation of the Present Tense Stems of Mi Verbs δίδωμι, τίθημι, and ἰστημι

1.	2.	3a.	3b.	4.	5.
Root	Duplication	Iota	Spelling Change	Ending	Vowel Lengthening [†]
δο*	δδο-	διδο-	διδο-	διδομι	δίδωμι
θε*	θθε-	θιθε-	τιθε- ^{††}	τιθεμι	τίθημι
στα*	σστα-	σιστα-	ιστα- ^{†††}	ισταμι	ἰστημι

[†] With plural endings, this vowel lengthening often does not occur.
^{††} Theta (θ) becomes tau (τ).
^{†††} Sigma (σ) here becomes a rough breathing mark (').³

Some mi verbs, such as ἀποδίδωμι, have been formed by adding a preposition (ἀπό) to the beginning of the basic verb (δο*). In these cases, the duplication with iota (ι) precedes the basic verb, not the initial preposition. The following table provides examples of that process.

Formation of the Present Tense Stem of Mi Verbs with Initial Preposition

1.	2.	3a.	3b.	4.	5.
Root	Duplication	Iota	Spelling Change	Ending	Vowel Lengthening
ἀπο+δο*	ἀπο+δδο-	ἀπο+διδο-	ἀποδιδο-	ἀποδιδομι	ἀποδίδωμι
παρα+δο*	παρα+δδο-	παρα+διδο-	παραδιδο-	παραδιδομι	παραδίδωμι
ἀνα+στα*	ἀνα+σστα-	ἀνα+σιστα-	ἀνιστα- [†]	ἀνισταμι	ἀνίστημι
παρα+στα*	παρα+σστα-	παρα+σιστα-	παριστα-	παρισταμι	παρίστημι
ἐπι+θε*	ἐπι+θθε-	ἐπι+θιθε-	ἐπιτιθε-	ἐπιτιθεμι	ἐπιτίθημι
ἀπο+ξ*	ἀπο+ ξ- ^{††}	ἀπο+ιξ-	ἀφιε- ^{†††}	ἀφιεμι	ἀφίημι

[†] The sigma (σ) drops out because it is between two vowels; alpha (α) is omitted.
^{††} The duplicated letter is the rough breathing mark (''.
^{†††} Omicron (ο) is omitted; the rough breathing mark (') changes pi (π) to phi (φ).

The goal is not for the student to reproduce perfectly the above tables. The goal is for the student to identify the markings of this process and understand their meaning. The key markings are the duplication of the root's first letter and iota (ι) insertion. If those markings are present, the present tense stem is being used. If absent, one of the other tense stems is being used. In other words, the other tense stems of mi verbs only include the root (δο*, θε*, στα*, etc.). They do not include the duplication with iota (διδο, τιθε, ιστα, etc.). If you learn to associate the mi verb's root with the dictionary form, identifying mi verb forms will be much easier.

4.2 MI VERBS: PRESENT ACTIVE INDICATIVE

The following chart shows four common mi verb patterns. Memorization of each pattern is not the goal. Learn to recognize the present tense stem and the endings.⁴

Person	Subject Pronoun	Mi Ending	Verbal Root
			δο*	στο*	θε*	ἀπο+ξ*
			Present Tense Stem
			διδο-	ιστα-	τιθε-	ἀφιε-
			(give)	(set)	(put)	(leave)
Number: Singular
1 st	ἐγώ (I)	μι	δίδωμι	ἴστημι	τίθημι	ἀφίημι
2 nd	σύ (you)	ς	δίδως	ἴστης	τίθης	ἀφεῖς
3 rd	αὐτός (he) αὐτή (she) αὐτό (it)	σι(v)	δίδωσι(v)	ἴστησι(v)	τίθησι(v)	ἀφίησι(v)
Number: Plural
1 st	ἡμεῖς (we)	μεν	δίδομεν	ἴσταμεν	τίθεμεν	ἀφίομεν
2 nd	ὑμεῖς (you all)	τε	δίδοτε	ἴστατε	τίθετε	ἀφίετε
3 rd	αὐτοί (they masc.) αὐταί (they fem.) αὐτά (they neut.)	ασι(v)	διδόασι(v)	ἴστᾶσι(v)	τιθέασι(v)	ἀφίουσι(v)

4.3 Εἰμί: PRESENT ACTIVE INDICATIVE

The verb εἰμί is presented separately from the other mi verbs because the duplication with iota is not always obvious and because a few of the endings differ. Since εἰμί is very common, memorization of its forms is necessary.

Person	Subject Pronoun	Verb	Translation
Number: Singular
1 st	ἐγώ (I)	εἰμί	I am
2 nd	σύ (you)	εἶ	you are
3 rd	αὐτός (he) αὐτή (she) αὐτό (it)	ἐστί(ν)	he is she is it is
Number: Plural
1 st	ἡμεῖς (we)	ἐσμέν	we are
2 nd	ὑμεῖς (you all)	ἐστέ	you (plural) are
3 rd	αὐτοί (they masc.) αὐταί (they fem.) αὐτά (they neut.)	εἰσί(ν)	they are

⁴ The first and third person singular endings are the most common.

4.4 EXERCISES

Read the following sentences out loud and then translate them. For the first 30 exercises, parse (write the tense, voice, mood, person, number, dictionary form, and meaning of) every verb.

In the following sentences, you will notice that when the dictionary form of a noun occurs it is usually the subject of the sentence. By changing the end of a noun to nu (v), it can function as the direct object of the verb (it receives the action of the verb).

Example: Ἐγὼ πιστεύω τὸν λόγον.
I believe the word.

Explanation: ἐγώ is the subject because 1) it is a subject personal pronoun and 2) πιστεύω has the 1s ending for “I.”

ὁ λόγος has changed to τὸν λόγον because “the word” is what is believed. It is the object of the verb πιστεύω.

1. Σὺ εἰ ὁ ἄνθρωπος.
2. Αὐτὸς ἔστιν ὁ ἀδελφός.
3. Ἐγὼ λαμβάνω καὶ ὑμεῖς δίδοτε.

5 FIRST AND SECOND DECLENSION NOUNS (SINGULAR)

5.1 GRAMMAR

5.1.1 Definition

A noun is a word naming a person (Jesus), place (Israel), thing (book), or concept (peace).

5.1.2 Case

Nouns can have different functions (or uses) in a sentence. Consider the following examples.

	Example	Function of the Underlined Noun
1.	John reads.	Subject (the one reading)
2.	John reads the book .	Direct object (what is read)
3.	John reads the book to Peter .	Indirect object (to whom the book is read)
4.	John reads Andrew's book to Peter.	Indicates possession (the book's owner)

In English, word order is often important in determining a word's function in a sentence. The subject, for example, normally comes before the verb. The direct object is usually after the verb. In Greek, word order is much less important because nouns have different forms (sets of letters attached to the noun) that help indicate its function in the sentence. This means, for example, that the subject could be placed at the end of the sentence. The different forms that indicate the word's function are called "cases."¹

Greek has five cases: nominative, genitive, dative, accusative, and vocative.² The basic function of each case and some examples are given in the following table. If the examples were in Greek, the bolded word would have a form corresponding to the case on the same line. Other functions of the cases will be mentioned later.

	Case Name	Possible Functions	Examples
1.	Nominative	Subject Predicate nominative ³	A man speaks. He is a man . ⁴
2.	Genitive	Similar to "of"	The house of a man stands.
3.	Dative	Indirect object	He speaks to a man .
4.	Accusative	Direct object	God loves man .
5.	Vocative	One spoken to	Lord, Lord , did we not prophesy?

³ The predicate nominative only occurs with forms of the verbs "to be" (εἰμί, γίνομαι, ὑπάρχω, etc.).

⁴ Both "he" and "a man" are in the nominative case, "He" because it is the subject and "a man" because it is the predicate nominative.

5.1.3 Declensions

Noun endings in Greek can be grouped into three basic sets based on the similar ways they are spelled. These groups are called “declensions.” This chapter presents the endings for first and second declension nouns. Chapters 10 and 11 present the endings for third declension nouns.

5.1.4 Gender

Greek noun endings indicate the “gender” of the noun. Greek has three genders: masculine, feminine, and neuter. Gender refers to the anatomical sex of a person (or animal) in the case of pronouns such as αὐτός (he), αὐτή (she), and sometimes αὐτό (it). Otherwise, gender conveys no intrinsic meaning.⁵ It is simply a grammatical feature of the language that helps to link words. Chapter 12 will clarify that concept further.

The following table displays the gender endings for the dictionary form (nominative singular) of most first and second declension words.⁶

Declension	Gender	Final Letter(s)	Example(s)
Second	Masculine	ος	ἄγγελος (angel, messenger)
First	Feminine	α or η	καρδία (heart); ἀγάπη (love)
Second	Neuter	ον	τέκνον (child)

5.1.5 Number

Greek noun endings also indicate if the noun is singular or plural. A singular ending normally indicates that one person or item is present (“child” or “book”). A plural ending normally indicates that more than one person or item is present (“children” or “books”).

5.1.6 Stem

The stem is the most basic part of a noun. The different case endings (sets of letters) are attached to the stem. Consider the following examples.

Stem	Nominative		Meaning
	Ending	Form
ἀνθρωπο-	ς	ἄνθρωπος	man
ἡμερα-	None	ἡμέρα	day
γραφη-	None	γραφή	Scripture
ἔργο-	ν	ἔργον	work

In the column “Form,” the stem vowel and ending are bolded (ος, α, η, ον). Although not technically correct, that combination is presented as the “case endings.”

⁶ Some exceptions exist. The word οδός (road), for example, is feminine. These will be learned later.

5.2 FORMS OF SINGULAR NOUNS

5.2.1 Separated Endings

Memorize the following endings (stem vowels and endings) for first and second declension nouns.

Case	2 nd Declension	1 st Declension	2 nd Declension
	Masculine	Feminine	Neuter
Singular
Nominative	ος	α	η
Genitive	ον	ας	ης
Dative	ω	α	η
Accusative	ον	αν	ην

Observe the following similarities:

- The genitive ending is the same for masculine and neuter genders (ον).
- The final letter of the dative ending is the same for all three genders (ω).
- The final letter of the accusative ending is the same for all three genders (ν).
- The nominative and accusative ending is the same for the neuter gender (ον).⁷

5.2.2 Attached Endings

In the following table, the above endings are attached to example nouns.

Case	2 nd Declension	1 st Declension	2 nd Declension
	Masculine	Feminine ⁸	Neuter
Singular
Nominative	ἀνθρωπος	ἡμέρα	γραφή
Genitive	ἀνθρώπου	ἡμέρας	γραφῆς
Dative	ἀνθρώπῳ	ἡμέρᾳ	γραφῇ
Accusative	ἀνθρωπον	ἡμέραν	γραφήν

Since the nominative and accusative forms of neuter words are identical, the context must be carefully examined to determine the word's function in the sentence.

⁷ Some nominative and accusative neuter forms will not have the nu (ν).

⁸ Some feminine words, such as δόξα (glory), follow a pattern that is a combination of the two feminine patterns. If the letter before the alpha (α) is iota (ι), epsilon (ε), or rho (ρ), the alpha ending is retained in all forms (except genitive plural). Otherwise, the pattern is:

Singular

Nominative:	δόξα
Genitive:	δόξης
Dative:	δόξῃ
Accusative:	δόξαν

5.2.3 Translation Examples

Greek examples of the cases follow. When necessary, the indefinite article “a” is included in the translation.

5.3 EXERCISES

Read the following sentences out loud and then translate them. For the first 30 exercises, parse the word in bold. In other words, if the bolded word is a noun, write its case, gender, number, dictionary form, and meaning. If the word is a verb, write its tense, voice, mood, person, number, dictionary form, and meaning.

You have already learned several of the Greek forms for the definite article “the” (ό, ή, τό, τόν). Numerous other forms exist. Some appear in the following exercises before the noun to which they belong. Examples include: τοῦ, τῆς, τῷ, τῇ, and τήν. The article and noun have the same case, gender, and number. Here are translation options:

- In many instances, simply translate the article as “the.”
- If the noun is genitive, the article is often translated “of the” or add “’s” to the noun.
- If the noun is dative, the article is often translated “to the”.
- If it is with a proper noun, the article should usually be left untranslated.
- If the article is absent, sometimes the indefinite article “a” should be added.

We will learn more about the article in chapter 7.

 Μνημόνευε οὖν πόθεν ἤ πέπτωκας, καὶ μετανόησον, καὶ τὰ πρῶτα ἔργα ποίησον.
 Therefore, remember from where you have fallen, repent and do the first works.

7 THE ARTICLE

7.1 GRAMMAR

7.1.1 Definition and Use

English has an indefinite article (a, an) and definite article (the). The indefinite article describes something in a general way (I see a ball). The definite article describes something in a more specific way (I see the ball).

Greek only has the definite article (ό, ή, τό). It does not have the indefinite article. When present, the article specifies or points to a noun. To describe something in a general way, the article is omitted.

The above is only a basic introduction to the article. Other functions exist, and the best way to learn those uses is to observe them in context. This is particularly important because languages use the article differently. Some languages include the article where other languages omit it and vice versa.

7.1.2 Case

The article has forms corresponding to the various cases. The case of the article will match the case of any noun it specifies or modifies. For example, if a noun is in the nominative case, the corresponding article will also be in the nominative case. If the noun is in the genitive case, the corresponding article will be in the genitive case and so on.

7.1.3 Gender

The article has masculine, feminine, and neuter forms. The gender of the article will match the gender of the noun it is modifying. For example, if a noun is feminine, the corresponding article will be feminine and so on.

7.1.4 Number

The article has singular and plural forms. The number of the article will match the number of the noun it is modifying. For example, if a noun is singular, the corresponding article will be singular.

7.1.5 Importance: The Article Never Lies

Knowing the article's forms is extremely valuable for reading Greek because, as stated above, the article agrees with the noun it modifies in case, gender, and number. This means that, if you cannot identify the form of a particular noun but an article is present with the noun, you can assume they go together and use the case, gender, and number of the article to identify those elements of the noun. They will be the same. The Greek article never lies! That is why the article is your new best friend. Learn its forms very well.

7.2 ARTICLE FORMS

7.2.1 Individual Forms

The article is easy to learn because, in most instances, it is tau (τ) followed by the noun case ending. Memorize this entire table thoroughly.

8 PERSONAL AND REFLEXIVE PRONOUNS

8.1 PERSONAL PRONOUNS

8.1.1 Definition and Use

A pronoun is a word that takes the place of another noun in a sentence to avoid repetition. Personal pronouns usually refer to specific people or things. Greek examples include ἐγώ (I), σύ (you), αὐτός/αὐτή/αὐτό (he/she/it), ήμεῖς (we), ύμεῖς (you all), αὐτοί/αὐται/αὐτά (they).

8.1.2 Case

Greek personal pronouns can be formed into the various cases. The case of the pronoun is determined by its function in the sentence. The following chart provides a basic review of the cases with the pronoun “I”.

	Case Name	Function	Examples
1.	Nominative	Subject	I live.
2.	Genitive	Similar to “of”	My Savior lives.
3.	Dative	Indirect object	God gives life to me .
4.	Accusative	Direct object	God helps me .

The forms given in chapter 3 were the nominative case. This chapter presents forms for the other cases.

8.1.3 Gender

First (ἐγώ; ήμεῖς) and second (σύ; ύμεῖς) person pronouns do not have forms that reflect gender. The third person pronoun (αὐτός/αὐτή/αὐτό) does reflect gender. The gender of the third person pronoun will match the gender of the noun to which it refers (the antecedent).

8.1.4 Number

Pronouns can be singular or plural. The pronoun’s number will match the number of the antecedent. If the antecedent is singular, for example, the corresponding pronoun will be singular and so on.

8.1.5 First (ἐγώ, ἡμεῖς) and Second Person (σύ, ὑμεῖς) Forms

Case	1 st Person	Translation	2 nd Person	Translation
Singular ¹
Nominative	ἐγώ	I	σύ	you
Genitive	μού	ἐμοῦ [†]	my (of me)	σοῦ	your (of you)
Dative	μοί	ἐμοί [†]	to me	σοί	to you
Accusative	μέ	ἐμέ [†]	me	σέ	you
Plural
Nominative	ἡμεῖς	we	ὑμεῖς	you
Genitive	ἡμῶν	our (of us)	ὑμῶν	your (of you)
Dative	ἡμῖν	to us	ὑμῖν	to you
Accusative	ἡμᾶς	us	ὑμᾶς	you

[†] Spelling variations of μού, μοί, and μέ. Sometimes ἐμοῦ, ἐμοί, and ἐμέ convey a little more emphasis than μού, μοί, and μέ.

8.1.6 Third Person Forms (αὐτός, αὐτή, αὐτό)

Case	αὐτός (Masculine)	αὐτή ¹ (Feminine)	αὐτό ² (Neuter)
Singular
Nominative	αὐτός	he	αὐτή	she	αὐτό	it
Genitive	αὐτοῦ	of him, his	αὐτῆς	of her, her	αὐτοῦ	of it
Dative	αὐτῷ	to him	αὐτῇ	to her	αὐτῷ	to it
Accusative	αὐτόν	him	αὐτήν	her	αὐτό	it
Plural
Nominative	αὐτοί	they	αὐταί	they	αὐτά	they
Genitive	αὐτῶν	their	αὐτῶν	their	αὐτῶν	their
Dative	αὐτοῖς	to them	αὐταῖς	to them	αὐτοῖς	to them
Accusative	αὐτούς	them	αὐτάς	them	αὐτά	them

8.1.7 Two Other Uses of Third Person Pronoun (αὐτός/αὐτή/αὐτό)

The third person pronoun αὐτός/αὐτή/αὐτό usually functions as a pronoun by replacing a noun in the sentence. Sometimes, however, αὐτός/αὐτή/αὐτό modifies a noun already in the sentence. In those instances, the use of αὐτός/αὐτή/αὐτό is either identity, which is translated “the same,” or emphatic, which is translated as “himself,” “herself,” or “itself.”²

¹ For the singular forms, the accent may or may not be present in the exercises and other Greek texts.

² At times, another word might be more appropriate for showing emphasis. For example, Luke 12:12 has “τὸ γὰρ ἄγιον πνεῦμα διδάξει ὑμᾶς ἐν αὐτῇ τῇ ὥρᾳ,” which should be translated “for the Holy Spirit will teach you in that very hour.” Different languages may communicate this emphasis differently, but the important thing is to show in some way that the referent is being emphasized. In English, for example, the best translation will sometimes be “very”.

How can the reader determine a particular use of αὐτός/αὐτή/αὐτό? To begin, the overall context is usually sufficient to determine if αὐτός/αὐτή/αὐτό is functioning as a pronoun or not. Another clue is that the identity and emphatic uses match the case, gender, and number of the noun that they modify. As for deciding between the identity and emphatic uses, the presence and position of the article is helpful. If αὐτός/αὐτή/αὐτό has the article, the use is usually identity. If αὐτός/αὐτή/αὐτό does not have the article but the noun being modified does, the use is probably emphatic. Several examples of the identity and emphatic uses are given below.

Identity Examples

Example 1: καὶ διαιρέσεις διακονιῶν εἰσιν, καὶ ὁ αὐτὸς κύριος
And there are varieties of ministries but the same Lord.

Example 2: οὐ πᾶσα σὰρξ ἡ αὐτὴ σάρξ
Not all flesh is the same flesh.

Example 3: οὐ τῷ αὐτῷ πνεύματι περιεπατήσαμεν;
Did we not walk in the same spirit?

Example 4: τὰ αὐτὰ ἐπάθετε
you suffered the same things

Example 4 shows that the identity use does not always modify a noun. Sometimes the neuter adjective functions as a noun.

Emphatic Examples

Example 5: αὐτὴ ἡ κτίσις ἐλευθερωθήσεται...
Creation itself will be set free...

Example 6: αὐτὸς Δανὶδ λέγει...
David himself says...

Example 7: αὐτὰ τὰ ἔργα ἂ ποιῶ...
the works themselves which I do...

Example 8: αὐτοὶ γινώσκετε...
You yourselves know...

Example 8 shows that sometimes the noun receiving emphasis can actually be a pronoun implicit in the form of the verb.³

³ In this instance the ending of γινώσκετε is second person plural. Therefore, the subject of the verb is ὑμεῖς (you all) even though that pronoun is not written. If αὐτοί (they) were functioning as a subject pronoun, which it is not, the form of the verb would be third person plural (γινώσκουσιν). Thus, the use of αὐτοί here is emphatic. The case of αὐτοί is nominative because the emphatic use must agree in case with the noun it is modifying. As stated above, the emphatic use also agrees with the noun it modifies in gender and number.

8.2 REFLEXIVE PRONOUNS

8.2.1 Definition and Use

A reflexive pronoun is a word that takes the place of a noun that is receiving the effect of an action performed by the same person or thing. Consider the following examples.

Example 9: έαυτὸν οὐ δύναται σῶσαι
He is not able to save himself.

Example 10: ἐγώ εἰμι ὁ μαρτυρῶν περὶ ἑμαυτοῦ
I am the one who testifies about myself.

8.2.2 Case, Gender, and Number

The case of a reflexive pronoun is determined by its function in the sentence. For example, if the pronoun is the direct object, it will be in the accusative case. When possible, the number and gender of the reflexive pronoun agree with the number and gender of the antecedent.

8.2.3 Forms of First (ἐμαυτοῦ) and Second (σεαυτοῦ) Person Reflexive Pronoun

The reflexive pronouns ἐμαυτοῦ and σεαυτοῦ do not have nominative cases. The genitive represents the dictionary forms. Additionally, plural forms of ἐμαυτοῦ and σεαυτοῦ do not occur in the New Testament. The remaining forms are listed below.

Case	ἐμαυτοῦ	Translation	σεαυτοῦ	Translation
Singular
Genitive	ἐμαυτοῦ	of myself	σεαυτοῦ	of yourself
Dative	ἐμαυτῷ	to myself	σεαυτῷ	to yourself
Accusative	ἐμαυτόν	myself	σεαυτόν	yourself

8.2.4 Forms of Third (έαυτοῦ/έαυτῆς) Person Reflexive Pronoun

The reflexive pronouns έαυτοῦ/έαυτῆς do not have nominative cases. Additionally, neuter forms of έαυτοῦ/έαυτῆς do not occur in the New Testament. The remaining forms are listed below.

Case	έαυτοῦ	Translation	έαυτῆς	Translation
Singular
Genitive	έαυτοῦ	of himself	έαυτῆς	of herself
Dative	έαυτῷ	to himself	έαυτῇ	to herself
Accusative	έαυτόν	himself	έαυτήν	herself
Plural
Genitive	έαυτῶν	of themselves	έαυτῶν	of themselves
Dative	έαυτοῖς	to themselves	έαυταις	to themselves
Accusative	έαυτούς	themselves	έαυτάς	themselves

9 RELATIVE PRONOUN, PREPOSITIONS, AND OTHER FIRST AND SECOND DECLENSION NOUN FORMS

9.1 RELATIVE PRONOUN (ὅς/ἥ/ὅ)

9.1.1 Definition and Use

A relative pronoun is a word that connects a relative clause to a sentence (or clause) by referring to a noun in that sentence. A relative clause is a phrase that provides additional information about someone or something in the sentence. The sentence “I see a woman who is walking” has the relative pronoun “who,” which refers to “a woman.” The relative clause “who is walking” gives more information about her.

9.1.2 Case, Gender, and Number

The case of the relative pronoun is determined by its use in the clause. The gender and number of the relative pronoun agree with the antecedent. The following chart provides a brief summary.

Case	Function	Examples
Nominative	Subject	Ἐφώνησαν τὸν ἄνθρωπον ὃς ἦν τυφλός They called the man who was blind
Genitive	Possession	ἥν τις βασιλικὸς οὗ ὁ νιὸς ἡσθένει there was a certain nobleman whose son was sick
Dative	Indirect object	οἴδατε ὅτι ὁ παριστάνετε ἔαυτοὺς you know that to whom you present yourselves
Accusative	Direct object	ὅπου ἦν Λάζαρος, ὃν ἤγειρεν Ἰησοῦς where Lazarus was, whom Jesus raised

9.1.3 Forms of the Relative Pronoun (ὅς/ἥ/ὅ)

With few exceptions, the relative pronouns’ forms are the same as the first and second declension noun endings but with a rough breathing mark.

Case	ὅς (Masculine)	ἥ (Feminine)	ὅ (Neuter)	Translation
Singular
Nominative	ὅς	ἥ	ὅ	who; which
Genitive	οὗ	ἥς	οὗ	of whom; whose; of which
Dative	ῷ	ῇ	ῷ	to whom; to which
Accusative	ὅν	ἥν	ὅ	whom; which
Plural
Nominative	οῖ	αῖ	ᾶ	who; which (ones)
Genitive	ῶν	ῶν	ῶν	of whom; whose; of which (ones)
Dative	οῖς	αῖς	οῖς	to whom; to which (ones)
Accusative	οὓς	ἥς	ᾶ	whom; which (ones)

9.1.4 Comparison of Forms for Relative Pronoun and Article

Since the forms of the relative pronoun are similar to the article, the following chart is provided for comparison.

Case	Masculine		Feminine		Neuter
	Article	Pronoun	Article	Pronoun	Article	Pronoun
Singular
Nominative	ό	ὅς	ἡ	ἥ	τό	ὅ
Genitive	τοῦ	οὗ	τῆς	ἥς	τοῦ	οὗ
Dative	τῷ	ῷ	τῇ	ῇ	τῷ	ῷ
Accusative	τόν	ὅν	τήν	ἥν	τό	ὅ
Plural
Nominative	οἱ	οῖ	αἱ	αῖ	τά	ᾶ
Genitive	τῶν	ῷν	τῶν	ῷν	τῶν	ῷν
Dative	τοῖς	οῖς	ταῖς	αῖς	τοῖς	οῖς
Accusative	τούς	οῦς	τάς	ᾶς	τά	ᾶ

Observe the following:

- The tau (τ) differentiates most forms of the article from the relative pronoun.
- The easiest forms to confuse are the masculine and feminine nominative singular. Regarding those forms, it is helpful to remember that the article does not have the accent.

9.2 PREPOSITIONS

The vocabulary and exercises have briefly introduced prepositions such as “ἐν with the dative” and “εἰς with the accusative.” This section summarizes that information and discusses additional aspects.

9.2.1 Summary of Prepositions Learned so Far

Preposition	Case	Possible Translation
ἀπό	genitive	from dative	-
	accusative	-
διά	genitive	through
	dative	-
	accusative	because of, on account of εἰς	genitive	-
	dative	-
	accusative	in, into ἐκ (ἐξ)	genitive	out of, from
	dative	-
	accusative	-
ἐν	genitive	- dative	by, in, with, on
	accusative	-
ἐπί	genitive	on, over, upon dative	at, by, in accusative	on, to, against κατά	genitive	down from, against
	dative	-
	accusative	according to μετά	genitive	with
	dative	-
	accusative	after
πρός	genitive	Not yet learned and uncommon
	dative	Not yet learned and uncommon
	accusative	to, towards, with

A dash (-) means that the corresponding preposition will never govern a noun in the specified case. The preposition ἀπό, for example, will only appear with a noun in the genitive and never with one in the dative or accusative.

9.2.2 Definition and Use of Prepositions

A preposition is a word that links or connects a noun to other words, usually verbs or nouns, in a sentence.¹ As a result, the preposition and noun combination have an adverbial or adjectival force. That is, the phrase provides more detail about the verbal idea or noun in terms of “how,” “when,” “where,” “why,” etc.

Consider the two sentences: “The Lord lives” and “The Lord lives in heaven.” In the first, the reader does not know “where” the living occurs. The verbal idea is more general. In the second sentence, the preposition “in” connects the noun “heaven” with the verb “lives” thereby specifying where the action occurs.

9.2.3 The Case of the Object of a Preposition

The noun accompanying or belonging to a preposition is called the object of the preposition. In the sentence “I went to the store,” the preposition is “to” and the object is “the store.” The combination is called the prepositional phrase.

In Greek, the object of the preposition is formed into the genitive, dative, or accusative case. The particular case used depends on the preposition and the meaning desired. As seen in 9.2.1, some prepositions have noun objects in one case (ἐν with dative), others in two cases (διά with genitive or accusative) or others still in three cases (ἐπί with genitive, dative, or accusative). The preposition’s meaning differs between the cases (διά with genitive is “through” but with the accusative is “because of”). Even within a particular case, the preposition’s meaning can differ depending on context (ἐν with dative could be “by,” “in,” “with,” etc.).²

9.2.4 Context is King: The Most Important Point about Prepositions

Although little words, prepositions can have many possible meanings. This is why you should learn the preposition, possible case(s), and meaning(s) for the associated case(s). It is also why, even after learning those items, that you must consider the context to be the best guide for determining the meaning of a particular preposition. After all, a vocabulary list of Greek prepositions out of context and several English translations also out of context cannot adequately communicate all the potential meanings. The vocabulary lists merely provide a good starting point. Do not be surprised when a given context demands a translation beyond the basic ones you have learned.

9.2.5 Prepositions as a Parsing Aid

As mentioned, prepositions have objects in specific cases. The object often immediately follows the preposition. Consequently, knowing the possible cases a preposition requires is a helpful parsing tool, especially when the preposition only uses one case. For example, if “ἐν” is the preposition, you should anticipate a noun (or other word) in the dative case. If “διά” is the preposition, you should anticipate a noun in the genitive or accusative case. Using these kinds of clues will help you to reinforce your knowledge of familiar noun forms and to learn unfamiliar forms.

¹ A preposition can also connect adjectives and participles functioning as nouns.

² Prepositions are function words. That means they have little content in their meaning but rely on the function they are serving in the phrase and its relationship to the rest of the sentence for meaning. You will find many definitions given for most prepositions in an English dictionary.

9.3 FIRST DECLENSION MASCULINE NOUNS

9.3.1 Explanation

Several nouns are masculine but mostly follow the pattern for first declension feminine nouns. In the vocabulary, these nouns have nominative singular forms ending in ης but genitive forms ending in ου. Examples include ὁ μαθητής (disciple) and ὁ προφήτης (prophet).

9.3.2 Forms

Except for the nominative singular, the endings are not new. Therefore, memorization is not required.³

Case	Ending	1 st Declension		Translation
		Masculine
Singular
Nominative	ης	ὁ μαθητής	the disciple
Genitive	ου	τοῦ μαθητοῦ	of the disciple
Dative	ῃ	τῷ μαθητῇ	to the disciple
Accusative	ην	τὸν μαθητήν	the disciple
Plural
Nominative	αι	οἱ μαθηταί	the disciples
Genitive	ων	τῶν μαθητῶν	of the disciples
Dative	αις	τοῖς μαθηταῖς	to the disciples
Accusative	ας	τοὺς μαθητάς	the disciples

³ Remember, the article never lies. The masculine article reveals that the noun is also masculine even though some of the endings appear feminine. When an adjective modifies these nouns, the adjectives will be masculine in form.

9.4 SECOND DECLENSION FEMININE NOUNS

9.4.1 Explanation

Several nouns are feminine but follow the pattern for second declension masculine nouns. In the vocabulary, these nouns have the feminine article but nominative and genitive singular forms of ος and ου, respectively. The most frequent example is ή όδός (way, road).

9.4.2 Forms

Since the endings are not new, memorization is not required.

Case	Ending	2 nd Declension	Translation
		Masculine
Singular
Nominative	ος	ή όδός	the way
Genitive	ου	τῆς όδοῦ	of the way
Dative	ῳ	τῇ όδῷ	to the way
Accusative	ον	τὴν όδόν	the way
Plural
Nominative	οι	αἱ όδοι	the ways
Genitive	ων	τῶν όδῶν	of the ways
Dative	οις	ταῖς όδοῖς	to the ways
Accusative	ους	τὰς όδούς	the ways

10 THIRD DECLENSION NOUNS: PART I

10.1 BASIC NOUN GRAMMAR

10.1.1 Review

The material in section 5.1 about definition, case, declensions, gender, number and stems of first and second declension nouns also applies to third declension nouns. If necessary, review that information.

10.1.2 Stem

As mentioned in 5.1.6, the stem is the most basic part of a noun to which the case endings are attached. For third declension nouns, the stem is found by removing the final two letters from the genitive form. Consider the following examples.

Word	Meaning	Genitive Form	Ending	Stem
τὸ ὄνομα	the name	ὄνόματος	ος	όνοματ-
ἡ ἐλπίς	the hope	ἐλπίδος	ος	ἐλπιδ-
ἡ γυνή	the woman	γυναικός	ος	γυναικ-

Understanding the stem is particularly helpful with third declension nouns because of certain spelling changes that occur when the case endings are added to the noun.

10.1.3 Keys to Success

Third declension nouns experience more changes in form than first and second declension nouns. With the help of the following tips, those changes should not hinder your ability to identify their form.

1. Memorize the genitive form, especially when it is so different from the nominative that you would not recognize it.
2. Memorize the endings presented in section 10.2.1.
3. Study the charts of section 10.3 to become familiar with various examples of third declension words. The charts show the most common patterns.
4. Remember that spelling changes can occur when the endings are attached to a word. Letters can sometimes be added, taken away, or combined to form new letters.
5. If the article is present, use it to identify or confirm the case, number, and gender of a third declension noun. Remember, the article never lies!

10.2 STANDARD THIRD DECLENSION ENDINGS

10.2.1 Separated Endings

Case	Masc. & Fem.	Neuter
Singular
Nominative	ζ or --	--
Genitive	οζ	οζ
Dative	ι	ι
Accusative	α or ν	--
Plural
Nominative	εζ	α
Genitive	ων	ων
Dative	σι(ν)	σι(ν)
Accusative	αζ	α

The dash -- indicates that no ending is attached. Often, the final letter of the stem drops off.

10.2.2 Comparison of First, Second, and Third Declension Endings (Standard)

Case	2 nd	1 st		2 nd	3 rd
	Masc.	Fem.	Neuter	Masc. & Fem.	Neuter
Singular
Nominative	οζ	α	η	ον	ζ or --	--
Genitive	ον	αζ	ηζ	ον	οζ	οζ
Dative	ω	α	η	ω	ι	ι
Accusative	ον	αν	ην	ον	α or ν	--
Plural
Nominative	οι	αι	α	εζ	α
Genitive	ων	ων	ων	ων	ων
Dative	οις	αις	αις	σι(ν)	σι(ν)
Accusative	ουζ	αζ	α	αζ	α

Observe the following similarities in the forms of the three declensions:

- Iota (ι), whether normal or subscript, is the final letter of the dative singular.
- Omega-nu (ων) is always the genitive plural ending.
- The nominative ending is identical to the accusative in the neuter gender.

10.3 STANDARD THIRD DECLENSION ENDINGS ON EXAMPLE NOUNS

This section presents examples of the most common third declension noun patterns. Although numerous words are presented, the goal is not necessarily memorization of the patterns. On the contrary, the examples show that memorization is not necessary because of the similarities in the patterns. The article is included as a reminder of its usefulness for identifying the noun's form.

10.3.1 Standard Endings on Masculine and Feminine Nouns

Case	Ending	Article	αἰών- (age)	πατρ- (father)	Article	γυναικ- (woman)
Singular
Nominative	ς or --	ό	αἰών	πατήρ	ἡ	γυνή
Genitive	ος	τοῦ	αἰώνος	πατρός	τῆς	γυναικός
Dative	ι	τῷ	αἰώνι	πατρί	τῇ	γυναικί
Accusative	α or ν	τόν	αἰώνα	πατέρα	τήν	γυναῖκα
Plural
Nominative	ες	οι	αἰώνες	πατέρες	αι	γυναῖκες
Genitive	ων	τῶν	αἰώνων	πατέρων	τῶν	γυναικῶν
Dative	σι(ν)	τοῖς	αἰώσι(ν)	πατράσι(ν)	ταῖς	γυναιξί(ν)
Accusative	ας	τούς	αἰώνας	πατέρας	τάς	γυναῖκας

The majority of the endings are easily recognizable despite the following changes:

- For αἰών, the nu (ν) of the root is omitted before the dative plural σι(ν).¹
- For πατήρ, epsilon (ε) or eta (η) is often inserted within the stem.
- For γυναικός, the kappa (κ) has changed to xi (ξι) because of the sigma (σ) in the dative plural σι(ν).²

¹ This omission will occur with other letters as well, such as delta (δ), theta (θ), and tau (τ).

² This change to xi (ξ) will occur when the preceding letter is a gamma (γ), kappa (κ), or chi (χ).

10.3.2 Standard Endings on Neuter Nouns

Case	Ending	Article	πνευματ- (spirit)	ὄνοματ- (name)	ὑδατ- (water)	φωτ- (light)
Singular
Nominative	--	τό	πνεῦμα	ὄνομα	ὕδωρ	φῶς
Genitive	ος	τοῦ	πνεύματος	ὄνόματος	ὕδατος	φωτός
Dative	ι	τῷ	πνεῦματι	ὄνόματι	ὕδατι	φωτί
Accusative	--	τό	πνεῦμα	ὄνομα	ὕδωρ	φῶς
Plural
Nominative	α	τά	πνεύματα	ὄνόματα	ὕδατα	φῶτα
Genitive	ων	τῶν	πνευμάτων	ὄνομάτων	ὕδατων	φώτων
Dative	σι(ν)	τοῖς	πνεύμασι(ν)	ὄνόμασι(ν)	ὕδασι(ν)	φώσι(ν)
Accusative	α	τά	πνεύματα	ὄνόματα	ὕδατα	φῶτα

The majority of the endings are easily recognizable despite the following changes:

- For πνεῦμα and ὄνομα, the tau (τ) at the end of the stem is omitted in the nominative and accusative singular. Most of the other cases retain the tau (τ) and all the other cases have an extra syllable.
- For all four words, the tau (τ) is omitted before the sigma (σ) of the dative plural form σι(ν).

11 THIRD DECLENSION NOUNS: PART II

11.1 GRAMMAR

Review the grammar of section 10.1 because it also applies to this chapter.

11.2 ALTERNATE THIRD DECLENSION ENDINGS

The “standard” endings of the previous chapter and the “alternate” endings of this chapter are actually identical. However, when the endings are attached to certain nouns, spelling changes occur that are significant enough to warrant presenting these endings as “alternate.” Since not all the cases are affected, only a few new “endings” must be learned.

11.2.1 Separated Endings

The “new” endings that should be learned are in bold. The brackets [] indicate the result after the final letter(s) of the noun’s stem and ending interact.

Case	Masc. & Fem.	Neuter
Singular
Nominative	ζ or --	--
Genitive	[εω]ζ	[ον]ζ
Dative	ι	ι
Accusative	α or ν	--
Plural
Nominative	[ει]ζ	[η]
Genitive	ων	ων
Dative	σι(ν)	σι(ν)
Accusative	[ει]ζ	[η]

11.2.2 Comparison of First, Second, and Third Declension Endings

Case	2 nd	1 st	2 nd	3 rd
	Masc.	Fem.	Neut.	Standard		Alternate
				Masc./Fem.	Neut.	Masc./Fem.	Neut.
Singular
Nominative	ος	α	η	ον	ζ or --	--	ζ or --	--
Genitive	ον	ας	ης	ον	ος	ος	[εω]ζ	[ον]ζ
Dative	ω	ᾳ	ῃ	ῳ	ι	ι	ι	ι
Accusative	ον	αν	ην	ον	α or ν	--	α or ν	--
Plural
Nominative	οι	αι	α	εζ	α	[ει]ζ	[η]
Genitive	ων	ων	ων	ων	ων	ων	ων
Dative	οις	αις	οις	σι(ν)	σι(ν)	σι(ν)	σι(ν)
Accusative	ους	ας	α	ας	α	[ει]ζ	[η]

Observe the following similarities in the forms of the three declensions:

- Iota (ι), whether normal or subscript, is the final letter of the dative singular.
- Omega-nu (ων) is always the genitive plural ending.
- Iota-sigma (ιζ) or sigma-iota (σι) appears in all dative plural endings.
- The nominative and accusative neuter endings are always identical.

11.3 ALTERNATE THIRD DECLENSION ENDINGS ON EXAMPLE NOUNS

As with section 10.3, the following are common third declension noun patterns. The goal is not necessarily memorization but recognition of the word's case, gender, and number. The article is included as a reminder of its usefulness for identifying the noun's form.

11.3.1 Alternate Endings on Masculine and Feminine Nouns

Case	Ending	Article	ἀρχιερε ¹ (chief priest)	Article	πολι ² (city)	συνειδησι ¹ (conscience)
Singular
Nominative	ς --	ό	ἀρχιερεύς	ή	πόλις	συνείδησις
Genitive	[εω]ς	τοῦ	ἀρχιερέως	τῆς	πόλεως	συνειδήσεως
Dative	ι	τῷ	ἀρχιερεῖ	τῇ	πόλει	συνειδήσει
Accusative	α ν	τόν	ἀρχιερέα	τήν	πόλιν	συνείδησιν
Plural
Nominative	[ει]ς	οἱ	ἀρχιερεῖς	αἱ	πόλεις	συνειδήσεις
Genitive	ων	τῶν	ἀρχιερέων	τῶν	πόλεων	συνειδήσεων
Dative	σι(ν)	τοῖς	ἀρχιερεῦσιν	ταῖς	πόλεσιν	συνειδήσεσιν
Accusative	[ει]ς	τούς	ἀρχιερεῖς	τάς	πόλεις	συνειδήσεις

The majority of the endings are easily recognizable despite the following changes:

- For ἀρχιερεύς, upsilon (υ) appears in the nominative singular and dative plural but not in the other cases.
- For πόλις and συνείδησις, the iota (ι) changes to epsilon (ε) in several cases.³

11.3.2 Alternate Endings on Neuter Nouns

Case	Ending	Article	ἔθνε ³ - (gentile)	ὄρε ³ - (mountain)	ἔτε ³ - (year)
Singular
Nominative	--	τὸ	ἔθνος	ὄρος	ἔτος
Genitive	[ον]ς	τοῦ	ἔθνους	ὄρους	ἔτους
Dative	ι	τῷ	ἔθνει	ὄρει	ἔτει
Accusative	--	τὸ	ἔθνος	ὄρος	ἔτος
Plural
Nominative	[η]	τὰ	ἔθνη	ὄρη	ἔτη
Genitive	ων	τῶν	ἔθνῶν	ὄρέων	ἔτῶν
Dative	σι(ν)	τοῖς	ἔθνεσιν	ὄρεσιν	ἔτεσιν
Accusative	[η]	τὰ	ἔθνη	ὄρη	ἔτη

² The marker ι is used to indicate a consonantal iota.

³ This is because the original stem ending was a consonantal iota, which could function as a consonant or a vowel.

11.4 EXERCISES

Read the following sentences out loud and then translate them. For the first 30 exercises, parse the word in bold.

12 ADJECTIVES

12.1 GRAMMAR OF ADJECTIVES

12.1.1 Meaning and Uses

Adjectives are descriptive words that usually modify nouns. Examples are “big,” “small,” “long,” “short,” “happy,” or “sad.” In a Greek sentence, adjectives have three basic functions or uses. They are attributive, predicate, and substantival.

Use	Example	Description: The adjective (red)...
Attributive	The red car is fast.	modifies the noun (car).
Predicate	The car is red .	completes a thought about the noun (car).
Substantival	Red is a color.	functions as a noun.

12.1.2 Case, Gender, and Number

In Greek, an adjective can be formed into the various cases, genders, and numbers. These forms help link the adjective to a particular noun. For example, the attributive adjective will have the same case, gender, and number as the noun that it modifies. The predicate and substantival adjective will have the same gender and number as the noun to which it refers. The case of the predicate and substantival adjective will depend on its function in the clause.¹ The following table summarizes these rules of agreement.

Adjective's Use	Case of the adjective is...	Gender Number of the adjective is...
Attributive	same as the noun's.	same as the noun's.
Predicate	based on the adjective's function in clause.	same as the noun's.
Substantival	based on the adjective's function in clause.	same as the noun's.

Regarding the substantival use in particular, the different case forms are necessary so that the adjective can fill any role in the sentence that a noun would (subject, direct object, indirect object, etc.).

The following examples illustrate agreement for all three adjectival uses.

¹ As it turns out, the predicate adjective will have the same case (usually nominative) as the noun to which refers. However, it is not correct to say that they have the same case because of agreement. They have the same case by virtue of the predicate structure itself. For example, the noun to which the predicate adjective refers is usually the subject of a sentence and, therefore, in the nominative case. By definition, the predicate adjective completes a thought about that noun using the copulative verb (“to be,” εἰμί, γίνομαι, etc.), either stated or implied. The adjective will be in the nominative case because it is the predicate of the copulative verb. Thus, both noun and adjective have the same case but not because of agreement. There are instances where the noun and predicate adjective will have the same case, just not nominative.

Attributive Use

- Example 1: The good man loves God.
ο ἀγαθὸς ἄνθρωπος ἀγαπᾷ θεόν.

In the Greek, the adjective “good” has the same case, gender, and number as the noun that it modifies, “man.” The case of “man” is nominative because it is the subject.

- Example 2: God loves the good man.
θεὸς ἀγαπᾷ τὸν ἀγαθὸν ἄνθρωπον.

In the Greek, “good” has the same case, gender, and number as the noun it modifies, “man.” The case of “man” is accusative because it is the direct object of the verb “loves.”

Predicate Use

- Example 3: The man is good.
ὁ ἄνθρωπος ἐστὶν ἀγαθός.

In the Greek, “good” has the same gender and number as the noun to which it refers, “man.” The case of “man” is nominative because it is the subject. The case of “good” is nominative because its function is predicate adjective (see 5.1.2 regarding predicate nominative).

Substantival Use

- Example 4: The good love God.
οἱ ἀγαθοὶ ἀγαπῶσιν θεὸν.

The adjective “good” is not modifying a noun but functioning as a noun. In the Greek, the adjective is in the nominative case because it is the subject of the sentence. The adjective’s gender and number reflect that of the group to which it refers (good people).

12.1.3 Determining the Use of an Adjective: The Importance of the Article

Is a given adjective's use attributive, predicate, or substantival? To answer that question, first look to see if the adjective can be linked to another noun in the phrase or sentence. The overall context is one indicator of that linkage. Another indicator is agreement between the adjective and noun in case, gender, and number.² If the adjective is linked to another noun, its use is either attributive or predicate. If not linked, its use is substantival.

The article has an important role to play in this discussion. First, it can be extremely helpful in determining if an adjective can be linked to another noun. This is because the article will always agree with the noun or adjective that it modifies in case, gender, and number. Second, the presence and position of the article distinguishes between the attributive and predicate use of the adjective.

The Article's Use with Attributive and Predicate Adjectives

The following table shows the possible relationships of the article to the noun and corresponding adjective.

Position Name	Attributive Use (the good man)	Predicate Use [†] (The man is good.)
Article Present
1 st Position	ὁ ἄγιος ἀνθρωπος	ἄγιος ὁ ἀνθρωπος
2 nd Position	ὁ ἀνθρωπος ὁ ἄγιος	ὁ ἀνθρωπος ἄγιος
3 rd Position	ἀνθρωπος ὁ ἄγιος	None
Article Absent^{††}
1 st Position	ἄγιος ἀνθρωπος	ἄγιος ἀνθρωπος
2 nd Position	ἀνθρωπος ἄγιος	ἀνθρωπος ἄγιος

[†] Greek does not always include the verb “is.” Sometimes it must be supplied in the translation.

^{††} Whether the translation is “the good man” or “the man is good” must be determined from the context.

Thus, deciding between attributive and predicate use is not difficult. Simply remember the following points:

- If the adjective associated with a noun has the article, the adjective's use is attributive (the good man).
- If the noun has the article but the associated adjective does not, the adjective's use is predicate (the man is good).
- If neither noun nor adjective has the article, the context dictates whether the use is attributive or predicate.

One final way to decide between attributive or predicate use is to observe the clause or sentence containing the noun and adjective. If the clause already has a non-copulative verb (a verb other than εἰμί, γίνομαι), the adjective's use is probably attributive. If the clause has a copulative verb, predicate use is more likely.

² As noted above, the predicate adjective technically does not “agree” with the noun in case. Nevertheless, since the noun and predicate adjective will have the same case for other reasons, the language of “agreement” is here acceptable for the purposes of identifying the link between the noun and adjective.

The Article's Use with Substantival Adjectives

When an adjective is not linked to another noun in the sentence but functions as a noun, the adjective's use is substantival. The substantival adjective may occur with or without the article, although with the article is more common. When present, the article makes the adjective definite. Translating the substantival adjective to English sometimes requires the addition of words such as “man,” “woman,” or “thing,” depending on the gender of the adjective. The following table shows some examples.

Masculine		Feminine		Neuter
ό ἄγιος	the holy man	ἡ ἄγια [†]	the holy woman	τὸ ἄγιον	the holy thing
ἄγιος	a holy man	ἄγια	a holy woman	ἄγιον	a holy thing

[†] These could also be “holy church,” “holy faith,” or any other feminine noun implied or stated in the context.

12.1.4 Adjective Phrases Formed by the Article

The article (ό, ή, τό) can also be used to place prepositional phrases into an attributive position.³ In those instances, the article will agree with the noun to which it refers in case, gender, and number. Consider the following examples.

Example 5: τὸ φῶς τὸ ἐν σοὶ
the light which is in you (the light, the one in you = the light which is in you)

Example 6: ὁ τοῦ θεοῦ γὰρ νιὸς Ἰησοῦς Χριστὸς ὁ ἐν υμῖν
For the Son of God, Jesus Christ, who is in you (the one in you)

Examples 5 and 6 demonstrate that sometimes words not in Greek such as “which is” or “who is” must be added so that the translation makes sense in English.

12.2 FORMS OF ADJECTIVES

As mentioned, adjectives can be formed into the various cases, genders, and numbers. However, not all adjectives follow the same pattern to create those forms. The pattern an adjective follows depends on the specific adjective. The vocabulary lists indicate the pattern an adjective follows by providing the nominative singular forms of each gender. For example, the vocabulary lists the adjective “good” as “καλός, καλή, καλόν.” Those forms follow the first 2-1-2 pattern below. In contrast, “righteous” is listed as “δίκαιος, δίκαια, δίκαιον” and follows the second 2-1-2 pattern below. Since the endings for adjectives are similar to those of nouns, there is not much new to learn.

12.2.1 Adjective Forms of ἀγαθός, ἀγαθή, ἀγαθόν (2-1-2)

The main difference between this pattern and the next is the final vowel for feminine singular endings. Some adjectives use eta (η) and others use alpha (α).

Case	2 nd Declension	1 st Declension	2 nd Declension
	Masculine	Feminine	Neuter
Singular
Nominative	ἀγαθός	ἀγαθή	ἀγαθόν
Genitive	ἀγαθοῦ	ἀγαθῆς	ἀγαθοῦ

12.2.2 Adjective Forms of ἄγιος, ἄγια, ἄγιον (2-1-2)

Case	2 nd Declension	1 st Declension	2 nd Declension
	Masculine	Feminine	Neuter

12.2.3 Adjective Forms of πολύς (a variation of 2-1-2)

These endings are similar to those for 2-1-2 above. Only four of the forms are different. This pattern is included because πολύς (much, many) is a common word.

Case	2 nd Declension	1 st Declension	2 nd Declension
	Masculine	Feminine	Neuter
Singular
Nominative	πολύς	πολλή	πολύ

Dative	πολλοῖς	πολλαῖς	πολλοῖς
Accusative	πολλούς	πολλάς	πολλά

12.2.4 Adjective Forms of αἰώνιος, αἰώνιον (2-2)

Some adjectives use second declension masculine endings for both the masculine and feminine forms. This is evident when an adjective that looks masculine is modifying a feminine noun. It is also indicated by the dictionary entry that will have two nominative forms listed instead of three, as in αἰώνιος and αἰώνιον.

Case	2 nd Declension
	Masc./Fem.	Neuter
Singular
Nominative	αἰώνιος	αἰώνιον

Dative	αἰωνίοις	αἰωνίοις
Accusative	αἰωνίους	αἰώνια

12.2.5 Forms for εῖς, μία, ἔν (a variation of 3-1-3)

Although very few adjectives follow this exact pattern, the few that do are common. Therefore, the endings are included for reference. Only singular endings exist because εῖς means “one.”

Case	3 rd Declension	1 st Declension	3 rd Declension
	Masculine	Feminine	Neuter

13 DEMONSTRATIVE, INTERROGATIVE, AND INDEFINITE PRONOUNS AND πᾶς

13.1 DEMONSTRATIVE PRONOUNS (οὗτος, αὕτη, τοῦτο; ἐκεῖνος, ἐκείνη, ἐκεῖνο)

13.1.1 Meaning and Uses

Demonstrative pronouns are words that point or specify. The person or thing that is specified can be viewed as being near (οὗτος, αὕτη, τοῦτο; this) or far (ἐκεῖνος, ἐκείνη, ἐκεῖνο; that).¹ This perspective of near or far may be temporal, spatial, textual, or even logical.

In Greek, demonstrative pronouns function as an attributive adjective (called demonstrative adjective) or substantival adjective. As a substantival adjective, the demonstrative pronoun is often equivalent to a personal pronoun.

Use	Example	Description: Pronoun...
Attributive	Οὗτος ὁ ἄνθρωπος ἥρξατο οἰκοδομεῖν. This man began to build.	modifies a noun.
Substantival	αὕτη ἐστὶν ἡ ἐντολὴ ἡ ἐμή. This is my commandment.	functions as a noun.
	οὗτος ἔσται μέγας... He will be great...

13.1.2 Case, Number, and Gender

Similar to adjectives, demonstrative pronouns can be formed into any case, gender, and number. Demonstrative pronouns also obey the same rules of agreement for case, gender, and number that adjectives follow.

Pronoun's Use	Case of the pronoun is...	Gender of the pronoun is...	Number of the pronoun is...
Attributive	same as the noun's.	same as the noun's.	same as the noun's.
Substantival	based on pronoun's function in clause.		same as antecedent. ²

13.1.3 Demonstrative Pronouns and the Article

Unlike adjectives, demonstrative pronouns will not have an accompanying article. This is true even when they modify another noun as an attributive adjective. Therefore, the structures in 12.1.3 for other adjectives are not relevant for determining the use of the demonstrative pronoun. Context as well as case, gender, and number agreements will be the best guide to achieve that goal. The following table shows the various possible structures for the demonstrative pronoun.

¹ The three Greek words οὗτος/αὕτη/τοῦτο all mean “this”. Greek has three words because of the three genders. English only has one word for “this” because gender is not heavily used in English.

² The antecedent is the noun to which the demonstrative pronoun refers.

13.2 INTERROGATIVE PRONOUN (τίς, τί)

13.2.1 Meaning and Use

The interrogative pronoun τίς/τί means “who,” “what,” “why,” and “which.” The interrogative pronoun is used to introduce a question.

Example
1.	Τίς ἔστιν ἡ μάτηρ μου, καὶ τίνες εἰσὶν οἱ ἀδελφοί μου; Who is my mother and who are my brothers?
2.	Τί θέλεις; What do you want?
3.	Τί με ζητεῖτε ἀποκτεῖναι; Why do you seek to kill me?
4.	Τίνα ζητεῖτε; Whom do you seek?

13.2.2 Case, Gender, and Number

The case of the interrogative pronoun will match the pronoun’s function in the sentence. For example, if the pronoun is functioning as the subject, it will be in the nominative case. If it is the object, the pronoun will be in the accusative case. The pronoun’s gender and number will agree with the person/people or thing(s) being asked about.

³ The nominative and accusative forms are the most common.

13.3 INDEFINITE PRONOUN (τις, τι)

13.3.1 Meaning and Uses

The indefinite pronoun τις/τι means “any,” “anyone/anything,” “certain,” “a certain one/thing,” “some,” or “someone/thing.” The indefinite pronoun usually functions as an attributive or substantival adjective.

Use	Example	Description: Pronoun...
Attributive	Ἄνθρωπός τις κατέβαινε... A certain man went down...	modifies a noun.
Substantival	Εἴ τις ἔρχεται πρός με If anyone comes to me	functions as a noun.

13.3.2 Case, Gender, and Number

The indefinite pronoun obeys the same rules of agreement for case, gender, and number that adjectives follow.

Pronoun's Use	Case of the pronoun is...	Number Gender of the pronoun is...
Attributive	the same as the noun's.	same as noun's.
Substantival	based on the pronoun's function in clause.	same as antecedent.

13.3.3 Indefinite Pronoun and the Article

Unlike the adjective, the indefinite pronoun will not occur with the article. Also, most nouns that the indefinite pronoun modifies will not have the article. These two points are evident in the examples above. Therefore, the structures in 12.1.3 for other adjectives are not relevant for determining the use of the indefinite pronoun. Context as well as case, gender, and number agreements will be the best guide to achieve that goal.

13.3.4 Forms of τις, τι

Except for the accents, the forms are identical to the interrogative pronoun. Additionally, depending on the word that the indefinite pronoun follows, the accents listed in the following chart will vary in the Greek text.

13.4 PRONOMINAL ADJECTIVE πᾶς, πᾶσα, πᾶν

13.4.1 Meaning and Use

The pronominal adjective πᾶς/πᾶσα/πᾶν means “each,” “every,” and “all.” It usually functions as an attributive or substantival adjective.

Use	Example	Description: Adjective...

Substantival	Πᾶς ... ὅστις ἀκούει μου τοὺς λόγους Everyone who hears my words	functions as a noun.

13.4.2 Case, Gender, and Number

The pronominal adjective πᾶς/πᾶσα/πᾶν obeys the same rules of agreement for case, gender, and number as adjectives, demonstrative pronouns, and indefinite pronouns.

Pronoun's Use	Case of the pronoun is...	Number of the pronoun is...	Gender of the pronoun is...
Attributive	same as the noun's.	same as the noun's.
Substantival	based on adjective's function in clause.	same as antecedent's.

13.4.3 πᾶς, πᾶσα, πᾶν and the Article⁴

By far, the most common use of πᾶς/πᾶσα/πᾶν is as an attributive adjective. When functioning as an attributive adjective, it will almost never have an accompanying article. Thus, it has a structure similar to the demonstrative and indefinite pronouns.

Position Name	Attributive Use (every man)
Article Present with Noun
1 st Position	πᾶς ὁ ἄνθρωπος
Article Absent from Noun
1 st Position	πᾶς ἄνθρωπος

14 PRESENT MIDDLE/PASSIVE AND DEPONENT INDICATIVE VERBS

14.1 GRAMMAR

14.1.1 Present Tense

As mentioned in 3.3.1, in many contexts, a verb in the present tense portrays an action (or state) as in progress. Often that action (or state) occurs at the present time from the perspective of the speaker/writer. The present tense is similar to a video showing an event as opposed to a still picture of the same event. The following table provides a summary of that information.

Tense	Example	How Action Is Presented	When Action Occurs [†]
Present	He is running.	In progress or continuing	Present
† The time is with respect to the speaker or writer.

The above explanation is a simplification for the purposes of beginning Greek. There are other uses of the Greek present tense in terms of how the action is presented and when the action takes place. You have already seen some of these in the examples. Others will be learned as you progress in Greek. Context, as always, will be the best guide for understanding a particular usage of the present tense.

14.1.2 Voice

Voice relates the grammatical subject to the action of the verb. This chapter focuses on the middle and passive voice.

Voice	Relationship of Subject to Action of Verb	Example
Active	Subject performs the action of the verb.	Judas hangs.
Passive	Subject receives the action of the verb.	Judas is hanged.
Middle	Subject performs the action of the verb and also receives the action in some way.	Judas hangs himself.

The middle voice requires additional comment. Very frequently, the middle voice is best translated using the active voice.¹ This is true for “deponent” verbs discussed in 14.1.3 and also for a few other verbs that are not “deponent.” Sometimes, translation of the middle voice requires additional words, such as “himself,” “herself,” or “itself” to express the correct sense. Ultimately, observing the different contexts in which the middle voice is used will be the best way to learn its various subtleties.

¹ There are also instances where verbs in the passive voice should be translated as if they were active.

14.1.3 Deponent Verbs

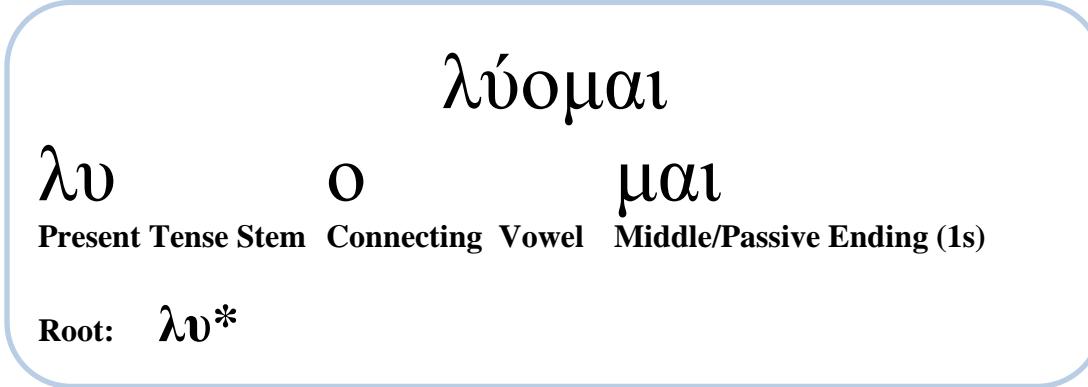

These verbs do not use active voice endings (such as ω or $\mu\iota$) in one or more tenses, only middle or passive ones (such as $\omegaματι$).² Despite using middle or passive endings, the verb is active in meaning and should be translated as such. The following table displays several very common deponent verbs.

Deponent Verb	Translation
$\gamma\acute{\iota}νοματι$	I am, become
$\xiρχοματι$	I come
$\delta\acute{u}ναματι^†$	I can, am able to
$\dot{\epsilon}\zeta\xiρχοματι$	I go out, depart
$\varepsilon\iotaσ\acute{e}ρχοματι$	I go in, enter

[†] $\delta\acute{u}ναματι$ uses alpha (α) as a connecting vowel.

Upcoming chapters about the other tenses will usually not discuss deponent verbs even though they exist for those tenses. The concept is simple enough that repetition is unnecessary.

14.1.4 Overview of the Present Middle/Passive Indicative Parts

² As the sentence implies, a verb that is deponent in one tense is not necessarily deponent in other tenses. For example, $\xiρχοματι$ (I come) is deponent in the present and future tenses (it uses middle/passive endings and not active ones) but is not deponent in what is called the aorist tense (it uses active endings and not middle/passive ones). Reading Greek regularly is the best way to learn which verbs are deponent in which tenses. Another way is to consult a Greek dictionary (lexicon) for the verb in question.

14.1.5 Chart of Endings: Present Middle/Passive Indicative Emphasized

The chart now includes the middle/passive endings.

P/N	Primary
	Separate	With C.V. [†]
Active
1s	-
2s	ς
3s	ι
1p	μεν
2p	τε
3p	νσι(ν)
Middle/Passive
1s	μαι	ομαί
2s	σαι	η
3s	ται	εται
1p	μεθα	ομεθα
2p	σθε	εσθε
3p	νται	ονται

[†] Mi verbs do not use the connecting vowel.

14.1.6 Present Tense Stem (P.T. Stem)

This stem is used to form verbs into the present middle/passive. Refer to section 3.3.4 and 4.1.5 for a brief discussion of the present tense stem. For many verbs, the present tense stem is identical to the root. These kinds of verbs do not require extra memorization. Examples of this type are shown in the following table.

Examples where extra memorization of the root is unnecessary

Dictionary Form	Root	P.T. Stem	Present Form (1s)	Translation
λύω	λυ*	λυ-	λύομαι	I am untied δύναμαι	δυν*	δυν-	δύναμαι†	I can, am able†† προσεύχομαι	προσευχ*	προσευχ-	προσεύχομαι	I pray πορεύομαι	πορευ*	πορευ-	πορεύομαι	I go††
κρίνω	κριν*	κριν-	κρίνομαι	I am judged

† δύναμαι uses a connecting vowel of alpha (α) instead of omicron (ο).
 †† The verb is deponent and, therefore, translated with active voice.

Other verbs have present tense stems that are different from the root. Memorize these roots. Knowing them will be extremely important when we study the other tenses. Examples of this type are shown below.

Examples where the root should be memorized

Dictionary Form	Root	P.T. Stem	Present Form (1s)	Translation
ἔρχομαι	ἐλθ*	ἐρχ-	ἔρχομαι	I come† γίνομαι	γεν*	γιν-	γίνομαι	I am, become† ἔγειρω	ἔγερ*	ἔγειρ-	ἔγειρομαι	I am being raised παραδίδωμι	παρα+δο*	παραδιδο-	δίδομαι	I am being given
ἀφίημι	ἀπο+έ*	ἀφιε-	ἀφίεμαι	I am forgiven

14.2 OMEGA VERBS: PRESENT MIDDLE/PASSIVE INDICATIVE

Memorize the forms of λύω.

Pronoun	Stem	Vowel	Ending	Form	Middle Translation	Passive Translation

ἐγώ	λυ-	ο	μαι	λύομαι	I untie

					you are being untied he/she/it unties
					he/she/it is being untied
Plural
ἡμεῖς	λυ-	ο	μεθα	λυόμεθα	we untie
ὑμεῖς		ε	θε	λύεσθε	we are being untied
αὐτοί, αἱ, ἀ		ο	νται	λύονται	you (pl) untie
					you (pl) are being untied

14.3 MI VERBS: PRESENT MIDDLE/PASSIVE INDICATIVE

Memorization of these forms is not necessary.

Pronoun	Verbal Root
	λυ*	δο*	στα*	θε*	ἀπο+έ*
Present Tense Stem
	λυ-	διδο-	ιστα-	τιθε-	ἀφιε-
Singular
ἐγώ	λύομαι	-	-	τίθεμαι	-

ὑμεῖς	λύεσθε	-	-	τίθεσθε	-
αὐτοί, αἱ, ἀ	λύονται	-	ιστανται	-	ἀφίενται

Each mi verb represents other mi verbs with the same root. For example, παραδίδωμι and similar verbs are categorized with δίδωμι. A dash means that the specific form of the class represented does not occur in the New Testament.

14.4 CONTRACT VERBS: PRESENT MIDDLE/PASSIVE INDICATIVE

These verbs experience vowel changes upon adding the endings (ομαι, εσαι, εται, ομεθα, εσθε, ονται). See 3.5 for the table of vowel contractions. Despite the changes, the forms are easily recognizable. Memorization is not necessary.

Pronoun	non-contract	ε contract	α contract	ο contract
λυ-	ποιε-	ἀγαπα-	πληρο-
Singular
ἐγώ	λύομαι	ποιῶμαι	ἀγαπῶμαι	πληροῦμαι
σύ	λύῃ	ποιῇ	ἀγαπᾷ	- ὑμεῖς	λύεσθε	ποιεῖσθε	ἀγαπᾶσθε	πληροῦσθε

αὐτοί, αἱ, ἄ	λύονται	ποιοῦνται	ἀγαπῶνται	πληροῦνται

Each contract verb represents all contract verbs with the same contract vowel, whether epsilon (ε), alpha (α), or omicron (ο). A dash means that the specific form for the class represented does not occur in the New Testament.

14.5 DEPONENT VERBS

As mentioned, deponent verbs use the endings for the middle/passive voice but are translated using the active voice. The following table presents those endings on the most common deponent verb. Memorization of these forms is not necessary.

Pronoun	Stem	Vowel	Ending	Form	Translation
Singular
ἐγώ	ἐρχ-	ο	μαι	ἔρχομαι	I come I am coming σύ		ε	σαι	ἔρχῃ	you come you are coming
αὐτός, ἡ, ὁ		ε	ται	ἔρχεται	he/she/it comes he/she/it is coming

15.1 GRAMMAR

15.1.1 Future Tense

As mentioned in 3.2.2, tense conveys how the action (or state of being) is described by the speaker/writer and when that action occurs in reference to the time of the speaker/writer. In terms of how, the future tense presents an action (or state) in summary form. This is similar to a still picture of an event as opposed to a video of the same event. In terms of when, the future tense often presents an action (or state) that occurs in the future from the perspective of the speaker/writer. The following chart compares these features of the future tense with the present tense.

Tense	Example	How Action Presented	When Action Occurs [†]
Present	He runs.	In progress or continuing	Present
Future	He will run.	In summary form	Future

[†] The time is with respect to the speaker or writer.

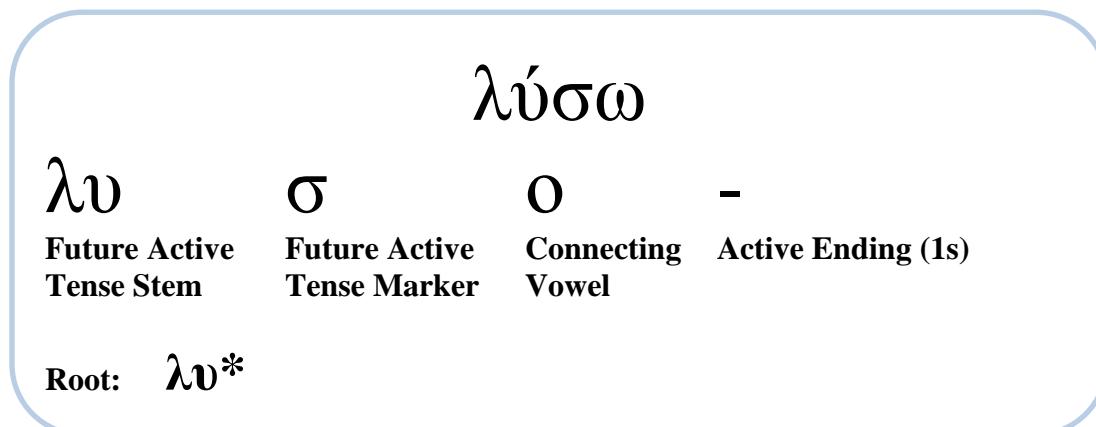

The above explanation is a simplification for the purposes of beginning Greek. Other possibilities and variations exist depending on the specific context.

15.1.2 Voice

The following table provides examples of voice for the present and future tenses. For active voice, the subject (God) performs the action of the verb (will love). The same situation can be presented in passive voice. In passive voice, the subject (John) receives the action (will be loved). Middle voice is not included because it is frequently translated as active voice.

Tense	Active Voice	Passive Voice
Present	God loves John.	John is loved by God.
Future	God will love John.	John will be loved by God.

15.1.3 Overview of the Future Active and Middle Indicative Parts

15.1.4 Tense Marker (T.M.)

A tense marker is a letter (or set of letters) that helps indicate the tense of the verb. Not all tenses will use a tense marker. When present, the tense marker occurs after the verb's stem and before the ending. The future tense marker for the active and middle voice is sigma (σ) and, occasionally, epsilon-sigma ($\varepsilon\sigma$). The sigma (σ) is clearly visible in most verbs in the future tense and partially visible in others (see 15.1.7). The epsilon-sigma ($\varepsilon\sigma$) marker is used with “liquid verbs” and is barely visible (see 15.5).

Tense	Active	Middle	Passive
Present	-	-	-
Future	σ^{\dagger}	σ^{\dagger}	Next chapter

[†] Liquid verbs use $\varepsilon\sigma$ for this marker.

15.1.5 Chart of Endings: Future Active and Middle Indicative Emphasized

P/N	Primary
	Separate	With T.M.
Active
1s	-	$\sigma\omega$
2s	ς	$\sigma\varepsilon\varsigma$
3s	ι	$\sigma\varepsilon\iota$
1p	$\mu\epsilon\nu$	$\sigma\mu\epsilon\nu$
2p	$\tau\varepsilon$	$\sigma\varepsilon\tau\varepsilon$
3p	$\nu\sigma\iota(v)$	$\sigma\mu\nu\sigma\iota(v)$
Middle/Passive		Middle
1s	$\mu\alpha\iota$	$\sigma\mu\alpha\iota$
2s	$\sigma\alpha\iota$	$\sigma\eta$
3s	$\tau\alpha\iota$	$\sigma\varepsilon\tau\alpha\iota$
1p	$\mu\varepsilon\theta\alpha$	$\sigma\mu\varepsilon\theta\alpha$
2p	$\sigma\theta\varepsilon$	$\sigma\varepsilon\sigma\theta\varepsilon$
3p	$\nu\tau\alpha\iota$	$\sigma\mu\nu\tau\alpha\iota$

15.1.6 Future Active Tense Stem (F.A. Stem)

This stem is used to form verbs into the future active and middle. For some verbs, the future active tense stem is identical to the present tense stem. This means the dictionary form of these verbs and, therefore, their meaning is easy to identify. These kinds of verbs do not require extra memorization. Common examples are shown in the following table.

Examples where extra memorization of root or future tense stem is unnecessary

Present Form	Root	F.A. Stem	Future Form (1s)	Translation
λύω	λυ*	λυ-	λύσω	I will loose
ποιέω	ποιε*	ποιε-	ποιήσω†	I will do
ζάω	ζο*	ζα-	ζήσω†	I will live
ἀγαπάω	ἀγαπα*	ἀγαπα-	ἀγαπήσω†	I will love
προσκυνέω	προσκυνε*	προσκυνε-	προσκυνήσω†	I will worship

† Contract vowels lengthen because of the tense marker ($\alpha \rightarrow \eta$; $\epsilon \rightarrow \eta$; $\omega \rightarrow \omega$).

For other verbs, the future active tense stem is not identical to the present tense stem. This means their dictionary form is not as easy to identify. However, the future tense stem of these verbs is identical or similar to the root. These roots should be memorized. Common examples are shown in the following table.

Examples where the root should be memorized

Dictionary Form	Root	F.A. Stem	Future Form (1s)	Translation
εἰμί	ἐσ*	ἐσ-	ἔσομαι	I will be δίδωμι	δο*	δο-	δώσω†	I will give εὑρίσκω	εύρ*	εύρ-	εὑρήσω††	I will find ἀπόλλυμι	ἀπο+λε*	ἀπολε-	ἀπολέσω	I will lose
γινώσκω	γνω*	γνω-	γνώσομαι†††	I will know

† Final stem vowels on mi verbs often lengthen (such as $\omega \rightarrow \omega$, $\alpha \rightarrow \eta$).

†† Connecting vowels are sometimes inserted (such as η).

††† The middle ending $\mu\alpha i$ indicates that the verb is deponent in the future tense.

For a third group of verbs, the future active tense stem is not identical to the present tense stem or root. This means their dictionary form is harder to identify. Thus, the future active form (1s) should be memorized. Common examples are shown in the following table.

Examples where the future form (1s) should be memorized

Present Form	Root	F.A. Stem	Future Form (1s)	Translation
λέγω	λεγ*	ἐρ-	ἐρῶ†	I will say όράω	όρα*	όπ-	ὄψομαι††	I will see††† ἔρχομαι	ἔλθ*	ἔλευ-	ἔλευσομαι††	I will come††† λαμβάνω	λαβ*	λαβ-	λίμψομαι††	I will receive†††
ἔσθιω	ἔσθι*	φαγ-	φάγομαι††††	I will eat†††

† This is a liquid verb. See section 15.5 for more information.

†† The tense marker sigma (σ) combines with certain consonants to form a new one (such as $\pi + \sigma \rightarrow \psi$ or $\beta + \sigma \rightarrow \psi$). See section 15.1.7 for more information.

††† These verbs are deponent in the future tense.

†††† The verb φάγομαι does not use a tense marker.

15.1.7 Changes in Roots Ending in a Labial, Guttural, or Dental

The following table shows nine consonants categorized as labial, guttural, or dental. When sigma (σ) is attached to a stem ending in one of these consonants, a new letter results. The following table shows the possible changes. Memorize this table perfectly because the changes will occur with other tenses, moods, nouns, and other parts of speech.

Letter Class	Changed Letter			Tense Marker	Result
Labial	π (pi)	β (beta)	ϕ (phi)	+ σ	= ψ
Guttural	κ (kappa)	γ (gamma)	χ (chi)	+ σ	= ξ
Dental	τ (tau)	δ (delta)	θ (theta)	+ σ	= σ^\dagger
† The dentals tau (τ), delta (δ), and theta (θ) normally drop out before a sigma (σ).

	Dictionary Form	Future Stem	Future Tense Form	Translation
1.	$\beta\lambda\acute{e}\pi\omega$	$\beta\lambda\acute{e}\pi-$	$\beta\lambda\acute{e}\psi\omega$	I will see
2.	$\acute{\nu}\pi\acute{a}\gamma\omega$	$\acute{\nu}\pi\alpha\gamma-$	$\acute{\nu}\pi\acute{a}\xi\omega$	I will depart
3.	$\delta\iota\delta\acute{a}\sigma\kappa\omega$	$\delta\iota\delta\alpha\sigma\kappa-$	$\delta\iota\delta\acute{a}\xi\omega^\dagger$	I will teach
4.	$\acute{\varepsilon}\chi\omega$	$\acute{\varepsilon}\chi-$	$\acute{\varepsilon}\xi\omega$	I will have
5.	$\sigma\acute{a}\zeta\omega$	$\sigma\omega\delta-$	$\sigma\acute{a}\sigma\omega$	I will save
† The extra sigma dropped out ($\delta\iota\delta\alpha\sigma\kappa + \sigma \rightarrow \delta\iota\delta\alpha\sigma\kappa \rightarrow \delta\iota\delta\alpha\sigma\xi \rightarrow \delta\iota\delta\alpha\xi\omega$).

15.2 OMEGA VERBS: FUTURE ACTIVE AND MIDDLE INDICATIVE

15.3 MI VERBS: FUTURE ACTIVE AND MIDDLE INDICATIVE

Mi verbs use the root (*δο) instead of the present tense stem (διδο-) to form the future tense. With the possible exception of εἰμί, memorization of these forms is not necessary.

15.3.1 Future Active Indicative Forms

Pronoun	Dictionary Form (Uses Present Tense Stem)
	λύω	δίδωμι	ἴστημι	τίθημι	ἀφίημι
	λυ-	δο-	στα-	θε-	ἀπο+ξ-
Singular
ἐγώ	λύσω	δώσω	στήσω	θήσω	ἀφήσω
σύ	λύσεις	δώσεις	-	θήσεις	ἀφήσεις
αὐτός, ἡ, ὁ	λύσει	δώσει	στήσει	θήσει	ἀφήσει

ὑμεῖς	λύσετε	-	-	-	-

15.3.2 Future Middle Indicative Forms

ὑμεῖς	λύσεσθε	ἔσεσθε	-	-	-
αὐτοί, αἱ, ἄ	λύσονται	ἔσονται	-	στήσονται	-

† εἰμί is the most common mi verb in the future tense. Additionally, it uses middle endings in the future tense, not active endings. The respective translations are: I will be, you will be, he/she/it will be, we will be, you all will be, they will be.

†† The connecting vowel epsilon (ε) is absent. This is only a minor variation when compared with the other mi verbs.

15.4 CONTRACT VERBS: FUTURE ACTIVE AND MIDDLE INDICATIVE

The final contract vowel lengthens before the sigma tense marker (σ). Memorization of these forms is not necessary.

15.4.1 Future Active Indicative Forms

Pronoun	λύω	ποιέω	ἀγαπάω	πληρόω
Singular
ἐγώ	λύσω	ποιήσω	ἀγαπήσω	πληρώσω
σύ	λύσεις	ποιήσεις	ἀγαπήσεις	πληρώσεις
αὐτός, ἡ, ὁ	λύσει	ποιήσει	ἀγαπήσει	πληρώσει
Plural
ἡμεῖς	λύσομεν	ποιήσομεν	ἀγαπήσομεν	-
ὑμεῖς	λύσετε	ποιήσετε	ἀγαπήσετε	πληρώσετε

σύ	λύσῃ	-	ἀγαπήσῃ	-
αὐτός, ἡ, ὁ	λύσεται	ποιήσεται	ἀγαπήσεται	πληρώσεται
Plural
ἡμεῖς	λυσόμεθα	ποιησόμεθα	ἀγαπησόμεθα	-
ὑμεῖς	λύσεσθε	ποιήσεσθε	ἀγαπήσεσθε	-
αὐτοί, αἱ, ἄ	λύσονται	-	ἀγαπήσονται	-

15.5 LIQUID VERBS: FUTURE ACTIVE INDICATIVE

Verbs whose roots end in lambda (λ), mu (μ), nu (ν), or rho (ρ) are called “liquid verbs.” These verbs use the epsilon-sigma tense marker ($\varepsilon\sigma$). The sigma, however, is not readily visible because of interactions between the final letter, the tense marker, and the endings. As a result, many of the forms look similar to present indicative forms. The following table provides both the present and future active forms for comparison. The future middle forms are not included because they are rare in the New Testament. Memorization of these forms is not necessary.

Pronoun	Future Stem	T.M.	Vowel	Ending	Future Form	Present Form
Singular
ἐγώ			ο	-	ἀποστελῶ	ἀποστέλλω
σύ	ἀποστελ-	εσ	ε	ς	ἀποστελεῖς	ἀποστέλλεις
αὐτός, ἡ, ὁ			ε	ι	ἀποστελεῖ	ἀποστέλλει
Plural
ἡμεῖς			ο	μεν	ἀποστελοῦμεν	ἀποστέλλομεν
ὑμεῖς	ἀποστελ-	εσ	ε	τε	ἀποστελεῖτε	ἀποστέλλετε
αὐτοί, αἱ, ἄ			ο	νσι(ν)	ἀποστελοῦσι(ν)	ἀποστέλλουσι(ν)

Three clues help to differentiate between the present and future forms of liquid verbs.

1. The future tense stem of all liquid verbs is spelled differently than the present tense stem (future tense stem: $\dot{\alpha}\pi\circ\tau\epsilon\lambda$; present tense stem: $\dot{\alpha}\pi\circ\tau\epsilon\lambda\lambda$).
2. The future tense will use circumflex accents on the final syllables, but the present tense will use acute accents on other syllables.
3. The future plural forms are different because of vowel contractions.

16 FUTURE PASSIVE INDICATIVE VERBS

16.1 GRAMMAR

16.1.1 Future Tense

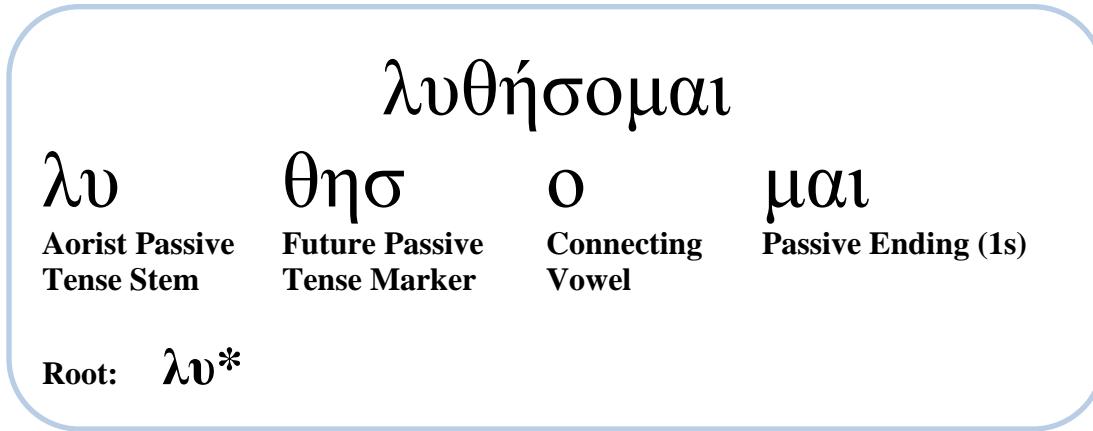

In many contexts, the future tense presents an action (or state) in summary form. Often, the action (or state) occurs in the future from the perspective of the speaker/writer. Review 15.1.1 for additional information.

16.1.2 Voice

The following table provides examples of the active and passive voice for various tenses. Middle voice is not included because it is frequently translated as active voice.

Tense	Active Voice	Passive Voice
Present	God loves John.	John is loved by God.
Future	God will love John.	John will be loved by God.

16.1.3 Overview of the Future Passive Indicative Parts

16.1.4 Tense Marker

When forming the future passive, the tense marker is often theta-eta-sigma ($\theta\eta\sigma$). For some verbs, however, the marker is simply eta-sigma ($\eta\sigma$).¹ There is no difference in meaning between these two forms.

Tense	Active	Middle	Passive
Present	-	-	-
Future	σ^\dagger	σ^\dagger	$\theta\eta\sigma^{\ddagger\dagger}$

[†] Liquid verbs use $\varepsilon\sigma$ for this marker.
[‡] Some verbs use $\eta\sigma$ for this marker.

16.1.5 Chart of Endings: Future Passive Indicative Emphasized

P/N	Primary
	Separate	With T.M.
Active
1s	-
2s	ς
3s	ι
1p	μεν
2p	τε
3p	ντι(ν)
Middle/Passive		Passive [†]
1s	μαι	θησομαι
2s	σαι	θησῃ
3s	ται	θησεται
1p	μεθα	θησομεθα
2p	σθε	θησεσθε
3p	νται	θησονται

[†] Future middle verbs use sigma (σ) as the tense marker.

16.1.6 Aorist Passive Tense Stem (Used with Future Passive Verbs)

The stem called the “aorist passive” (A.P. Stem) is used to form verbs into the future passive.² For some verbs, the aorist passive stem is identical to the present tense stem. This means the dictionary form of these verbs and, therefore, their meaning is easy to identify. These kinds of verbs do not require extra memorization. Common examples are shown in the following table.

Examples where extra memorization of root or aorist passive stem is unnecessary

Present Form	Root	A.P. Stem	Future Passive (1s)	Translation
λύω	λυ*	λυ-	λυθήσομαι	I will be loosed δύναμαι	δυν*	δυν-	δυνήσομαι [†]	I will be able to ^{††} λαλέω	λαλε*	λαλε-	λαληθήσομαι ^{†††}	I will be spoken
πληρόω	πληρο*	πληρο-	πληρωθήσομαι ^{†††}	I will be fulfilled
άκουω	άκου*	άκου-	άκουσθήσεμαι ^{††††}	I will be heard
άγαπάω	άγαπα*	άγαπα-	άγαπηθήσομαι ^{†††}	I will be loved

[†] δυνήσομαι uses ησ as a tense marker instead of θησ.

^{††} The verb is deponent and, therefore, translated with active voice.

^{†††} Contract vowels lengthen because of the tense marker (α→η; ε→η; ο→ω).

^{††††} Connecting letters are occasionally inserted.

² This stem is also used with aorist verbs to be studied later.

For other verbs, the aorist passive stem is not identical to the present tense stem. This means their dictionary form is not as easy to identify. However, the aorist passive stem of these verbs is identical or similar to the root. These roots should be memorized. Common examples are shown in the following table.

Examples where the root should be memorized

Present Form	Root	A.P. Stem	Future Passive (1s)	Translation
σωζω	σωδ*	σωδ-	σωθήσομαι†	I will be saved
δίδωμι	δο*	δο-	δοθήσομαι	I will be given ἐγείρω	ἐγερ*	ἐγερ-	ἐγερθήσομαι	I will be raised
ἀφίημι	ἀπο+έ*	ἀφε-	ἀφεθήσομαι	I will be forgiven
ἴστημι	στα*	στα-	σταθήσομαι	I will be made to stand

† Occasionally, letters are omitted.

For a third group of verbs, the aorist passive stem is not identical to the present tense stem or root. This means their dictionary form is harder to identify. Thus, the future passive form (1s) should be memorized. Common examples are shown in the following table.

Examples where the future passive form (1s) should be memorized

Present Form	Root	A.P. Stem	Future Passive (1s)	Translation
καλέω	καλε*	κλη-	κληθήσομαι	I will be called ἀποκρίνομαι	ἀπο+κριν*	ἀποκρι-	ἀποκριθήσομαι	I will answer†
βάλλω	βαλ*	βλη-	βληθήσομαι	I will be thrown κρίνω	κριν*	κρι-	κριθήσομαι	I will be judged
όράω	όρα*	όπ-	όφθησομαι††	I will be seen

† The verb is deponent and, therefore, translated with active voice.

†† Certain stem consonants change to a similar sounding one ($\gamma \rightarrow \chi$; $\pi \rightarrow \phi$; $\delta \rightarrow$ nothing). Memorization of these changes is not necessary because the words are usually recognizable.

17 IMPERFECT INDICATIVE VERBS

17.1 GRAMMAR

17.1.1 Imperfect Tense

As mentioned in 3.2.2, tense conveys how the action (or state of being) is described by the speaker/writer and when that action occurs in reference to the time of the speaker/writer. In terms of how, the imperfect tense presents an action (or state) as in progress. This is similar to a video showing an event as opposed to a still picture of the same event. In terms of when, the imperfect present an action (or state) as occurring in the past from the perspective of the speaker/writer. The following chart compares these features of the imperfect tense with the two tenses studied previously and the one to be studied in the next three chapters.

Tense	Example	How Action Presented	When Action Occurs [†]
Present	He runs.	In progress or continuing	Present
Future	He will run.	In summary form	Future
Imperfect	He was running.	In progress or continuing	Past
Aorist	He ran.	In summary form	Past

[†] The time is with respect to the speaker or writer.

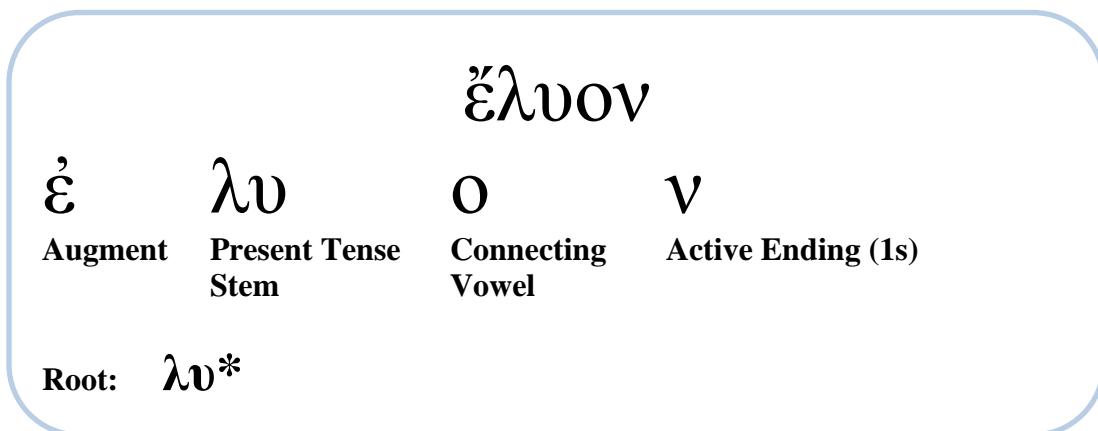

The above explanation is a simplification for the purposes of beginning Greek. Other possibilities and variations exist depending on the specific context.

17.1.2 Voice

The following table provides examples of the active and passive voice for various tenses. Middle voice is not included because it is frequently translated as active.

Tense	Active Voice	Passive Voice
Present	God loves John.	John is loved by God.
Future	God will love John.	John will be loved by God.
Imperfect	God was loving John.	John was being loved by God.

17.1.3 Overview of the Imperfect Active and Middle/Passive Indicative Parts

17.1.4 The Augment

In the indicative mood, imperfect and aorist verb forms have an identifying feature called an augment. Since this feature only occurs on imperfect and aorist indicative verbs, its presence or absence is very useful for analyzing verbal forms.¹ The augment involves one of two changes to the verb's form. If the basic verb begins with:

- a consonant, epsilon (ϵ) is added.
- a vowel, that vowel is lengthened.

Consonant as the Verb's First Letter

In this case, epsilon (ϵ) is added before the letter.² Consider the following examples.

Verb	Present Stem
	No Augment	Augment
λύω	λυ-	ἔλυ-
βάλλω	βαλλ-	ἔβαλλ-
ζάω	ζά-	ἔζα-
ποιέω	ποιε-	ἔποιε-
πληρόω	πληρο-	ἐπληρο-
δίδωμι	διδο-	ἔδιδο-
τίθημι	τιθε-	ἔτιθε-

² On rare occasions, eta (η) is used as the augment before a verb beginning with a consonant.

Vowel as the Verb's First Letter

In this case, the verb's initial vowel is lengthened. This lengthening varies slightly depending on if the vowel is part of a diphthong or not. Consider the following examples where the vowel is not part of a diphthong.

Vowel	Augment	Verb	Present Stem
			No Augment	Augment
α	η	ἀκούω	ἀκου-	ἡκουε	η	ἔρχομαι	ἐρχ-	ἥρχ-
ι	ι	ἴστημι	ιστα-	ἱστα-†
ο	ω	όφείλω	όφειλ-	ὁφειλ-
υ	υ	ύψοω	ύψο-	ὑψο-†

† Since iota (ι) and upsilon (υ) can be long or short, the lengthening is not visible.

Consider the following examples where the vowel is part of a diphthong. Diphthongs that rarely occur at the beginning of verbs are not included in the table.

Diphthong	Augment	Verb	Present Stem
			No Augment	Augment
αι	η	αἰτέω	αἰτε-	ἡτε-
οι†	ω	οἰκοδομέω	οἰκοδομε-	ῳκοδομεαυ	ην	αὐξάνω	αὐξάν-	ηὐξαν-
ευ†	εν	εὐδοκέω	εὐδοκέω	εὐδοκε-

† Sometimes the diphthongs οι and ευ do not change.

17.1.5 Augment Rules Applied to Verbs Beginning with a Preposition

The augment rules stated above apply to all verbs. Nevertheless, it is helpful to show how they apply to verbs that begin with a preposition. For those verbs, the augment occurs between the preposition and the basic verb. Consider the following examples.

Verb	Present Stem	Verb Divided	Augment Added	Result
ἐκβάλλω	ἐκβαλλ-	ἐκ βαλλ-	ἐκ εβαλλ-	ἐξεβαλλ-†
παρακαλέω	παρακαλε-	παρα καλε-	παρα εκαλε-	παρεκαλε-†
ἐπιτίθημι	ἐπιτίθε-	ἐπι τίθε-	ἐπι ετίθε-	ἐπετίθεύπάγω	ύπαγ-	ύπ αγ-	ύπ ηγ-	ύπηγἀπέρχομαι	ἀπέρχ-	ἀπ ερχ	ἀπ ηρχ-	ἀπηρχἀνίστημι	ἀνιστα-	ἀν ιστα-	ἀν ιστα-	ἀνιστα-
κατοικέω	κατοικε-	κατ οικε-	κατ οικε-	κατοικε-

† The augment sometimes causes spelling changes in the preposition (ἐκβάλλ → ἐξεβαλλ or παρακαλε → παρεκαλε).

17.1.6 Tense Marker

The imperfect tense does not use a tense marker.

Tense	Active	Middle	Passive
Present	-	-	-
Future	σ†	σ†	θησ††
Imperfect	-	-	-

† Liquid verbs use εσ for this marker.
†† Some verbs use ησ for this marker.

17.1.7 Chart of Endings: Imperfect Indicative Emphasized

The primary endings studied previously are attached to tenses that do not use an augment (present, future, and perfect). The endings introduced here are called secondary endings. They are attached to tenses that use an augment (imperfect and aorist indicative only). Knowing which endings belong to which set is often helpful in analyzing verb forms. Therefore, the secondary endings should be memorized.

P/N	Primary	Secondary
		Separate	With C.V.
Active
1s	-	ν	-	ον
2s	ς	ς		ες
3s	ι	(ν)		ε(ν)
1p	μεν	μεν		ομεν
2p	τε	τε		ετε
3p	νσι(ν)	ν		ον
Middle/Passive
1s	μαι	μην		ομην
2s	σαι	σο		ον†
3s	ται	το		ετο
1p	μεθα	μεθα		ομεθα
2p	σθε	σθε		εσθε
3p	νται	ντο		οντο

† εσο → ον

17.1.8 Present Tense Stem (Used with imperfect tense)

The imperfect tense is formed using the present tense stem. Recognizing this stem is often very helpful in distinguishing imperfect verb forms from other tenses, especially the aorist (chapters 18-20). For many verbs, the present tense stem is identical to the root. Examples are shown in the following table.

Examples where extra memorization of root is unnecessary

Present Form	Root	Present Stem	Imperfect (1s)	Translation
λύω	λυ*	λυ-	ἔλυον	I was untying
λέγω	λεγ*	λεγ-	ἔλεγον	I was saying λαλέω	λαλε*	λαλε-	ἔλαλουν†	I was speaking ἐπερωτάω	ἐπερωτα*	ἐπερωτα-	ἐπηρώτων†	I was asking
ποιέω	ποιε*	ποιε-	ἐποίουν ¹	I was doing

Other verbs have present tense stems that are different from the root. Memorization of these roots will be important when studying other tenses. Examples are shown in the following table.

Examples where the root should be memorized

Present Form	Root	Present Stem	Imperfect (1s)	Translation
ἔχω	σεχ* or ἔχ*	ἐχ-	εῖχον†	I was having κράζω	κραγ*	κραζ-	ἔκραζον	I was calling δίδωμι	δο*	διδο-	ἔδίδουν††	I was giving δοξάζω	δοξαδ*	δοξαζ-	ἔδοξάζον	I was glorifying
γινώσκω	γνω*	γινωσκ-	ἔγινωσκον	I was knowing

† This verb is placed here because it looks irregular. In reality, it behaves according to normal patterns.

†† Contraction of final stem vowel.

17.2 OMEGA VERBS: IMPERFECT INDICATIVE (ALL VOICES)

Memorize these forms of λύω.

17.2.1 Imperfect Active Indicative Forms of λύω

Pronoun	Aug.	Stem	Vowel	Ending	Form	Translation
Singular
ἐγώ			ο	ν	ἔλυον	I was untying
σύ	ἐ	λυ-	ε	ς	ἔλυες	you were untying
αὐτός, ἡ, ὁ			ε	ν	ἔλυε(ν)	he/she was untying
Plural
ἡμεῖς			ο	μεν	ἔλύομεν	we were untying
ὑμεῖς	ἐ	λυ-	ε	τε	ἔλύετε	you (pl) were untying
αὐτοί, αἱ, ἄ			ο	ν	ἔλυον	they were untying

17.2.2 Imperfect Middle/Passive Indicative Forms of λύω

Pronoun	Aug.	Stem	Vowel	Ending	Form	Passive Translation
Singular
ἐγώ			ο	μην	ἔλυόμην	I was being untied
σύ	ἐ	λυ-	ε	σο	ἔλυον	you were being untied
αὐτός, ἡ, ὁ			ε	το	ἔλύετο	he/she was being untied
Plural
ἡμεῖς			ο	μεθα	ἔλυόμεθα	we were being untied
ὑμεῖς	ἐ	λυ-	ε	σθε	ἔλύεσθε	they were being untied
αὐτοί, αἱ, ἄ			ο	ντο	ἔλυοντο	they were being untied

17.3 MI VERBS: IMPERFECT INDICATIVE (ALL VOICES)

17.3.1 Imperfect of εἰμί

In the New Testament, εἰμί occurs in the imperfect tense more than any other verb. Some of the endings it uses are active and others are middle/passive. These differences are not reflected in translation. Unlike other verbs, εἰμί does not have aorist forms, only imperfect. Memorize these forms.

Pronoun	εἰμί	Translation
Singular
ἐγώ	ἦμην	I was
σύ	ἦς	you were
αὐτός, ἡ, ó	ἦν	he/she/it was
Plural
ἡμεῖς	ῆμεν, ἦμεθα	we were ὑμεῖς	ῆτε	you (plural) were αὐτοί, αἱ, á	ῆσαν	they were

17.3.2 Imperfect Active Forms of Other Mi Verbs

The key to identifying imperfect mi verbs (with the exception of εἰμί) is as follows. If the verb uses the present tense stem (duplication of the first letter with iota inserted between them) and has the augment, it is in the imperfect tense and indicative mood. Only active patterns are shown since, other than εἰμί, imperfect middle/passive mi verbs are not common. Memorization of these forms is not necessary.

Pronoun	Verbal Root
	λυ*	δο*	στα*	θε*	ἀπο+έ*
Present Tense Stem
λύ-	δίδο-	ἴστα-	τίθε-	ἀφιε-
Singular
ἐγώ	ἔλυον	-	-	-	-
σύ	ἔλυες	-	-	-	-
αὐτός, ἡ, ó	ἔλυε(v)	ἔδιδου†	-	ἔτιθει†	ῆφιεν
Plural
ἡμεῖς	ἔλύομεν	-	-	-	-
ὑμεῖς	ἔλύετε	-	-	-	-
αὐτοί, αἱ, á	ἔλυον	ἔδιδουν	-	ἔτιθον
		ἔδιδοσαν††	-	ἔτιθεσαν††	-

† With these verbs, the third person singular form ε(v) has contracted with the stem vowel, and the nu (v) has been omitted. For δίδωμι: ἔδιδο + ε(v) → ἔδιδου. For τίθημι: ἔτιθε + ε(v) → ἔτιθει.

†† This ending is usually used with first aorist verbs.

17.4 CONTRACT VERBS: IMPERFECT INDICATIVE (ALL VOICES)

Contract verbs experience vowel changes upon adding the active endings of ον, ες, ε(v), ομεν, ετε, ον and the middle/passive endings of ομην, εσο, ετο, ομεθα, εσθε, οντο. These changes follow the patterns given in section 3.5. Despite the changes, the resulting forms are generally recognizable. Memorization of these forms is not necessary.

The key to identifying imperfect contract verbs is as follows. If the augment is present and the verb does not have the aorist tense stem σα (to be learned in chapters 19 and 20), the verb is in the imperfect tense.

17.4.1 Imperfect Active Indicative Forms

Pronoun	λύω	ποιέω	ἀγαπάω	πληρόω
Singular
ἐγώ	ἔλυνον	ἐποίουν	ἡγάπων	ἐπλήρουν
σύ	ἔλυνες	ἐποίεις	-	ἐπλήρους
αὐτός, ἡ, ὁ	ἔλυνε(v)	ἐποίει†	ἡγάπα†	ἐπλήρου†
Plural
ἡμεῖς	ἔλύομεν	ἐποιοῦμεν	-	-
ὑμεῖς	ἔλύετε	ἐποιεῖτε	ἡγαπᾶτε	-
αὐτοί, αἱ, ἀ	ἔλυνον	ἐποίουν	ἡγάπων	ἐπλήρουν

† The nu (v) of the third person singular form (εν) is not present on the contract verb forms.

17.4.2 Imperfect Middle/Passive Indicative Forms

Pronoun	λύω	ποιέω	ἀγαπάω	πληρόω
Singular
ἐγώ	ἔλυόμην	-	ἡγαπώμην	-
σύ	ἔλύσου	-	-	-
αὐτός, ἡ, ὁ	ἔλύετο	ἐποιεῖτο	ἡγαπᾶτο	ἐπληροῦτο
Plural
ἡμεῖς	ἔλυόμεθα	-	-	-
ὑμεῖς	ἔλύεσθε	-	-	-
αὐτοί, αἱ, ἀ	ἔλύοντο	ἐποιοῦντο	-	ἐπληροῦντο

18 SECOND AORIST ACTIVE AND MIDDLE INDICATIVE VERBS

18.1 GRAMMAR

18.1.1 Aorist Tense

As mentioned in 3.2.2, tense conveys how the action (or state of being) is described by the speaker/writer and when that action occurs in reference to the time of the speaker/writer. In terms of how, the aorist tense presents an action (or state) in summary form. This is similar to a still picture of an event as opposed to a video of the same event. In terms of when, the aorist presents an action (or state) as occurring in the past from the perspective of the speaker/writer. With that said, there are numerous examples where the aorist does not refer to past time. The following chart compares these features with the tenses studied previously.

Tense	Example	How Action Presented	When Action Occurs [†]
Present	He is running.	In progress or continuing	Present
Future	He will run.	In summary form	Future
Imperfect	He was running.	In progress or continuing	Past
Aorist	He ran.	In summary form	Past

[†] The time is with respect to the speaker or writer.

The above explanation is a simplification for the purposes of beginning Greek. Other possibilities and variations exist depending on the specific context.

18.1.2 Difference between First and Second Aorist

The aorist tense is divided into two categories based on differences in the verbal forms. In the active and middle voice, a verb will either follow the first aorist pattern or the second aorist pattern but not both. This chapter presents the second aorist forms, and the following chapter presents the first aorist forms.

18.1.3 Voice

The following table provides examples of the active and passive voice for various tenses. Middle voice is not included because it is frequently translated as active.

Tense	Active Voice	Passive Voice
Present	God loves John.	John is loved by God.
Future	God will love John.	John will be loved by God.
Imperfect	God was loving John.	John was being loved by God.
Aorist	God loved John.	John was loved by God.

18.1.4 Overview of the Second Aorist Active and Middle Indicative Parts

ξλαβον
 ἔ λαβ ον
 Augment Aorist Active Connecting Active Ending (1s)
 Tense Stem Vowel

Root: λαβ* (λαμβάνω)

18.1.5 Augment

The augment rules given in 17.1.4 and 17.1.5 apply to the aorist tense. The following table summarizes those rules.

Verb Stem's Letter:	Augment:
Consonant	ε
Vowel	No Diphthong	Diphthong
	$\alpha \rightarrow \eta$	$\alpha i \rightarrow \eta$
	$\varepsilon \rightarrow \eta$	$\alpha u \rightarrow \eta u$
	$\eta \rightarrow \eta$	$\varepsilon u \rightarrow \varepsilon u$
	$i \rightarrow i$	$o i \rightarrow o \bar{u}$
	$o \rightarrow \omega$
	$u \rightarrow u$

18.1.6 Tense Marker (T.M.)

Second aorist active and middle verbs do not use a tense marker, but first aorist verbs do. This is one main difference between the forms.

Tense	Active	Middle	Passive
Present	-	-	-
Future	σ^\dagger	σ^\dagger	$\theta\eta\sigma^{\ddagger\dagger}$
Imperfect	-	-	-
2 nd Aorist	-	-	See Chapter 20
[†] Liquid verbs use $\varepsilon\sigma$ for this marker. ^{‡‡} Some verbs use $\eta\sigma$ for this marker.

18.1.7 Chart of Endings: Second Aorist Active and Middle Indicative Emphasized

Since it is an augmented tense, the aorist uses secondary endings.

P/N	Primary	Secondary
		Separate	With C.V.
Active
1s	-	v	-	ov
2s	ς	ς		ες
3s	ι	(v)		εν
1p	μεν	μεν		ομεν
2p	τε	τε		ετε
3p	νσι(v)	v		ov
Middle/Passive		Middle [†]
1s	μαι	μην		ομην
2s	σαι	σο		ου ^{††}
3s	ται	το		ετο
1p	μεθα	μεθα		ομεθα
2p	σθε	σθε		εσθε
3p	νται	ντο		οντο

[†] Aorist passive verbs use a tense marker and active endings.
^{††} εσο → ου

18.1.8 Aorist Active Tense Stem (A.A. Stem)

This stem is used to form verbs into the aorist active and middle. With second aorist verbs, the aorist active stem will always be different from the present tense stem (dictionary form). This difference is necessary to distinguish between the imperfect (which uses the present stem) and aorist forms of those verbs.¹ It also means the aorist active stem for second aorist verbs must be memorized. If you have learned the roots, this will not require much additional work because the aorist active stem and root are often identical.

All second aorist verbs that have been learned to this point are shown in the following two tables. In each group, the aorist forms that occur more frequently in the New Testament are listed first so that students can prioritize their study efforts accordingly.

¹ This is because, as will be seen, the imperfect and second aorist verb endings are identical.

Examples of second aorist verbs whose roots should be memorized

Present Form	Root	A.A. Stem	Aorist (1s)	Translation	Imperfect (1s) [†]
γίνομαι ^{††}	γεν*	γεν-	ἐγενόμην ^{††}	I was	ἐγινόμην ^{††}
ἔρχομαι ^{††}	ἔλθ*	ελθ-	ῆλθον	I came	ήρχόμην ^{††}
ἔξέρχομαι ^{††}	ἔξελθ*	ἔξελθ-	ἔξῆλθον	I departed	ἔξηρχόμην ^{††}
λαμβάνω	λαβ*	λαβ-	ἔλαβον	I received	ἔλάμβανον
εὑρίσκω	εύρ*	εύρ-	εὗρον	I found	εὕρισκον εἰσέρχομαι ^{††}	εἰσ+ελθ*	εἰσελθ-	εἰσῆλθον	I entered	- ἀπέρχομαι ^{††}	ἀπ+ελθ*	ἀπελθ-	ἀπῆλθον	I departed	- ἀποθνήσκω	ἀπο+θαν*	ἀποθαν-	ἀπέθανον	I died	ἀπέθνησκον
γίνωσκω	γνω*	γνω-	ἔγνων ^{†††}	I knew	ἐγίνωσκον
ἀναβαίνω	ἀναβη*	ἀναβη-	ἀνέβην ^{†††}	I ascended	ἀνέβαινον
προσέρχομαι ^{††}	προσε+ελθ*	προσελθ-	προσῆλθον	I came to	προσηρχόμην ^{††}
βάλλω	βαλ*	βαλ-	ἔβαλον	I threw	ἔβαλλον
καταβαίνω	κατα+βη*	καταβη-	κατέβην ^{†††}	I descended	κατέβαινον παραλαμβάνω	παρα+λαβ*	παραλαβ-	παρέλαβον	I received	- ἐκβάλλω	ἐκ+βαλ*	ἐκβαλ-	ἔξεβαλον	I threw out	ἔξέβαλλον
πίνω	πι*	πι-	ἔπιον	I drank	ἔπινον

[†] Learn to recognize the differences in stem between the aorist and imperfect. For second aorist verbs, this is the main way to distinguish between the two tenses. Many of these verbs are not very frequent in the imperfect.
^{††} The verb is deponent and, therefore, translated with active voice. Observe that some verbs are deponent in one tense but not the other.
^{†††} γίνωσκω, ἀναβαίνω, and καταβαίνω do not use a connecting vowel, only the endings.

The dictionary form of some second aorist verbs is even harder to identify because their forms appear very different from the root and present tense stem. These forms should be memorized. Examples are shown in the following table.

Examples where the aorist form (1s) should be memorized

Present Form	Root	A.A. Stem	Aorist (1s)	Translation	Imperfect (1s)
λέγω	λεγ*	Fιτ [†] -	εἶπον	I said	ἔλεγον όράω	όρα*	Fιδ- [†]	εἶδον	I saw	-
ἄγω	ἀγ*	ἀγαγ	ῆγαγον	I brought	ῆγον
ἐσθίω	ἐσθι*	φαγ-	ἔφαγον	I ate	ῆσθιον
ἔχω	σεχ*	σχ-	ἔσχον ^{††}	I had	εῖχον
συνάγω	συν+αγ*	συναγαγ-	συνήγαγον	I gathered	-

[†] F indicates a digamma, a letter no longer in use during Koine times. Understanding its presence helps explain the augment of epsilon (ε) that is used on these verbs.
^{††} ᔁχω could very easily be placed in the above table because the aorist form is very similar to the root. Only the epsilon is omitted.

18.2 OMEGA VERBS: SECOND AORIST ACTIVE AND MIDDLE INDICATIVE

The following paradigms do not use λύω because it is not a second aorist verb. Instead, the common verbs of ἔρχομαι and γίνομαι are used. Memorize these forms.

18.2.1 Aorist Active Indicative Forms of ἔρχομαι

The verb ἔρχομαι is the most common second aorist that uses active endings. Although deponent in the present and future tenses, ἔρχομαι is not deponent in the aorist.

Pronoun	Aug. Stem	C.V.	Ending	Form	Translation
Singular
ἐγώ	ἢλθ-	ο	ν	ἢλθον	I came σύ		ε	ς	ἢλθες	you came αὐτός, ἡ, ó		ε	ν	ἢλθεν	he/she/it came
Plural
ἡμεῖς	ἢλθ-	ο	μεν	ἢλθομεν	we came ὑμεῖς		ε	τε	ἢλθατε†	you (pl.) came αὐτοί, αἱ, ἄ		ο	ν	ἢλθον††	they came
† Other verbs use epsilon (ε) instead of alpha (α) as the connecting vowel here.
†† Some second aorist forms have alpha (α) instead of omicron (ο) in 3 rd plural.

18.2.2 Aorist Middle Indicative Forms of γίνομαι

The verb γίνομαι is the most common second aorist that uses middle endings. It is deponent in the aorist tense.

Pronoun	Aug.	Stem	C.V.	Ending	Form	Translation
Singular
ἐγώ	ξ	γεν-	ο	μην	ἐγενόμην	I was σύ			ε	σο	ἐγένου	you were αὐτός, ἡ, ó			ε	το	ἐγένετο	he/she/it was
Plural
ἡμεῖς	ξ	γεν-	ο	μεθα	ἐγενόμεθα	we were ὑμεῖς			ε	σθε	ἐγένεσθε	you (pl.) were αὐτοί, αἱ, ἄ			ο	ντο	ἐγένοντο	they were

18.3 COMMON SECOND AORIST ACTIVE INDICATIVE VERBS

Since the stems for second aorist verbs differ significantly from their present tense stem, it is useful to see the endings attached to various examples. Memorization of these forms is not necessary.

Pronoun	Dictionary Form (Uses Present Tense Stem)
	εἰσέρχομαι (I enter)	όράω (I see)	λαμβάνω (I receive)	ἀποθνήσκω (I die)	ἄγω (I guide)	ἀναβαίνω [†] (I ascend)
	Aorist Active Tense Stem
	εἰσ+ελθ-	Fιδ-	λαβ-	ἀπο+θαν-	ἄγαγ-	ἀναβη-
Singular
ἐγώ	εἰσῆλθον	εῖδον	ἔλαβον	ἀπέθανον	-	ἀνέβην
σύ	εἰσῆλθες	εῖδες	ἔλαβες	-	-	-
αὐτός, ἡ, ὁ	εἰσῆλθεν	εῖδεν	ἔλαβεν	ἀπέθανεν	ῆγαγεν	ἀνέβη
Plural
ἡμεῖς	εἰσῆλθομεν	εῖδομεν	ἔλαβομεν	ἀπεθάνομεν	-	ανέβημεν
ὑμεῖς	εἰσῆλθατε	εῖδετε	ἔλαβετε	ἀπεθάνετε	ῆγάγετε	-
αὐτοί, αἱ, ἄ	εἰσῆλθον	εῖδον	ἔλαβον	ἀπέθανον	ῆγαγον	ανέβησαν

[†] ἀναβαίνω does not use a connecting vowel, only the endings. Moreover, the third plural ending is first aorist, not second.

19 FIRST AORIST ACTIVE AND MIDDLE INDICATIVE VERBS

19.1 GRAMMAR

19.1.1 Aorist Tense

This tense presents an action in summary form. In many contexts, the action occurs in the past from the perspective of the speaker/author, although there are also present and future time uses. Review 18.1.1 for additional information.

19.1.2 Voice

The following table provides examples of the active and passive voice for various tenses. Middle voice is not included because it is frequently translated as active.

Tense	Active Voice	Passive Voice
Present	God loves John.	John is loved by God.
Future	God will love John.	John will be loved by God.
Imperfect	God was loving John.	John was being loved by God.
Aorist	God loved John.	John was loved by God.

19.1.3 Overview of the First Aorist Active and Middle Indicative Parts

19.1.4 Augment

The augment rules given in 17.1.4 and 17.1.5 also apply to the aorist tense. The following table summarizes those rules.

Verb Stem's Letter:	Augment:
Consonant	ε
Vowel	No Diphthong	Diphthong
	$\alpha \rightarrow \eta$	$\alpha\varepsilon \rightarrow \eta\varepsilon$
	$\varepsilon \rightarrow \eta$	$\alpha\upsilon \rightarrow \eta\upsilon$
	$\eta \rightarrow \eta$	$\varepsilon\upsilon \rightarrow \varepsilon\upsilon$
	$\iota \rightarrow \iota$	$\alpha\iota \rightarrow \omega\iota$
	$\omega \rightarrow \omega$
	$\upsilon \rightarrow \upsilon$

19.1.5 Tense Marker (T.M.)

Unlike second aorist verbs, first aorist verbs use a tense marker. Frequently, the aorist active and middle tense marker is sigma-alpha ($\sigma\alpha$). With many mi verbs, it is kappa-alpha ($\kappa\alpha$). With liquid verbs, it is alpha (α).

Tense	Active	Middle	Passive
Present	-	-	-
Future	σ^\dagger	σ^\dagger	$\theta\eta\sigma^{\dagger\dagger}$
Imperfect	-	-	-
2nd Aorist	-	-	See Next Chapter
1 st Aorist	$\sigma\alpha$	$\sigma\alpha$
	α (liquid verbs)	α (liquid verbs)
	$\kappa\alpha$ (mi verbs) ^{† ††}	None

[†] Liquid verbs use $\varepsilon\sigma$ for this marker.
^{††} Some verbs use $\eta\sigma$ for this marker.
^{†††} Some mi verbs such as $\iota\sigma\tau\eta\mu$ use $\sigma\alpha$ for this marker.

19.1.6 Chart of Endings: First Aorist Active and Middle Indicative Emphasized

Since it is an augmented tense, the aorist uses secondary endings.

P/N	Primary	Secondary
		Separate	With T.M
Active
1s	-	v	-	σα
2s	ς	ς		σας
3s	ι	(v)		σεν
1p	μεν	μεν		σαμεν
2p	τε	τε		σατε
3p	νσι(v)	v		σαν
Middle/Passive			Middle [†]
1s	μαι	μην		σαμην
2s	σαι	σο		σω^{††}
3s	ται	το		σατο
1p	μεθα	μεθα		σαμεθα
2p	σθε	σθε		σασθε
3p	νται	ντο		σαντο

[†] Aorist passive verbs use a different tense marker and active endings.
^{††} Omicron (ο) lengthens to omega (ω).

19.1.7 Aorist Active Tense Stem (A.A. Stem)

This stem is used to form verbs into the aorist active and middle. Unlike second aorist verbs, recognizing the aorist active tense stem of first aorist verbs is not as important. This is because first aorist verbs also use a visible tense marker of σα, α (liquid verbs), or κα (many mi verbs).

For many verbs, the aorist active tense stem is identical to the present tense stem. This means the dictionary form of these verbs and, therefore, their meaning is easy to identify. These kinds of verbs do not require extra memorization. Examples are shown in the following table.

Examples where extra memorization of root or aorist active stem is unnecessary

Present Form	Root	A.A. Stem	Aorist Form (1s)	Translation
λύω	λυ*	λυ-	ἔλυσα	I untied
ἀκούω	ἀκου*	ἀκου-	ἤκουσα	I heard ποιέω	ποιε*	ποιε-	ἐποίησα†	I did λαλέω	λαλε*	λαλε-	ἐλάλησα†	I spoke πιστεύω	πιστευ*	πιστευ-	ἐπίστευσα	I believed ἀκολουθέω	ἀκολουθε*	ἀκολουθε-	ἠκολούθησα†,††	I followed

† Contract vowels lengthen because of the tense marker ($\alpha \rightarrow \eta$; $\epsilon \rightarrow \eta$; $\omega \rightarrow \omega$).

†† The theta (θ) is not a tense marker but part of the verb. Do not confuse this form with a future passive or aorist passive (to be learned later).

For other verbs, the aorist active tense stem is not identical to the present tense stem. This means their dictionary form is not as easy to identify. However, the aorist active stem of these verbs is identical or similar to the root. These roots should be memorized. Common examples are shown in the following table.

Examples where the root should be memorized

Present Form	Root	A.A. Stem	Aorist Form (1s)	Translation
δίδωμι	δο*	δο-	ἔδωκα†	I gave τίθημι	θε*	θε-	ἔθηκα†	I put ἀφίημι	ἀπο+έ*	ἀφε-	ἀφῆκα†	I forgave
ἵστημι	στα*	στα-	ἔστην††	I stood
αἴρω	ἀρ*	αρ-	ἥρα	I took away

† Mi verbs often use kappa-alpha (κα) as the aorist tense marker.

†† Forms of ἴστημι and related verbs sometimes occur with second aorist endings and sometimes with first aorist ones. When it uses a tense marker, it is often sigma-alpha (σα) instead of kappa-alpha (κα).

For a third group of verbs, the aorist active tense stem is not identical to the present tense stem or root. This means their dictionary form is harder to identify. Thus, the aorist active form (1s) should be memorized. An example is shown in the following table.

Example where the aorist active form (1s) should be memorized

Present Form	Root	A.A. Stem	Aorist Form (1s)	Translation
φέρω	φερ-	ἐνεγ-	ἤνεγκα†	I brought † φέρω is an omega verb that uses kappa-alpha (κα) as its aorist tense marker.

19.1.8 Changes in Roots Ending in a Labial, Guttural, or Dental

Similar to the future tense, the sigma of the aorist tense marker changes into a new letter when it interacts with roots ending in a labial, guttural, or dental. The changes are shown in the following table.

Letter Class	Changed Letter			Tense Marker	Result
Labial	π (pi)	β (beta)	φ (phi)	+ σα	= ψα
Guttural	κ (kappa)	γ (gamma)	χ (chi)	+ σα	= ξα
Dental	τ (tau)	δ (delta)	θ (theta)	+ σα	= σα†
† The dentals tau (τ), delta (δ), and theta (θ) normally drop out before a sigma (σ).

Dictionary Form	Root	Aug. Stem	A.A. Form (1s)	Translation
βλέπω	βλεπ*	ἐβλεπ-	ἔβλεψα	I saw διδάσκω	διδασκ*	ἐδιδαξ-	ἔδιδαξα	I taught
βαπτίζω	βαπτιδ*	ἐβαπτιδ-	ἔβάπτισα	I baptized

19.3 MI VERBS: AORIST ACTIVE AND MIDDLE INDICATIVE

Mi verbs use the root (δο*) instead of the present tense stem (διδο-) to form the aorist tense. Memorization of these forms is not necessary.

19.3.1 Aorist Active Indicative Forms

The root's final vowel lengthens upon adding the tense marker kappa-alpha (κα).

Pronoun	Dictionary Form (Uses Present Tense Stem)
	λύω	δίδωμι	ἴστημι†	τίθημι	ἀφίημι
	Aorist Tense Stem

† Forms of ίστημι and related verbs sometimes occur with second aorist endings and sometimes with first aorist ones. When it uses a tense marker, it is often sigma-alpha (σα), not kappa-alpha (κα).

19.3.2 Aorist Middle Indicative Forms

Mi verbs do not use a tense marker in the middle voice. The lack of duplication with iota distinguishes these forms from the imperfect ones.

Pronoun	Dictionary Form (Uses Present Tense Stem)
	λύω	δίδωμι	ἴστημι	τίθημι	ἀφίημι
	Aorist Tense Stem
λυ*	δο-	στα-	θε-	ἀφε-

ὑμεῖς	ἔλύσασθε	ἔδοσθε	-	ἔθεσθε	-
αὐτοί, αἱ, ἄ	ἔλύσαντο	ἔδοντο	-	ἔθεντο	-

19.4 CONTRACT VERBS: AORIST ACTIVE AND MIDDLE INDICATIVE

The only difference between these and non-contract forms is the lengthened contract vowel due to the aorist tense marker ($\sigma\alpha$). Memorization of these forms is not necessary.

19.4.1 Aorist Active Indicative Forms

19.5 LIQUID VERBS: AORIST ACTIVE INDICATIVE

To review, liquid verbs have roots that end in lambda (λ), mu (μ), nu (ν), or rho (ρ). These verbs use alpha (α), not sigma-alpha ($\sigma\alpha$), as the aorist tense marker. Memorization of these forms is not necessary. Middle forms are not listed because they are uncommon.

Pronoun	Aug. Stem	T.M.	Ending	Form	Aorist of $\lambda\omega$
Singular
ἐγώ			-	ἀπέστειλα	ἔλυσα
σύ	ἀπεστειλ-	α	ς	ἀπέστειλας	ἔλυσας

20 AORIST PASSIVE INDICATIVE VERBS

20.1 GRAMMAR

20.1.1 Aorist Tense

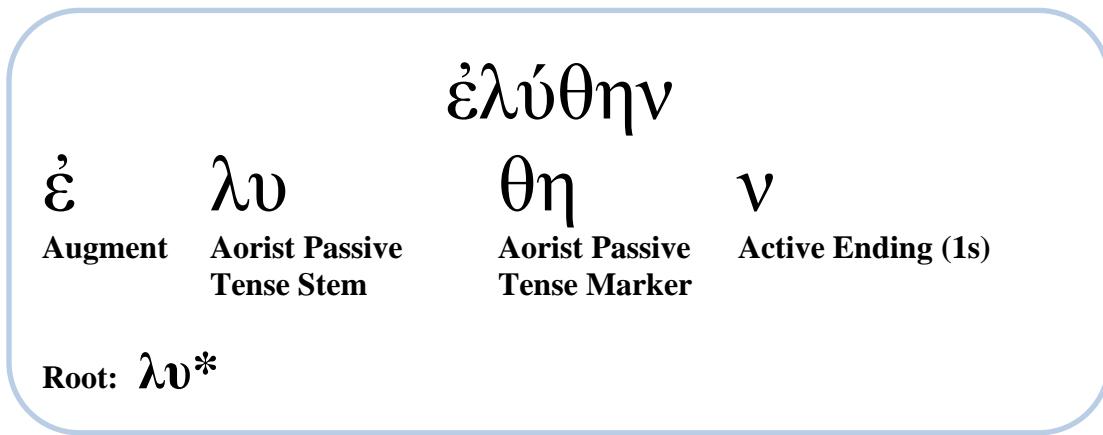

This tense presents an action in summary form. In many contexts, the action occurs in the past from the perspective of the speaker/author, although there are also present and future time uses. Review 18.1.1 for additional information.

20.1.2 Voice

The following table provides examples of the active and passive voice for various tenses. Middle voice is not included because it is frequently translated as active.

Tense	Active Voice	Passive Voice
Present	God loves John.	John is loved by God.
Future	God will love John.	John will be loved by God.
Imperfect	God was loving John.	John was being loved by God.
Aorist	God loved John.	John was loved by God.

20.1.3 Overview of the Aorist Passive Indicative Parts

20.1.4 Augment

The augment rules of 17.1.4 and 17.1.5 also apply to the aorist tense. The following table summarizes those rules.

Verb Stem's Letter:	Augment:
Consonant	ε
Vowel	No Diphthong	Diphthong
	$\alpha \rightarrow \eta$	$\alpha\varepsilon \rightarrow \eta\varepsilon$
	$\varepsilon \rightarrow \eta$	$\alpha\upsilon \rightarrow \eta\upsilon$
	$\eta \rightarrow \eta$	$\varepsilon\upsilon \rightarrow \varepsilon\upsilon$
	$\iota \rightarrow \iota$	$\alpha\iota \rightarrow \omega\iota$
	$\circ \rightarrow \omega$
	$\upsilon \rightarrow \upsilon$

20.1.5 Tense Marker (T.M.)

The aorist passive tense marker is frequently theta-eta ($\theta\eta$) and, occasionally, eta (η). Review the tense markers in the following chart.

Tense	Active	Middle	Passive
Present	-	-	-
Future	σ^\dagger	σ^\dagger	$\theta\eta\sigma^{\ddagger\dagger}$
Imperfect	-	-	-
2 nd Aorist	-	-
1 st Aorist	$\sigma\alpha$	$\sigma\alpha$	$\theta\eta^{\ddagger\ddagger\ddagger\ddagger}$
	α (liquid verbs)	α (liquid verbs)
	$\kappa\alpha$ (mi verbs) ^{†††}	None

[†] Liquid verbs use $\varepsilon\sigma$ for this marker.
^{‡‡} Some verbs use $\eta\sigma$ for this marker.
^{†††} Some mi verbs such as $\iota\sigma\tau\eta\mu$ use $\sigma\alpha$ for this marker.
^{††††} Some verbs use η for this marker.

20.1.6 Chart of Endings: Aorist Passive Indicative Emphasized

Since it is an augmented tense, the aorist uses secondary endings. Observe that the aorist passive requires the active endings.

P/N	Primary	Secondary
		Separated	With T.M.
Active
1s	-	v	-
2s	ς	ς
3s	ι	(v)
1p	μεν	μεν
2p	τε	τε
3p	νσι(v)	v
Middle/Passive		Passive [†]
1s	μαι	μην	θην
2s	σαι	σο	θης
3s	ται	το	θη
1p	μεθα	μεθα	θημεν
2p	σθε	σθε	θητε
3p	νται	ντο	θησαν

[†] Aorist passive voice uses active endings.

20.1.7 Aorist Passive Tense Stem (A.P. Stem)

This stem is used to form verbs into the aorist passive. The stem was first introduced in chapter 16 because it is also used to form the passive voice of the future tense.

For some verbs, the aorist passive stem is identical to the present tense stem. This means the dictionary form of these verbs and, therefore, their meaning is easy to identify. These kinds of verbs do not require extra memorization. Common examples are shown in the following table.

Examples where extra memorization of root or aorist passive stem is unnecessary

Present Form	Root	A.P. Stem	Aorist Passive (1s)	Translation
λύω	λυ*	λυ-	ἐλύθην	I was untied
φοβέομαι	φοβε*	φοβε-	ἐφοβήθην [†]	I was afraid ^{††}
πορεύομαι	πορευ*	πορευ-	ἐπορεύθην	I went ^{††} γεννάω	γεννα*	γεννα-	ἐγεννήθην [†]	I was born ^{††}
φανερόω	φανερο*	φανερο-	ἐφανερώθην [†]	I was seen ἀνοίγω	ἀνα+οιγ*	ἀνοιγ-	ἀνεώχθην ^{†††}	I was opened

[†] Contract vowels lengthen because of the tense marker (α→η; ε→η; ο→ω).

^{††} The verb is deponent and, therefore, translated with active voice.

^{†††} Some final stem consonants change to a similar sounding one.

For other verbs, the aorist passive tense stem is not identical to the present tense stem. This means their dictionary form is not as easy to identify. However, the aorist passive tense stem of these verbs is identical or similar to the root. These roots should be memorized. Common examples are shown in the following table.

Examples where the root should be memorized

Present Form	Root	A.P. Stem	Aorist Passive (1s)	Translation
γίνομαι	γεν*	γεν-	ἐγενήθην†	I was †† δίδωμι	δο*	δο-	ἐδόθην	I was given όράω	όρα*	όπ-	ώφθην†††	I was seen ἐγείρω	ἐγερ*	ἐγερ-	ἠγέρθην	I was raised εύρισκω	εύρ*	εύρ-	εύρέθην†	I was found χαίρω	χαρ*	χαρ-	ἐχάρην††	I rejoiced
βαπτίζω	βαπτιδ*	βαπτιδ-	ἐβαπτίσθην†††	I was baptized
συνάγω	συν+άγ*	συναγ-	συνήχθην†††	I was gathered

† A connecting vowel is added to these verbs.
 †† The verb is deponent and, therefore, translated with active voice.
 ††† Some final stem consonants change to a similar sounding one.

For a third group of verbs, the aorist passive tense stem is not identical to the present tense stem or root. This means their dictionary form is harder to identify. Thus, the aorist passive form (1s) should be memorized. An example is shown in the following table.

Examples where the aorist passive form (1s) should be memorized

Present Form	Root	A.P. Stem	A.P. Form (1s)	Translation
ἀποκρίνομαι	ἀπο+κριν*	ἀποκρι-	ἀπεκρίθην	I answered†
καλέω	καλε*	κλη-	ἐκλήθην	I was called λέγω	λεγ*	έρρε-	ἐρρέθην	I was spoken
βάλλω	βαλ*	βλη-	ἐβλήθην	I was cast
προσφέρω	προσ+φερ*	προσενεγ-	προσηνέχθην††	I was sacrificed
φέρω	φερ*	ἐνεγ-	ἠνέχθην††	I was brought

† The verb is deponent and, therefore, translated with active voice.
 †† Some final stem consonants change to a similar sounding one.

21 PERFECT INDICATIVE VERBS

21.1 GRAMMAR

21.1.1 Perfect Tense

As mentioned in 3.2.2, tense conveys how the action (or state) is described by the speaker/writer and when that action occurs in reference to the time of the speaker/writer. In terms of how, the perfect tense presents an action in summary form but also with continuing results. In terms of when, the perfect tense presents an action as occurring in the past but whose results continue into the present, both time references being from the perspective of the speaker/writer. The following chart compares these features with other tenses already studied.

Tense	Example	How Action Presented	When [†]
Present	He runs.	In progress or continuing	Present
Future	He will run.	In summary form	Future
Imperfect	He was running.	In progress or continuing	Past
Aorist	He ran.	In summary form	Past
Perfect	He has run.	In summary form with continuing results	Past with present results

[†] The time is with respect to the speaker or writer.

The above explanation is a simplification for the purposes of beginning Greek. Other possibilities and variations exist depending on the specific context.

21.1.2 Voice

The following table provides examples of the active and passive voice for various tenses. Middle voice is not included because it is frequently translated as active.

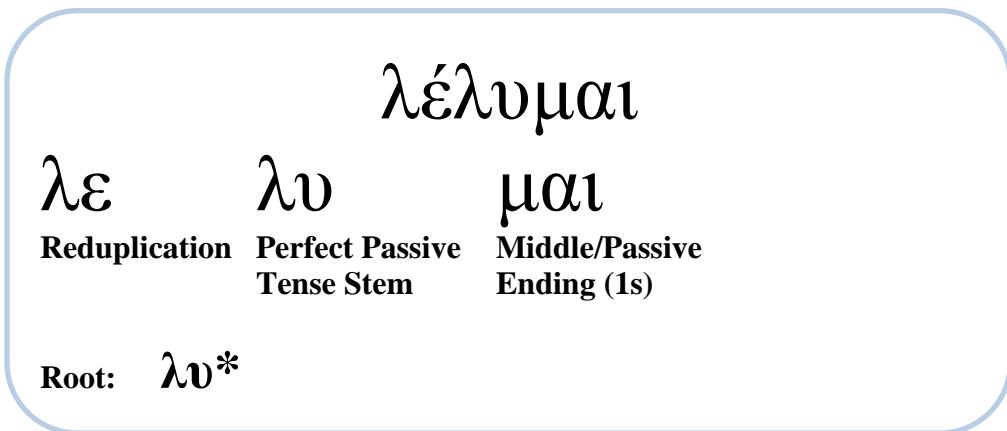

Tense	Active Voice	Passive Voice
Present	God loves John.	John is loved by God.
Future	God will love John.	John will be loved by God.
Imperfect	God was loving John.	John was being loved by God.
Aorist	God loved John.	John was loved by God.
Perfect	God has loved John.	John has been loved by God. [†]

[†] Because the main focus in the Greek perfect tense is on the result or state, the perfect in English may not always be the best translation. Often the best translation may be an English present (John is loved by God).

21.1.3 Overview of the Perfect Active Indicative Parts

21.1.4 Overview of the Perfect Middle/Passive Indicative Parts

21.1.5 Reduplication

Verbs in the perfect tense have an identifying feature called “reduplication.” Reduplication occurs on perfect tense verbs of any mood.¹ It usually involves one of three changes to the verb’s form. If the basic verb begins with...

1. a single consonant, the consonant is doubled and epsilon (ε) is inserted between them.
2. multiple consonants, epsilon (ε) is added to the beginning of the stem.
3. a vowel, that vowel is lengthened according to the patterns for the augment.

In instances 2 and 3, the reduplication looks identical to the augment. You will have to use other clues such as the tense marker, verbal endings, and context to determine whether the marker is an augment or reduplication. Examples for all three groups are shown in the following table.

¹ This is one way the reduplication is different from the augment. The augment only appears on imperfect and aorist verbs in the indicative mood. Reduplication appears on perfect tense verbs of any mood, be it indicative, subjunctive, or imperative. It also occurs on participles and infinitives.

Group	Dictionary Form	Perfect Active Stem	Reduplication
Reduplication is duplication of initial consonant plus epsilon (ε).
1.	λύω	λυ-	λελυ-
	γράφω	γραπ-	γεγραπ-
	γεννάω	γεννα-	γεγεννα-
	λαλέω	λαλε-	λελαλε-
	πληρώω	πληρο-	πεπληρο-
	δίδωμι	δο-	δεδο-
	παραδίδωμι	παρα+δο-	παραδεδο-†
Reduplication is epsilon (ε).
2.	γινώσκω	γνω-	ξγνω-
	σταυρόω	σταυ-	ξσταυρο-
	ἀποστέλλω	ἀπο+σταλ-	ἀπεσταλ-†
Reduplication is lengthening of the initial stem vowel.
3.	ἀκολουθέω	ἀκολουθε-	ἢκολουθε-
	ἐγγίζω	ἐγγιδ-	ἢγγιδ-
	συνάγω	συν+αγ-††	συνηγ-†
† Verbs with a prefixed preposition have the reduplication between the preposition and basic verb.
†† This is the perfect passive stem of συνάγω. The perfect active form, which does not have gamma (γ), does not occur in the New Testament.

21.1.6 Tense Marker

The perfect active tense marker for many verbs is kappa-alpha (κα). Other verbs simply use alpha (α). The perfect middle/passive does not use a tense marker. This completes the tense marker table for indicative verb.

Tense	Active	Middle	Passive
Present	-	-	-
Future	σ†	σ	θησ††
Imperfect	-	-	-
2 nd Aorist	-	-
1 st Aorist	σα	σα	θη††††
	α (liquid verbs)	α (liquid verbs)
	κα (mi verbs)†††	-
Perfect	κα‡	-	-
† Liquid verbs use εσ for this marker.
†† Some verbs use ησ for this marker.
††† Some mi verbs such as ἵστημι use σα for this marker.
†††† Some verbs use η for this marker.
‡ Some verbs use α for this marker.

21.1.7 Chart of Endings: Perfect Indicative Emphasized

Since the perfect is not an augmented tense, its uses primary endings.

P/N	Primary		Secondary
	Separated	Combined [†]	Separated
Active
1s	-	κα	ν
2s	ς	κας	ς
3s	ι	κε(ν)	(ν)
1p	μεν	καμεν	μεν
2p	τε	κατε	τε
3p	νσι(ν)	κασιν	ν
Middle/Passive
1s	μαι	μαι	μην
2s	σαι	σαι	σο
3s	ται	ται	το
1p	μεθα	μεθα	μεθα
2p	σθε	σθε	σθε
3p	νται	νται	ντο

[†] Some verbs use alpha (α) as the perfect active tense marker.

21.1.8 Perfect Active Tense Stem (P.A. Stem)

This stem is used to form verbs into the perfect active. For some verbs, the perfect active tense stem is identical to the present tense stem. This means the dictionary form of these verbs and, therefore, their meaning is easy to identify. These kinds of verbs do not require extra memorization. Common examples are shown in the following table.

Examples where extra memorization of root or perfect active stem is unnecessary

Present Form	Root	P.A. Stem	Perfect Form (1s)	Translation
λύω	λυ*	λυ-	λέλυκα	I have untied
οἶδα [†]	-	-	οἶδα	I know
όράω	όρα*	όρα-	έώρακα ^{††}	I have seen
λαλέω	λαλε*	λαλε-	λελάληκα ^{†††}	I have spoken
ποιέω	ποιε*	ποιε-	πεποίηκα ^{†††}	I have done

[†] οἶδα is perfect tense but translated as a present tense. As a second perfect, it uses alpha (α) as the tense marker. Learn the dictionary form.
^{††} οράω experiences double reduplication (lengthening of ο→ω and ε added).
^{†††} Contract vowel lengthens because of the tense marker (α→η; ε→η; ο→ω).

For other verbs, the perfect active tense stem is not identical to the present tense stem. This means their dictionary form is not as easy to identify. However, the perfect tense stem of these verbs is identical or similar to the root. These roots should be memorized. Common examples are shown in the following table.

Examples where the root should be memorized

Present Form	Root	P.A. Stem	Perfect Form (1s)	Translation
δίδωμι	δο*	δο-	δέδωκα	I have given ἵστημι	στα*	στα-	ἔστηκα	I stand†
γίνωσκω	γνω*	γνω-	ἔγνωκα	I have known ἐγγίζω	ἐγγιδ*	ἐγγιδ-	ῆγγικα	I have drawn near ἀποστέλλω	ἀπο+στελ*	ἀποστελ-	ἀπέσταλκα	I have sent † ἴστημι often occurs in the perfect but is translated with the present tense.

For a third group of verbs, the perfect active tense stem is not identical to the present tense stem or root. This means their dictionary form is harder to identify. Thus, the perfect active form (1s) should be memorized. Common examples are shown in the following table.

Examples where the perfect active form (1s) should be memorized

Present Form	Root	P.A. Stem	Perfect Form (1s)	Translation
γίνομαι	γεν*	γεν-	γέγονα†	I have become ἔρχομαι	ἔρχ*	ἔλευθ-	ἔλήλυθα†	I have come λέγω	λεγ*	ἔρ-	εἴρηκα	I have said
λαμβάνω	λαβ*	λαβ-	εῖληφα†	I have received
πείθω	πειθ*	πειθ-	πέποιθα†	I have convinced

† These verbs are second perfects. Alpha (α) is the tense marker.

21.1.9 Perfect Passive Tense Stem (P.P. Stem)

This stem is used to form verbs into the perfect middle/passive. For some verbs, the perfect passive tense stem is identical to the present tense stem. This means the dictionary form of these verbs and, therefore, their meaning is easy to identify. These kinds of verbs do not require extra memorization. Common examples are shown in the following table. Third person singular (3s) forms are provided because they are by far the most common for this tense and voice.

Examples where extra memorization of root or perfect passive stem is unnecessary

Present Form	Root	P.P. Stem	Perfect Form (3s)	Translation
λύω	λυ*	λυ-	λέλυται	he/she/it has been untied
γράφω	γραφ*	γραφ-	γέγραπται	it has been written†
πληρώω††	πληρο*	πληρο-	πεπλήρωται	it has been fulfilled†

† Neuter translation fits best in most New Testament contexts as does the English present “it is written” or “it is fulfilled”.

†† Contract vowel lengthens upon adding ending (α→η; ε→η; ο→ω).

For other verbs, the perfect passive tense stem is not identical to the present tense stem. This means their dictionary form is not as easy to identify. However, the perfect tense stem of these verbs is identical or similar to the root. These roots should be memorized. Common examples are shown in the following table.

Examples where the root should be memorized

Present Form	Root	P.P. Stem	Perfect Form (3s)	Translation
δίδωμι	δο*	δο-	δέδοται	he/she/it has been given
ἀφίημι	ἀπο+έ*	ἀφε-	ἀφέωνται	he/she/it has been forgiven

For a third group of verbs, the perfect passive tense stem is not identical to the present tense stem or root. This means their dictionary form is harder to identify. Thus, the perfect passive form (3s) should be memorized. An example is shown in the following table.

Example where the perfect passive form (3s) should be memorized

Present Form	Root	P.P. Stem	Perfect Form (3s)	Translation
ἐγείρω	ἐγερ*	ἐγερ-	ἐγήγερται†	he has been raised † ἐγείρω experiences double reduplication.

22 PRESENT SUBJUNCTIVE VERBS

22.1 GRAMMAR

22.1.1 Non-Indicative Verb Forms

The verb forms presented in the previous chapters were in the indicative mood. The remaining chapters present non-indicative verb forms. These forms include the subjunctive mood (chapters 22-23), participles (chapters 24-26), infinitives (chapter 27), and the imperative mood (chapter 28). Note that participles and infinitives are not technically moods but are forms that share some of the characteristics of verbs such as tense, voice, and number.

22.1.2 Non-Indicative Forms and Tense

The non-indicative forms communicate tense (review 3.2.2). In general, the main tenses of the non-indicative forms are limited to the present, aorist, and perfect. As with the indicative, these tenses communicate how the action is presented. The following table summarizes these tenses.

Tense	How Action Is Presented
Present	In progress or continuing
Aorist	In summary form
Perfect	In summary form with continuing results

In terms of the when, the subjunctive mood, infinitives, and the imperative mood do not describe the time of an action by their tense forms, although other contextual features may. Participles, on the other hand, often communicate a time element, but it is relative to the time of the main verb.

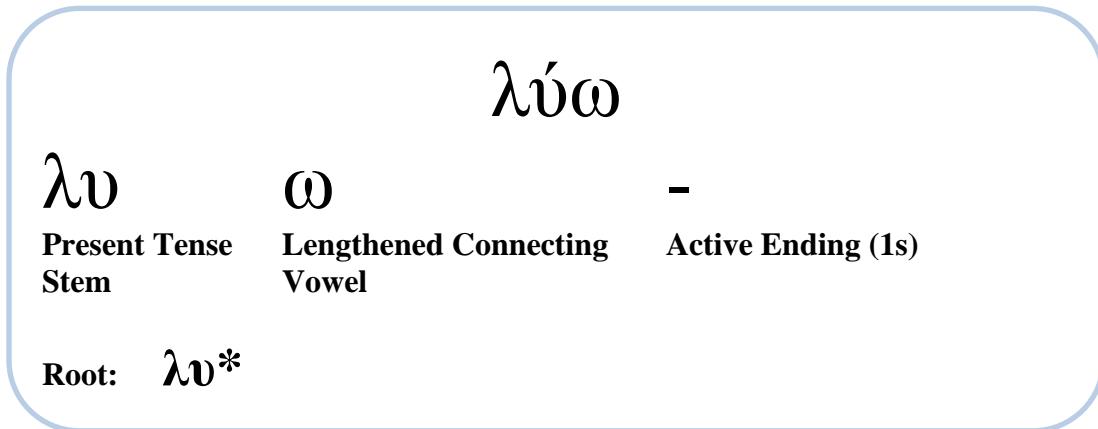

The above introduction is a simplification for the purposes of beginning Greek. Additional study will reveal that lexical (vocabulary) and contextual features can greatly expand this basic explanation.

22.1.3 Subjunctive Mood in English and Greek

As mentioned in 3.2.4, mood is a grammatical category that presents the communicator's "attitude" about what is said or written. The indicative is the primary mood through which information is given or statements are made. The imperative is the primary mood to command action. The subjunctive is the primary mood to express purpose, result, probability, certainty, desire, opinion, etc.

Of course, language has a great deal of flexibility. Sometimes the indicative can be used to command action or express a condition. Overlap between the moods exists. The nature of that overlap varies depending on the language. That is why the word "primary" is used in the above explanation.

22.1.4 Overview of the Present Active and Middle/Passive Subjunctive Parts

22.1.5 Present Subjunctive Active and Middle/Passive Endings

A key feature of subjunctive endings is the lengthening of the connecting vowel. Apart from this lengthening, the endings are identical to the present indicative endings.

P/N	Present
	Indicative	Subjunctive
Active
1s	ω	ῳ
2s	εις	ῃς
3s	ει	ῃ
1p	ομεν	ῳμεν
2p	ετε	ῃτε
3p	ουσι(v)	ῳσι(v)
Middle/Passive
1s	ομαι	ῳμαι
2s	η	ῃ
3s	εται	ῃται
1p	ομεθα	ῳμεθα
2p	εσθε	ῃσθε
3p	ονται	ῳνται

22.1.6 Present Tense Stem

The present tense stem is used to form the present active and middle/passive subjunctive. Review sections 3.3.4 and 4.1.5 for examples.

22.1.7 Key Words for Identifying the Subjunctive

Recognizing the lengthened connecting vowel will help you identify the subjunctive. Another extremely important clue is the presence of certain words that express purpose, possibility, and conditionality. When one of the following words appears, expect the subjunctive to follow. Learn them well.

Key Word	Translation
ἵνα	that, in order that εἴν	if
ἄν	ever (indicates contingency)
ὅταν	whenever ἵπως	so that

Other key words exist, but the above are the most common that have already appeared in the vocabulary.

22.1.8 Examples of the Present Subjunctive

Example 1: καὶ οὐ θέλετε ἐλθεῖν πρός με ἵνα ζωὴν ἔχητε.

And you do not want to come to me that you might have life.

Example 2: ...έὰν ἔχητε πίστιν ώς κόκκον σινάπεως, ἐρεῖτε τῷ ὄρει τούτῳ·
...if you have faith like a mustard seed, you will say to this mountain...

Example 3: ...καὶ ὃς ἂν θέλῃ ἐν ὑμῖν εἶναι πρῶτος ἔσται πάντων δοῦλος·
...and whoever among you wants to be first, he will be slave of all.

Example 4: Εἶπεν δὲ αὐτοῖς· ὅταν προσεύχησθε λέγετε·
And He said to them, ‘Whenever you might pray, say...’

Example 5: Ἐγείρεσθε ἄγωμεν·
Arise, let us go.

Example 6: Τί ποιῶμεν ἵνα ἐργαζόμεθα τὰ ἔργα τοῦ θεοῦ;
What should we do that we might work the works of God?

23 AORIST SUBJUNCTIVE VERBS

23.1 GRAMMAR

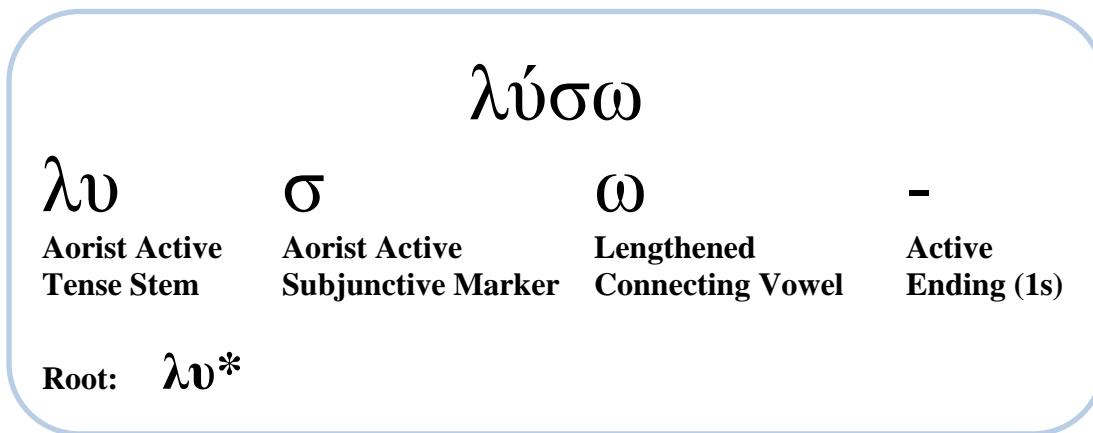

23.1.1 Aorist Tense

In the subjunctive mood, the aorist tense presents the action in summary form. There is no time element implied by the tense forms when used in the subjunctive mood.

23.1.2 Subjunctive Mood

Review sections 3.2.4 and 22.1.1 through 22.1.3.

23.1.3 Overview of the Aorist Active Subjunctive Parts

23.1.4 Augment

The augment only occurs on the aorist and imperfect tenses of the indicative mood.¹ It does not occur on non-indicative forms (subjunctive, participle, infinitive, or imperative).

23.1.5 Aorist Active Subjunctive Tense Marker

First aorist verbs use sigma (σ) as the aorist active and middle tense marker. Second aorist verbs do not use a tense marker. Instead, the aorist tense is identifiable by the aorist stem that differs from the present stem. For both first and second aorist verbs, the passive marker for the subjunctive mood is theta (θ).

¹ The augment also occurs with pluperfect forms, which are rare.

23.1.6 Aorist Active, Middle, and Passive Subjunctive Endings

The aorist active and middle subjunctive endings are identical to the present subjunctive ones.² The aorist passive uses the active endings. In many instances, the aorist tense marker helps to distinguish the present forms from the aorist forms. Other times, differences in the present and aorist stems must be observed to determine the tense used.

P/N	Indicative		Subjunctive
	Present	Present	Aorist
			First	Second

23.1.7 Aorist Tense Stems

The aorist active stem (A.A. Stem) is used to form aorist active and middle subjunctive verbs (Review 18.1.8 and 19.1.7). The aorist passive stem (A.P. Stem) is used to form aorist passive subjunctive verbs (Review 20.1.7). At this point, it is only necessary to review the active stem.

For some verbs, the aorist active stem is identical to the present tense stem. This means the dictionary form of these verbs and, therefore, their meaning is easy to identify. These kinds of verbs do not require extra memorization. Common examples are shown in the following table. Since the first person singular (1s) ending of the indicative and subjunctive mood are identical, the third person singular (3s) forms are listed.

² The “Primary Set” of endings is used instead of “Secondary Set” because the augment is not used with non-indicative forms.

Present Form	Root	A.A. Stem	Subjunctive		Translation
			Aorist (3s)	Present (3s)
λύω	λυ*	λυ-	λύσῃ	λύῃ	he might loose
ποιέω	ποιε*	ποιε-	ποιήσῃ†	ποιῇ	he might do πιστεύω	πιστευ*	πιστευ-	πιστεύσῃ	πιστεύῃ	he might believe ἀκούω	ἀκου*	ἀκου-	ἀκούσῃ	ἀκούῃ	he might hear αἰτέω	αἰτε*	αἰτε-	αἰτήσῃ†	αἰτῇ	he might ask

† The contract vowel lengthens before the aorist tense marker.

For other verbs, the aorist active stem is not identical to the present tense stem, but it is identical or similar to the root. By now, you should know these roots well. Common examples are shown in the following table.

Examples where the roots should be memorized

Present Form	Root	A.A. Stem	Subjunctive		Translation
			Aorist (3s)	Present (3s)
γίνομαι†	γεν*	γεν-	γένηται†	γίνηται†	he might become ἔρχομαι†	ἔλθ*	ἔλθ-	ἔλθῃ	ἔρχηται†	he might come δίδωμι	δο*	δο-	δῷ††	-	he might give ἀπόλλυμι	ἀπολε*	ἀπολε-	ἀπολέσῃ	-	he might destroy λαμβάνω	λαβ*	λαβ-	λάβῃ	λαμβάνῃ	he might take δοκέω	δοκ*	δοκ-	δόξῃ†††	δόκῃ	he might think

† These verbs are deponent in the respective tense.

†† Mi verbs often do not use the aorist subjunctive tense marker (σ).

††† δοκ + σ + η = δόξῃ. See section 23.1.8 regarding spelling changes caused by sigma interacting with certain consonants.

For a third group of verbs, the aorist active stem is not identical to the present tense stem or root. The aorist active form should be memorized. Common examples are shown in the following table.

Examples where aorist active forms (3s) should be memorized

Present Form	Root	A.A. Stem	Subjunctive		Translation
			Aorist (3s)	Present (3s)
λέγω	λεγ*	εἰπ-	εἴπῃ	λέγῃ	he might say όράω	όρα*	ἰδ-	ἰδῃ	-	he might see
ἐσθίω	ἐσθι*	φαγ-	φάγῃ	ἐσθίῃ	he might eat
ἔχω	σεχ*	σχ-	σχή	ἔχῃ	he might have

† These verbs are deponent in the respective tense.

23.1.8 Changes in Roots Ending in a Labial, Guttural, or Dental

Similar to the future tense and aorist indicative tenses, the aorist active subjunctive marker sigma (σ) changes into a new letter when it interacts with stems ending in a labial, guttural, or dental. The changes are shown in the following table.

Letter Class	Changed Letter			Tense Marker	Result
Labial	π (pi)	β (beta)	ϕ (phi)	$+ \sigma$	$= \psi$
Guttural	κ (kappa)	γ (gamma)	χ (chi)	$+ \sigma$	$= \xi$
Dental	τ (tau)	δ (delta)	θ (theta)	$+ \sigma$	$= \sigma^\dagger$

[†] The dentals tau (τ), delta (δ), and theta (θ) normally drop out before a sigma (σ).

23.1.9 Key Words for Identifying the Subjunctive

As previously mentioned, the subjunctive mood (present or aorist tense) almost always accompanies certain key words. The following table lists those words and includes a new one: οὐ μή. The aorist subjunctive frequently follows this pair, and it is the strongest way to deny something in Greek.

Key Word	Translation
ἴνα	that, in order that ἐάν	if
ἄν	ever (indicates contingency; sometimes adds indefinite idea)
ὅταν	whenever
οὐ μή	by no means, never (strongest negation in Greek; often translated with future tense)

23.1.10 Examples of the Aorist Subjunctive

Example 1: Τί οὖν ποιεῖς σὺ σημεῖον, ἵνα ἴδωμεν καὶ πιστεύσωμέν σοι;
Therefore, what sign do you do so that we might see and believe you.

Example 2: Δι’ ἐμοῦ ἐάν τις εἰσέλθῃ σωθήσεται καὶ εἰσελεύσεται
If someone should enter through me, he will be saved and enter...

Example 3: Αὐτοῦ ἀκούσεσθε κατὰ πάντα ὅσα ἂν λαλήσῃ πρὸς ὑμᾶς.
You shall hear him according to everything he might say to you.

Example 4: Καὶ νῦν εἴρηκα ὑμῖν πρὸιν γενέσθαι, ἵνα ὅταν γένηται πιστεύσητε.
And now I have spoken to you before it happens in order that whenever it should happen, you might believe.

Example 5: ...έὰν μὴ περισσεύσῃ ὑμῶν ἡ δικαιοցύνη πλεῖον τῶν γραμματέων καὶ Φαρισαίων, οὐ μὴ εἰσέλθητε εἰς τὴν βασιλείαν τῶν οὐρανῶν.
...if your righteousness does not exceed that of the scribes and Pharisees, you will by no means enter the kingdom of heaven.

Example 6: ...καὶ τὸν ἐρχόμενον πρὸς ἐμὲ οὐ μὴ ἐκβάλω ἔξω...
...and the one who comes to me I will definitely not cast out forever.

Example 7: Δεῦτε ἀποκτείνωμεν αὐτὸν καὶ σχῶμεν τὴν κληρονομίαν αὐτοῦ...
Come, let us kill him and have his inheritance...

This example shows that the subjunctive can function as an exhortation (“let us kill” and “let us have/take”).

Example 8: ...Ιωσὴφ ... μὴ φοβηθῆς παραλαβεῖν Μαριὰμ τὴν γυναικά σου...
...Joseph ... do be afraid to take Mary as your wife...

This example shows that the subjunctive can be used as a prohibition.

23.3 OMEGA VERBS: SECOND AORIST ACTIVE AND MIDDLE SUBJUNCTIVE³

Memorization of these forms is not necessary. Recognizing the differences in stem between the aorist and present is the key to identifying the tense of these forms

23.3.1 Aorist Active Subjunctive Forms of ἔρχομαι

If related verbs are included in the count, ἔρχομαι is the most common verb in the second aorist active subjunctive form. Although deponent in the present and future tenses, ἔρχομαι is not deponent in the aorist indicative or subjunctive.

Pronoun	Stem	Ending	Form	Translation	Aorist Indicative
Singular
ἐγώ		ω	ἔλθω	I might come	ἔλθον

³ Passive forms of second aorist verbs are not included because they are not very common.

23.4 MI AND CONTRACT VERBS: AORIST ACTIVE SUBJUNCTIVE

23.4.1 Mi Verbs: Aorist Active Subjunctive Forms

Other than εἰμί, present subjunctive mi verbs are rare in the New Testament. For that reason, their forms were not given in the last chapter. Aorist subjunctive mi verbs, however, are more common. Their forms are listed below.⁴ As with other tenses, the absence of duplication with iota reveals that the form is not present or imperfect tense. In the case of a mi verb in the subjunctive, the only tense options are the present and aorist. Although the lengthened stem vowel is a helpful clue for the subjunctive, the key words for the subjunctive are a greater help.

Pronoun	Dictionary Form (Uses Present Tense Stem)
	λύω	δίδωμι	ἴστημι	τίθημι	ἀφίημι
	Verbal Root
	λυ*	δο*	στα*	θε*	ἀπο+έ*

αὐτοί, αἱ, ἀ	λύσωσι(v)	δῶσι(v)	στῶσι(v)	-	-

23.4.2 Contract Verbs: Aorist Active Subjunctive Forms

The primary difference between these forms and non-contract omega verbs is that, upon attaching the tense marker, the contract vowel alpha (α), epsilon (ε), and omicron (ο) lengthens. Since this change is simple, it is sufficient to only show it in the active forms.

Pronoun	λύω	ποιέω	ἀγαπάω	πληρόω
Singular
ἐγώ	λύσω	ποιήσω	ἀγαπήσω	πληρώσω

24 PRESENT PARTICIPLES

24.1 GRAMMAR

24.1.1 Introduction to Greek Participles

Greek participles combine the natures of two different parts of speech, the verb and adjective, into one word. Participles are verbal adjectives. The verbal nature is reflected in that participles have tense, voice, and number (not mood or person). They can also perform several verbal functions in a sentence as well as take a direct and indirect object. The adjectival nature is reflected in that participles have case, gender, and number. They can also perform some adjectival functions in the sentence. This dual nature is why participles are one of the most complex and important parts of speech in Greek. The following sections discuss each of those areas.

24.1.2 Tense

Participles have different forms that communicate tense. The possible tenses are present, aorist, and perfect.¹ These tenses convey how the action is described and when the action occurs relative to the time of the main verb.

Tense	How Action Presented	When Action Occurs
Present	In progress or continuing	Simultaneous with main verb
Aorist	In summary form	Prior to (or simultaneous) with main verb
Perfect	In summary form with continuing results	Prior to main verb with results until speaker's time

As with verbs, the matter of tense is complicated. The above table is a basic presentation for the purposes of beginning Greek. Variations exist depending on different factors including the words used and overall context. Whether the participle's verbal or adjectival nature is emphasized also impacts the features of "how" and "when" of the tense. Additional study will be necessary.

24.1.3 Voice

Participles have different forms that communicate voice (active, middle, passive). For active voice, the subject of the participle performs the action of the participle. For passive voice, the subject of the participle receives the action of the participle. Middle voice is often translated as active voice.

A few comments about the participle's subject are necessary. First, the participle's subject could be another word in the same sentence, or it could be a word in a sentence nearby. Often, the participle's subject is the generic person or thing to which the participle itself refers (ό πιστεύων = he who believes). Finally, the subject of the participle and the subject of the main verb are not always or necessarily the same. Often they are, but sometimes they are not. The subject of the participle could also be the direct object of the main verb, indirect object of the main verb, or stand in some other relation to the main verb.

¹ The future participle also exists but is rare in the New Testament. Its forms are not presented herein.

24.1.4 Mood

Participles do not have mood (indicative, subjunctive, imperative). Furthermore, participles are not technically a mood. Nevertheless, when analyzing a participle, indicate that it is a participle by using the mood slot (“present, active, participle, etc.”).

24.1.5 Case

Participles have different forms that communicate case (nominative, genitive, dative, and accusative). The participle will have the same case as its subject. If the participle’s subject is the generic person referenced by the participle itself (substantival use), the participle’s case will depend on its function in the sentence.

24.1.6 Gender

Participles have different forms that communicate gender (masculine, feminine, neuter). The participle will have the same gender as its subject (or referent). For example, if the participle’s subject is masculine, the participle will be masculine.

24.1.7 Number

Participles have different forms that communicate number (singular or plural). The participle will have the same number as its subject (or referent). For example, if the participle’s subject is singular, the participle will be singular.

24.1.8 Person

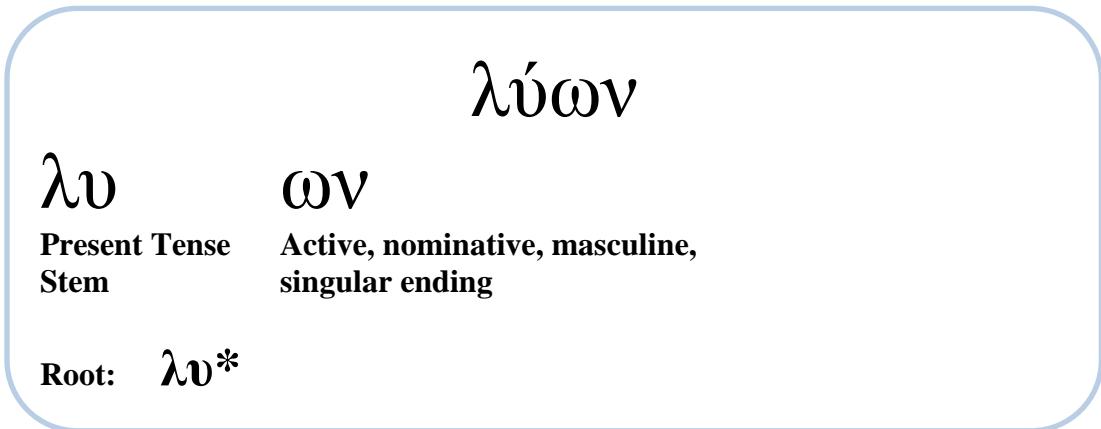

Participles do not have person (first, second, third).

24.1.9 Summary of the Participle’s Forms

Participles have different forms that communicate tense, voice, case, gender, and number. The possibilities for each category are shown in the following table. The participle will have the same case, gender, and number as its subject.

Tense	Voice	Case	Gender	Number
Present	Active	Nominative	Masculine	Singular
Aorist	Middle	Genitive	Feminine	Plural
Perfect	Passive	Dative	Neuter
		Accusative

24.1.12 Present Tense Stem

The above endings are attached to the present tense stem. Review sections 3.3.4, 4.1.5, and 14.1.6 regarding that stem.

24.1.13 Introduction to Adjectival and Verbal Uses of the Participle

The participle has a verbal and adjectival nature. In a given context each nature is present, although one nature will normally dominate the other such that the participle functions adjectivally or verbally.

The obvious question is: How will you know if the participle is functioning adjectivally or verbally? The answer is context. The most important contextual clue is the presence of the article. If the article accompanies the participle, the participle's use will always be adjectival. If the article is absent, the participle is often verbal but sometimes adjectival. In that instance, other contextual factors must be considered to decide between the two.

Seeing examples of the participle is the best way to learn its various uses. The next section provides examples of the adjectival use. Chapters 25 and 26 provide examples of the verbal use.

24.1.14 Adjectival Uses of the Participle (Present Tense Examples)

The adjectival participle has three uses: substantival, attributive, and predicate. Of those, the substantival participle is the most common.

Substantival Use (Present Tense Examples)

With this use, the participle functions as a noun. The substantival use is clearly in view when the participle has the article and is not modifying another noun in the sentence as determined from context and lack of agreement in case, gender, and number with another noun. For the substantival use, proper translation often requires additional words such as “he who...” or “she who...” or “one who...”.

Example 1: ὁ πιστεύων εἰς τὸν υἱὸν ἔχει ζωὴν αἰώνιον.
He who believes in the Son has eternal life.

The present participle πιστεύων is adjectival (not adverbial) because it has the matching article (ὁ). The participle's use is substantival because it does not modify any noun in the sentence. The participle is in the nominative case because it is the subject of the verb ἔχει.

Example 2: καὶ τὸν ἐρχόμενον πρὸς ἐμὲ οὐ μὴ ἐκβάλω ἔξω...
And I will by no means cast out the one who comes to me...

The present participle ἐρχόμενον is adjectival (not adverbial) because it has the matching article (τὸν). The participle's use is substantival because it does not modify any noun in the sentence. The participle is in the accusative case because it is the direct object of the verb ἐκβάλλω.

Example 3: τῷ δὲ ἐργαζομένῳ ὁ μισθὸς οὐ λογίζεται κατὰ χάριν...
 But to the one who works the payment is not credited according to grace...

The present participle ἐργαζομένῳ is adjectival because it has the matching article (τῷ). The participle's use is substantival because it does not modify any noun in the sentence. The participle is in the dative case because it is the indirect object of the verb λογίζεται.

Attributive Use (Present Tense Examples)

With the attributive use, the participle modifies a noun. The attributive use is clearly in view when the participle has the article and is modifying another noun in the sentence as determined from the overall context and agreement with a noun in case, gender, and number. As with the adjective, the placement and position of the article helps indicate those connections. The following table presents a reduced list of the possible constructions. For the complete list, see 12.1.3.

Position Name	Attributive Use	Translation
With Article
1 st Position	ὁ ζῶν πατήρ
2 nd Position	ὁ πατήρ ὁ ζῶν	the Father who lives

Example 4: καθὼς ἀπέστειλέν με ὁ ζῶν πατήρ...
 Just as the living Father (or “the Father who lives”) sent me...

The present participle ζῶν is adjectival (not adverbial) because it has the matching article (ὁ). The participle's use is attributive because it modifies the noun πατήρ as clear from the article-participle-noun construction and because ζῶν agrees with πατήρ (its subject) in case (nominative), gender (masculine), and number (singular). The noun πατήρ is in the nominative case because it is the subject of the verb ἀπέστειλέν.

Example 5: ...ἀπῆλθεν ὁ ἄγγελος ὁ λαλῶν αὐτῷ
 ...the angel that was speaking to him departed

The present participle λαλῶν is adjectival (not adverbial) because it has the matching article (ὁ). The participle's use is attributive because it modifies the noun ἄγγελος as clear from the article-noun-article-participle construction and because λαλῶν agrees with ἄγγελος in case (nominative), gender (masculine), and number (singular). The noun ἄγγελος is in the nominative case because it is the subject of the verb ἀπῆλθεν. Observe that, in this context, the translation “was speaking” is appropriate even though it is a present participle.

Predicate Use (Present Tense Examples)

With the predicate use, the participle completes a thought about a noun. The predicate use normally does not have the article, although the associated noun often will. The predicate use is common with verbs of perception such as βλέπω (I see). As with the adjective, the placement and position of the article helps indicate these connections. The following table presents a reduced list of the possible constructions. For the complete list, see 12.1.3.

Position Name	Predicate Use	Translation
With Article
1 st Position	ἄγιος ὁ ἄνθρωπος
2 nd Position	ὁ ἄνθρωπος ἄγιος	The man is holy.

Example 6: ...βλέπει τὸν Ἰησοῦν ἐρχόμενον πρὸς αὐτόν.
...he sees (saw) Jesus coming to him.

Even though the present participle ἐρχόμενον does not have the article, the participle is adjectival (not adverbial) because it does not modify a verb. The participle's use is predicate because it completes a thought about the noun Ἰησοῦν (He was coming). As in this instance, predicate participles often accompany a verb of perception (βλέπει). The noun Ἰησοῦν is the participle's subject. As such, the participle agrees with Ἰησοῦν in case (accusative), gender (masculine), and number (singular). The case of Ἰησοῦν is accusative because it is the direct object of the verb βλέπει.

24.2 OMEGA VERBS: PRESENT PARTICIPLES (ALL VOICES)

Memorize the forms of λύω. With that said, concentrate on the masculine forms since, in general, they are the most common, especially the nominative forms.

24.3 MI VERBS: PRESENT ACTIVE PARTICIPLES

Of the mi verbs normally presented, only the participle forms of εἰμί and δίδωμι (masculine, active) occur enough to warrant their inclusion. The forms of εἰμί are listed first because they are more common.

24.3.1 Present Active Participle Forms of εἰμί

Memorization of these forms is not necessary because they are identical to the endings provided with omega verbs.

Case	3 rd Declension	1 st Declension	3 rd Declension
	Masculine	Feminine	Neuter

24.3.2 Present Active Participle Forms of δίδωμι (Masculine)

As with all present tense mi verbs, the duplication with iota is readily apparent. Other than the nominative singular (δίδούς), the forms are similar to those learned with the omega verbs without the connecting vowel. Therefore, memorization is not necessary.

24.4 EXERCISES

Read the following sentences out loud and then translate them. For the first 30 exercises, parse the word in bold. For participles, parsing means to write the tense, voice, “participle” in the mood slot, case, gender, number, and dictionary form.

In addition, if the bolded word is a participle:

1. Indicate if its adjectival use is substantival, attributive, or predicate.
 2. Indicate why the participle has the case that it has. Is the participle in the case that it is because it is serving a specific function in the sentence such as subject or direct object? (If so, which function?) Or, is the participle in the case it is because it is modifying another word and agrees with that word in case? (If so, which word?)
1. Μακάριοι οἱ ὄφθαλμοὶ οἱ βλέποντες ἢ βλέπετε. λέγω γὰρ ὑμῖν ὅτι πολλοὶ προφῆται καὶ βασιλεῖς ἡθέλησαν ιδεῖν (to see) ἢ ὑμεῖς βλέπετε καὶ οὐκ εἶδαν, καὶ ἀκοῦσαι (to hear) ἢ ἀκούετε καὶ οὐκ ἤκουσαν. (KATA ΛΟΥΚΑΝ 10:24)
 2. καὶ εἶπεν αὐτοῖς, Ὅμεις ἐστε οἱ δικαιοῦντες ἔαυτοὺς ἐνώπιον τῶν ἀνθρώπων, ὁ δὲ θεὸς γινώσκει τὰς καρδίας ὑμῶν
 3. Λέγω γὰρ ὑμῖν, ὅτι παντὶ τῷ ἔχοντι δοθήσεται· ἀπὸ δὲ τοῦ μὴ ἔχοντος, καὶ ὃ ἔχει ἀρθήσεται ἀπ' αὐτοῦ. (KATA ΛΟΥΚΑΝ 19:26)
 4. Εἰς τὰ ἵδια ἦλθεν, καὶ οἱ ἵδιοι αὐτὸν οὐ παρέλαβον. Ὅσοι δὲ ἔλαβον αὐτόν, ἔδωκεν αὐτοῖς ἔξουσίαν τέκνα θεοῦ γενέσθαι (to become), τοῖς πιστεύουσιν εἰς τὸ ὄνομα αὐτοῦ· οἱ οὐκ ἐξ αἰμάτων, οὐδὲ ἐκ θελήματος σαρκός, οὐδὲ ἐκ θελήματος ἀνδρός, ἀλλ' ἐκ θεοῦ ἐγεννήθησαν.
 5. Οὗτως γὰρ ἡγάπησεν ὁ θεὸς τὸν κόσμον, ὥστε τὸν υἱὸν αὐτοῦ τὸν μονογενῆ (only begotten) ἔδωκεν, ἵνα πᾶς ὁ πιστεύων εἰς αὐτὸν μὴ ἀπόληται, ἀλλ' ἔχῃ ζωὴν αἰώνιον. Οὐ γὰρ ἀπέστειλεν ὁ θεὸς τὸν υἱὸν αὐτοῦ εἰς τὸν κόσμον ἵνα κρίνῃ τὸν κόσμον, ἀλλ' ἵνα σωθῇ ὁ κόσμος δι' αὐτοῦ. Ὁ πιστεύων εἰς αὐτὸν οὐ κρίνεται· ὁ δὲ μὴ πιστεύων ἥδη κέκριται, ὅτι μὴ πεπίστευκεν εἰς τὸ ὄνομα τοῦ μονογενοῦς (only begotten) υἱοῦ τοῦ θεοῦ. Αὕτη δέ ἐστιν ἡ κρίσις, ὅτι τὸ φῶς ἐλήλυθεν εἰς τὸν κόσμον, καὶ ἡγάπησαν οἱ ἀνθρώποι μᾶλλον τὸ σκότος ἡ τὸ φῶς· ἦν γὰρ πονηρὰ αὐτῶν τὰ ἔργα. (KATA ΙΩΑΝΝΗΝ 3:16-19)
 6. Ὁ δὲ ποιῶν τὴν ἀλήθειαν ἔρχεται πρὸς τὸ φῶς, ἵνα φανερωθῇ αὐτοῦ τὰ ἔργα, ὅτι ἐν θεῷ ἐστιν εἰργασμένα (they have been done). Μετὰ ταῦτα ἦλθεν ὁ Ἰησοῦς καὶ οἱ μαθηταὶ αὐτοῦ εἰς τὴν Ιουδαίαν γῆν.
 7. Ὁ πατὴρ ἀγαπᾷ τὸν υἱόν, καὶ πάντα δέδωκεν ἐν τῇ χειρὶ αὐτοῦ. Ὁ πιστεύων εἰς τὸν υἱὸν ἔχει ζωὴν αἰώνιον· ὁ δὲ ἀπειθῶν (he who does not obey) τῷ υἱῷ, οὐκ ὅψεται τὸν ζωήν, ἀλλ' ἡ ὄργὴ τοῦ θεοῦ μένει ἐπ' αὐτόν. (KATA ΙΩΑΝΝΗΝ 3:35-36)
 8. Ἀπεκρίθη Ἰησοῦς καὶ εἶπεν αὐτῇ, Πᾶς ὁ πίνων ἐκ τοῦ ὕδατος τούτου, διψήσει (will thirst) πάλιν· ὅς δ' ἂν πίῃ ἐκ τοῦ ὕδατος οὐ ἔγῳ δώσω αὐτῷ, οὐ μὴ διψήσῃ (will never thirst) εἰς τὸν αἰώνα·

9. Ὅμεις προσκυνεῖτε ὁ οὐκ οἴδατε· ἡμεῖς προσκυνοῦμεν ὁ οἴδαμεν· ὅτι ἡ σωτηρία ἐκ τῶν Ἰουδαίων ἔστιν. Ἀλλ' ἔρχεται ὥρα καὶ νῦν ἔστιν, ὅτε οἱ ἀληθινοὶ (true) προσκυνηταὶ (worshippers) προσκυνήσουσιν τῷ πατρὶ ἐν πνεύματι καὶ ἀληθείᾳ· καὶ γὰρ ὁ πατὴρ τοιούτους ζητεῖ τοὺς προσκυνοῦντας αὐτὸν. 10. Ἀπεκρίνατο οὖν ὁ Ἰησοῦς καὶ εἶπεν αὐτοῖς, Ἄμην ἀμὴν λέγω ὑμῖν, οὐ δύναται ὁ νιὸς ποιεῖν (to do) ἀφ' ἑαυτοῦ οὐδέν, ἐὰν μή τι βλέπῃ τὸν πατέρα ποιοῦντα· ἂ γὰρ ἀν ἐκεῖνος ποιῇ, ταῦτα καὶ ὁ νιὸς ὁμοίως (likewise) ποιεῖ.
11. Ἄμην ἀμὴν λέγω ὑμῖν ὅτι ὁ τὸν λόγον μου ἀκούων, καὶ πιστεύων τῷ πέμψαντί (Him who sent) με, ἔχει ζωὴν αἰώνιον· καὶ εἰς κρίσιν οὐκ ἔρχεται, ἀλλὰ μεταβέβηκεν (has passed) ἐκ τοῦ θανάτου εἰς τὴν ζωήν. (KATA ΙΩΑΝΝΗΝ 5:24)
12. Ἐλλος ἔστιν ὁ μαρτυρῶν περὶ ἐμοῦ, καὶ οἶδα ὅτι ἀληθής (true) ἔστιν ἡ μαρτυρία ἡν μαρτυρεῖ περὶ ἐμοῦ. Ὅμεις ἀπεστάλκατε πρὸς Ἰωάννην, καὶ μεμαρτύρηκεν τῇ ἀληθείᾳ. Ἔγὼ δὲ οὐ παρὰ ἀνθρώπου τὴν μαρτυρίαν λαμβάνω, ἀλλὰ ταῦτα λέγω ἵνα ὑμεῖς σωθῆτε.
13. Εἶπεν οὖν αὐτοῖς ὁ Ἰησοῦς, Ἄμην ἀμὴν λέγω ὑμῖν, οὐ Μωσῆς δέδωκεν ὑμῖν τὸν ἄρτον ἐκ τοῦ οὐρανοῦ· ἀλλ' ὁ πατὴρ μου δίδωσιν ὑμῖν τὸν ἄρτον ἐκ τοῦ οὐρανοῦ τὸν ἀληθινόν (true). Ὁ γὰρ ἄρτος τοῦ θεοῦ ἔστιν ὁ καταβαίνων ἐκ τοῦ οὐρανοῦ καὶ ζωὴν διδοὺς τῷ κόσμῳ. (KATA ΙΩΑΝΝΗΝ 6:32-33)
14. Πᾶν ὁ δίδωσίν μοι ὁ πατὴρ πρὸς ἐμὲ ἥξει (will come)· καὶ τὸν ἐρχόμενον πρός με οὐ μὴ ἐκβάλω ἔξω. Ὅτι καταβέβηκα ἐκ τοῦ οὐρανοῦ, οὐχ ἵνα ποιῶ τὸ θέλημα τὸ ἐμόν, ἀλλὰ τὸ θέλημα τοῦ πέμψαντός (Him who sent) με. Τοῦτο δέ ἔστιν τὸ θέλημα τοῦ πέμψαντός (of the ... who sent) με πατρός, ἵνα πᾶς ὁ δέδωκέν μοι, μὴ ἀπολέσω ἐξ αὐτοῦ, ἀλλὰ ἀναστήσω τὸν ἄρτον τῇ ἡμέρᾳ. Τοῦτο δέ ἔστιν τὸ θέλημα τοῦ πέμψαντός (of Him who sent) με, ἵνα πᾶς ὁ θεωρῶν τὸν νιὸν καὶ πιστεύων εἰς αὐτόν, ἔχῃ ζωὴν αἰώνιον, καὶ ἀναστήσω αὐτὸν ἐγὼ τῇ ἐσχάτῃ ἡμέρᾳ.
15. Οὗτός ἔστιν ὁ ἄρτος ὁ ἐκ τοῦ οὐρανοῦ καταβαίνων, ἵνα τις ἐξ αὐτοῦ φάγῃ καὶ μὴ ἀποθάνῃ. Ἔγὼ εἰμι ὁ ἄρτος ὁ ζῶν, ὁ ἐκ τοῦ οὐρανοῦ καταβάς (that has descended)· ἐάν τις φάγῃ ἐκ τούτου τοῦ ἄρτου, ζήσεται εἰς τὸν αἰῶνα. Καὶ ὁ ἄρτος δὲ ὃν ἐγὼ δώσω, ἡ σάρξ μου ἔστιν, ἡν ἐγὼ δώσω ὑπὲρ τῆς τοῦ κόσμου ζωῆς. (KATA ΙΩΑΝΝΗΝ 6:50-51)
16. Ἔγὼ εἰμι τὸ φῶς τοῦ κόσμου· ὁ ἀκολουθῶν ἐμοὶ οὐ μὴ περιπατήσῃ ἐν τῇ σκοτίᾳ (darkness), ἀλλ' ἔξει τὸ φῶς τῆς ζωῆς. Εἶπον οὖν αὐτῷ οἱ Φαρισαῖοι, Σὺ περὶ σεαυτοῦ μαρτυρεῖς· ἡ μαρτυρία σου οὐκ ἔστιν ἀληθής (true).
17. Ἀπεκρίθη αὐτοῖς ὁ Ἰησοῦς, Ἄμην ἀμὴν λέγω ὑμῖν, ὅτι πᾶς ὁ ποιῶν τὴν ἀμαρτίαν δοῦλός ἔστιν τῆς ἀμαρτίας. Ὁ δὲ δοῦλος οὐ μένει ἐν τῇ οἰκίᾳ εἰς τὸν αἰῶνα· ὁ νιὸς μένει εἰς τὸν αἰῶνα. (KATA ΙΩΑΝΝΗΝ 8:34-35)
18. Εἰ δὲ ἀλήθειαν λέγω, διὰ τί ὑμεῖς οὐ πιστεύετέ μοι; Ὁ ῶν ἐκ τοῦ θεοῦ τὰ ρήματα τοῦ θεοῦ ἀκούει· διὰ τοῦτο ὑμεῖς οὐκ ἀκούετε, ὅτι ἐκ τοῦ θεοῦ οὐκ ἔστε. Ἀπεκρίθησαν οὖν οἱ Ἰουδαῖοι καὶ εἶπον αὐτῷ, Οὐ καλῶς λέγομεν ἡμεῖς ὅτι Σαμαρείτης (a Samaritan) εἶ σύ, καὶ δαιμόνιον ἔχεις;

19. Άπεκριθη Ἰησοῦς, Ἐὰν ἐγὼ δοξάζω ἐμαυτόν, ή δόξα μου οὐδέν εστιν· εστιν ό πατήρ μου ό δοξάζων με, ὃν ὑμεῖς λέγετε ὅτι θεὸς ἡμῶν εστιν, καὶ οὐκ ἐγνώκατε αὐτόν· ἐγὼ δὲ οἶδα αὐτόν, καὶ ἐὰν εἴπω ὅτι οὐκ οἶδα αὐτόν, ἔσομαι ὄμοιος ὑμῶν, ψεύστης (a liar)· ἀλλ' οἶδα αὐτόν, καὶ τὸν λόγον αὐτοῦ τηρῶ. (KATA ΙΩΑΝΝΗΝ 8:54-55)
20. Καὶ εἶπεν ὁ Ἰησοῦς, Εἰς κρίμα ἐγὼ εἰς τὸν κόσμον τοῦτον ἥλθον, ἵνα οἱ μὴ βλέποντες βλέπωσιν, καὶ οἱ βλέποντες τυφλοὶ γένωνται. Καὶ ἤκουσαν ἐκ τῶν Φαρισαίων ταῦτα οἱ ὄντες μετ' αὐτοῦ, καὶ εἶπον αὐτῷ, Μὴ καὶ ὑμεῖς τυφλοί ἐσμεν; Εἶπεν αὐτοῖς ὁ Ἰησοῦς, Εἰ τυφλοὶ ἦτε, οὐκ ἀν εἴχετε ἀμαρτίαν· νῦν δὲ λέγετε ὅτι Βλέπομεν· ή οὖν ἀμαρτία ὑμῶν μένει.
21. Άλλὰ καὶ νῦν οἶδα ὅτι ὅσα ἀν αἰτήσῃ τὸν θεόν, δώσει σοι ό θεός. Λέγει αὐτῇ ὁ Ἰησοῦς, Ἀναστήσεται ό ἀδελφός σου. Λέγει αὐτῷ Μάρθα (Martha), Οἶδα ὅτι ἀναστήσεται ἐν τῇ ἀναστάσει ἐν τῇ ἐσχάτῃ ἡμέρᾳ. Εἶπεν αὐτῇ ὁ Ἰησοῦς, Ἐγώ εἰμι ἡ ἀνάστασις καὶ ἡ ζωή· ό πιστεύων εἰς ἐμέ, καν (and if) ἀποθάνῃ, ζήσεται· καὶ πᾶς ὁ ζῶν καὶ πιστεύων εἰς ἐμέ, οὐ μὴ ἀποθάνῃ εἰς τὸν αἰῶνα. Πιστεύεις τοῦτο; Λέγει αὐτῷ, Ναί (Yes), κύριε· ἐγὼ πεπίστευκα, ὅτι σὺ εἶ ὁ Χριστός, ό νιὸς τοῦ θεοῦ, ό εἰς τὸν κόσμον ἐρχόμενος. (KATA ΙΩΑΝΝΗΝ 11:22-27)
22. Ἡγάπησαν γὰρ τὴν δόξαν τῶν ἀνθρώπων μᾶλλον ἥπερ (than) τὴν δόξαν τοῦ θεοῦ. Ἰησοῦς δὲ ἔκραξεν καὶ εἶπεν, Ὁ πιστεύων εἰς ἐμέ, οὐ πιστεύει εἰς ἐμέ, ἀλλ' εἰς τὸν πέμψαντά (Him who sent) με· καὶ ό θεωρῶν ἐμέ, θεωρεῖ τὸν πέμψαντά (Him who sent) με.
23. Ἐτι μικρὸν καὶ ό κόσμος με οὐκέτι θεωρεῖ, ύμεις δὲ θεωρεῖτε με· ὅτι ἐγὼ ζῶ, καὶ ύμεις ζήσεσθε. Ἐν ἐκείνῃ τῇ ἡμέρᾳ γνώσεσθε ύμεις ὅτι ἐγὼ ἐν τῷ πατρί μου, καὶ ύμεις ἐν ἐμοί, καὶ ἐγὼ ἐν ύμῖν. Ὁ ἔχων τὰς ἐντολὰς μου καὶ τηρῶν αὐτάς, ἐκεῖνός εστιν ό ἀγαπῶν με· ό δὲ ἀγαπῶν με, ἀγαπηθήσεται ὑπὸ τοῦ πατρός μου· καὶ ἐγὼ ἀγαπήσω αὐτόν... (KATA ΙΩΑΝΝΗΝ 14:19-21)
24. Οὐ γὰρ ἐπαισχύνομαι (I am ... ashamed of) τὸ εὐαγγέλιον τοῦ Χριστοῦ· δύναμις γὰρ θεοῦ εστιν εἰς σωτηρίαν παντὶ τῷ πιστεύοντι, Ιουδαίῳ τε πρῶτον καὶ Ἐλληνι (to Greek).
25. Τέλος γὰρ νόμου Χριστὸς εἰς δικαιοσύνην παντὶ τῷ πιστεύοντι. Μωϋσῆς γὰρ γράφει τὴν δικαιοσύνην τὴν ἐκ τοῦ νόμου... (ΠΡΟΣ ΡΩΜΑΙΟΥΣ 10:4-5)
26. Καὶ ἐν τούτῳ γινώσκομεν ὅτι ἐγνώκαμεν αὐτόν, ἐὰν τὰς ἐντολὰς αὐτοῦ τηρῶμεν. Ὁ λέγων, Ἐγνωκα αὐτόν, καὶ τὰς ἐντολὰς αὐτοῦ μὴ τηρῶν, ψεύστης (liar) εστίν, καὶ ἐν τούτῳ ή ἀλήθεια οὐκ ἔστιν.
27. Ἐὰν εἰδῆτε ὅτι δίκαιος ἔστιν, γινώσκετε ὅτι πᾶς ό ποιῶν τὴν δικαιοσύνην ἐξ αὐτοῦ γεγέννηται. (ΙΩΑΝΝΟΥ Α 2:29)
28. Καὶ πᾶς ό ἔχων τὴν ἐλπίδα ταύτην ἐπ' αὐτῷ ἀγνίζει (sanctifies) ἐαυτόν, καθὼς ἐκεῖνος ἀγνός (holy) εστιν.
29. Πᾶς ό ἐν αὐτῷ μένων οὐχ ἀμαρτάνει· πᾶς ό ἀμαρτάνων οὐχ ἐώρακεν αὐτόν, οὐδὲ ἔγνωκεν αὐτόν. (ΙΩΑΝΝΟΥ Α 3:6)
30. ό ποιῶν τὴν δικαιοσύνην δίκαιος ἔστιν, καθὼς ἐκεῖνος δίκαιος ἔστιν· ό ποιῶν τὴν ἀμαρτίαν ἐκ τοῦ διαβόλου ἔστιν, ὅτι ἀπ' ἀρχῆς ό διάβολος ἀμαρτάνει. Εἰς τοῦτο ἐφανερώθη ό νιὸς τοῦ θεοῦ, ἵνα λύσῃ τὰ ἔργα τοῦ διαβόλου.

31. Ἐν τούτῳ φανερά (evident) ἐστιν τὰ τέκνα τοῦ θεοῦ καὶ τὰ τέκνα τοῦ διαβόλου· πᾶς ὁ μὴ ποιῶν δικαιοσύνην οὐκ ἐστιν ἐκ τοῦ θεοῦ, καὶ ὁ μὴ ἀγαπῶν τὸν ἀδελφὸν αὐτοῦ. Ὅτι αὕτη ἐστὶν ἡ ἀγγελία ἣν ἡκούσατε ἀπ' ἀρχῆς, ἵνα ἀγαπῶμεν ἀλλήλους· (ΙΩΑΝΝΟΥ Α 3:10-11)
32. Καὶ ὁ τηρῶν τὰς ἐντολὰς αὐτοῦ ἐν αὐτῷ μένει, καὶ αὐτὸς ἐν αὐτῷ. Καὶ ἐν τούτῳ γινώσκομεν ὅτι μένει ἐν ἡμῖν, ἐκ τοῦ πνεύματος οὗ ἡμῖν ἔδωκεν.
33. Αὐτοὶ ἐκ τοῦ κόσμου εἰσίν· διὰ τοῦτο ἐκ τοῦ κόσμου λαλοῦσιν, καὶ ὁ κόσμος αὐτῶν ἀκούει. Ἡμεῖς ἐκ τοῦ θεοῦ ἐσμεν· ὁ γινώσκων τὸν θεόν, ἀκούει ἡμᾶν· ὃς οὐκ ἐστιν ἐκ τοῦ θεοῦ, οὐκ ἀκούει ἡμῶν. Ἐκ τούτου γινώσκομεν τὸ πνεῦμα τῆς ἀληθείας καὶ τὸ πνεῦμα τῆς πλάνης (deception). Ἀγαπητοί, ἀγαπῶμεν ἀλλήλους· ὅτι ἡ ἀγάπη ἐκ τοῦ θεοῦ ἐστιν, καὶ πᾶς ὁ ἀγαπῶν ἐκ τοῦ θεοῦ γεγέννηται, καὶ γινώσκει τὸν θεόν. (ΙΩΑΝΝΟΥ Α 4:5-7)
34. Ὁ μὴ ἀγαπῶν οὐκ ἔγνω τὸν θεόν· ὅτι ὁ θεὸς ἀγάπη ἐστίν. Ἐν τούτῳ ἐφανερώθη ἡ ἀγάπη τοῦ θεοῦ ἐν ἡμῖν, ὅτι τὸν νιὸν αὐτοῦ τὸν μονογενῆ (only begotten) ἀπέσταλκεν ὁ θεὸς εἰς τὸν κόσμον, ἵνα ζήσωμεν δι' αὐτοῦ. Ἐν τούτῳ ἐστὶν ἡ ἀγάπη, οὐχ ὅτι Ἡμεῖς ἡγαπήσαμεν τὸν θεόν, ἀλλ' ὅτι αὐτὸς ἡγάπησεν ἡμᾶς, καὶ ἀπέστειλεν τὸν νιὸν αὐτοῦ ἰλασμὸν (propitiation) περὶ τῶν ἀμαρτιῶν ἡμῶν.
35. Ἡμεῖς ἀγαπῶμεν αὐτόν, ὅτι αὐτὸς πρῶτος ἡγάπησεν ἡμᾶς. Ἔάν τις εἶπῃ ὅτι Ἀγαπῶ τὸν θεόν, καὶ τὸν ἀδελφὸν αὐτοῦ μισῇ, ψεύστης (a liar) ἐστίν· ὁ γὰρ μὴ ἀγαπῶν τὸν ἀδελφὸν αὐτοῦ ὃν ἔωρακεν, τὸν θεὸν ὃν οὐχ ἔωρακεν πᾶς δύναται ἀγαπᾶν (to love); Καὶ ταύτην τὴν ἐντολὴν ἔχομεν ἀπ' αὐτοῦ, ἵνα ὁ ἀγαπῶν τὸν θεόν, ἀγαπᾷ καὶ τὸν ἀδελφὸν αὐτοῦ. (ΙΩΑΝΝΟΥ Α 4:19-21)
36. Πᾶς ὁ πιστεύων ὅτι Ἰησοῦς ἐστιν ὁ Χριστός, ἐκ τοῦ θεοῦ γεγέννηται· καὶ πᾶς ὁ ἀγαπῶν τὸν γεννήσαντα (him who is born) ἀγαπᾷ καὶ τὸν γεγενημένον (the one having been born) ἐξ αὐτοῦ. Ἐν τούτῳ γινώσκομεν ὅτι ἀγαπῶμεν τὰ τέκνα τοῦ θεοῦ, ὅταν τὸν θεὸν ἀγαπῶμεν, καὶ τὰς ἐντολὰς αὐτοῦ τηρῶμεν.
37. Ὁ πιστεύων εἰς τὸν νιὸν τοῦ θεοῦ ἔχει τὴν μαρτυρίαν ἐν αὐτῷ· ὁ μὴ πιστεύων τῷ θεῷ ψεύστην (a liar) πεποίηκεν αὐτόν, ὅτι οὐ πεπίστευκεν εἰς τὴν μαρτυρίαν, ἣν μεμαρτύρηκεν ὁ θεὸς περὶ τοῦ νιοῦ αὐτοῦ. Καὶ αὕτη ἐστὶν ἡ μαρτυρία, ὅτι ζωὴν αἰώνιον ἔδωκεν ἡμῖν ὁ θεός, καὶ αὕτη ἡ ζωὴ ἐν τῷ νιῷ αὐτοῦ ἐστιν. Ὁ ἔχων τὸν νιὸν ἔχει τὴν ζωὴν· ὁ μὴ ἔχων τὸν νιὸν τοῦ θεοῦ τὴν ζωὴν οὐκ ἔχει. Ταῦτα ἔγραψα ὑμῖν τοῖς πιστεύουσιν εἰς τὸ ὄνομα τοῦ νιοῦ τοῦ θεοῦ, ἵνα εἰδῆτε ὅτι ζωὴν αἰώνιον ἔχετε καὶ ἵνα πιστεύητε εἰς τὸ ὄνομα τοῦ νιοῦ τοῦ θεοῦ. (ΙΩΑΝΝΟΥ Α 5:10-13)

25 AORIST PARTICIPLES

25.1 GRAMMAR

25.1.1 Introduction

Review sections 24.1.1 through 24.1.9 because the information presented applies to aorist participles as well.

25.1.2 Overview of Aorist Active and Middle/Passive Participle Parts

25.1.3 Augment

Aorist participles will not have an augment because the augment only occurs on aorist and imperfect tenses of the indicative mood.

25.1.4 Tense Marker

First aorist verbs normally use sigma-alpha (σα) as the aorist active and middle tense marker. Recall that, when this tense marker interacts with certain consonants, small spelling changes result. Review 15.1.7 or 19.1.8 for the changes.

Liquid verbs (verbs whose stem end in lambda (λ), mu (μ), nu (ν), or rho (ρ)) use alpha (α) as the tense marker.

Second aorist verbs do not use a tense marker. Instead, the aorist tense is identifiable by the aorist stem that differs significantly from the present stem.

For both first and second aorist verbs, the passive marker for participles is theta-epsilon ($\theta\varepsilon$).

25.1.6 Aorist Tense Stem

The above endings are attached to the various aorist tense stems. If necessary, review sections 18.1.8, 19.1.7, and 20.1.7.

25.1.7 Review of the Participle, Its Uses, and the Article

To review, a participle will function adjectivally or verbally. The presence of the article is the most important contextual clue for determining which use is in view. If the article accompanies the participle, the participle's use will always be adjectival. If the article is absent, the participle is sometimes adjectival but often is verbal. The context must be examined to decide between the two.

Seeing various examples is the best way to understand the different uses. The previous chapter presented examples of the participle's adjectival use. This chapter will review those uses with examples in the aorist tense. It will also present some verbal uses, specifically the adverbial use, of the participle. Chapter 26 will present two more verbal uses of the participle.

25.1.8 Adjectival Uses of the Participle (Aorist Tense Examples)

Consider the following examples of the substantival and attributive use of the aorist participle. The predicate use is not included because it is not as common with the aorist tense.

Substantival Use (Aorist Tense Examples)

With this use, the participle functions as a noun.

- Example 1: ὁ εὑρὼν τὴν ψυχὴν αὐτοῦ ἀπολέσει αὐτήν...
He who finds his life will lose it...

The aorist participle εὑρών is adjectival because it has the matching article (ὁ). The participle's use is substantival because it does not modify any noun in the sentence. The participle is in the nominative case because it is the subject of the verb ἀπολέσει. Observe that in this context the aorist participle is best translated with the present tense verb "finds."

- Example 2: καὶ μακαρίᾳ ἡ πιστεύσασα ὅτι...
And she who believed is blessed because...

The aorist participle πιστεύσασα is adjectival because it has the matching article (ἡ). The participle's use is substantival because it does not modify any noun in the sentence. The participle is in the nominative case because it is the subject of the implied verb ἐστίν.

- Example 3: ...καὶ ὑπάγω πρός τὸν πέμψαντά με.
...and I depart to Him who sent me.

The aorist participle πέμψαντα is adjectival because it has the matching article (τόν). The participle's use is substantival because it does not modify any noun in the sentence. The participle is in the accusative case because it is the object of the preposition πρός.

Attributive Use (Aorist Tense Examples)

With this use, the participle modifies a noun.

- Example 4: ...ὁ φαρισαῖος ὁ καλέσας αὐτὸν εἶπεν ἐν ἑαυτῷ...
...the Pharisee who invited Him said in himself...

The aorist participle καλέσας is adjectival because it has the matching article (ὁ). The participle's use is attributive because it modifies the noun φαρισαῖος as clear from the article-noun-article-participle construction and because καλέσας agrees with φαρισαῖος (its subject) in case (nominative), gender (masculine), and number (singular). The noun φαρισαῖος is in the nominative case because it is the subject of the verb εἶπεν.

Example 5: ...καὶ ἐδόξασαν τὸν θεὸν τὸν δόντα ἔξουσίαν τοιαύτην...
...and they glorified the God who gave such authority...

The aorist participle δόντα is adjectival because it has the matching article (τόν). The participle's use is attributive because it modifies the noun θεόν as clear from the article-noun-article-participle construction and because δόντα agrees with θεόν (its subject) in case (accusative), gender (masculine), and number (singular). The noun θεόν is in the accusative case because it is the direct object of the verb ἐδόξασαν.

25.1.9 Verbal Uses of the Participle (Present and Aorist Tense Examples)

A participle that does not have an article is sometimes adjectival but often is verbal. The particular context must be examined carefully to decide. The most common verbal uses can be divided into the following subcategories: adverbial, periphrastic, and genitive absolute. The adverbial uses are presented in this chapter. The periphrastic and genitive absolute uses are presented in chapter 26.

Adverbial Use (Present and Aorist Tense Examples)

With this use, the participle (without the article) modifies a verb in the sentence. In other words, the participle provides additional information about the verbal action in terms of “when,” “how,” “why,” etc. With practice, you should learn to specify the adverbial participle’s logical relationship to the verb as temporal, manner, means, cause, condition, concession, purpose, or result. For now, it is sufficient to focus on:

1. Recognizing that a word is a participle.
2. Determining if the participle is adjectival or verbal.
3. Determining the participle’s use. If adjectival, is it substantival, attributive, or predicate? If verbal, is it adverbial, periphrastic, or genitive absolute?
4. Producing a basic translation based on that understanding.

Various factors affect how to translate adverbial participles. Some of those factors pertain to Greek and others to English. For now, the best approach is to give a good starting point for translation and allow you to discovery when alternatives may be necessary. That starting point is:

- Translate present participles with a gerund (“walking,” “living,” etc.).
- Translate aorist participles with the preposition “after” (sometimes “while”) and a gerund (“after walking,” “after living,” etc.).
- Translate perfect participles with a past participle (“walked,” “lived,” etc.).

The following examples show the above guidelines at work but also deviate from them when appropriate.

Participles in the Present Tense

- Example 6: ...ἥψατο αὐτοῦ λέγων, Θέλω, καθαρίσθητι·
He touched him saying, “I am willing. Be cleansed.”
- Example 7: Ὁ δὲ Πέτρος ... ἀπῆλθεν πρὸς ἐαυτὸν θαυμάζων τὸ γεγονός.
But Peter left marveling to himself about what had happened.
- Example 8: ἤλθεν γὰρ Ἰωάννης μήτε ἔσθιων μήτε πίνων...
For John came neither eating nor drinking...
- Example 9: ...ό πρῶτος ἔλαβεν γυναῖκα, καὶ ἀποθνήσκων οὐκ ἀφῆκεν σπέρμα·
The first took a wife and, because he died, he did not leave a descendant.
- Example 10: ὁφθαλμοὺς ἔχοντες οὐ βλέπετε καὶ ὡτα ἔχοντες οὐκ ἀκούετε;
Although having eyes, do you not see and although having ears, do you not hear?

Participles in the Aorist Tense

- Example 11: καὶ ἐλθόντες εἰς τὴν οἰκίαν εἶδον τὸ παιδίον μετὰ Μαρίας...
And after coming into the house, they saw the child with Mary...
- Example 12: Ακούσας δὲ ὁ Ἰησοῦς εἶπεν· αὕτη ἡ ἀσθένεια οὐκ ἔστιν πρὸς θάνατον...
But after hearing Jesus said (=Jesus heard and said), “This sickness is not to death...”
- Example 13: Βαπτισθεὶς δὲ ὁ Ἰησοῦς εὐθὺς ἀνέβη ἀπὸ τοῦ ὕδατος·
And, after being baptized, Jesus immediately came up from the water.

In the previous examples, the bolded participles are adverbial because they do not have the article and they modify a verb in the sentence. Furthermore, they do not function as a noun (substantival use), do not modify a noun in the sentence (attributive use), and do not complete a thought about a noun (predicate use).

Additionally, the above participles are all in the nominative case. Adverbial participles are frequently in the nominative case because they usually modify the main verb of the sentence and, therefore, have the same subject which is in the nominative case.

25.3 OMEGA VERBS: SECOND AORIST ACTIVE AND MIDDLE PARTICIPLES

The key to distinguishing between a present and second aorist participle is recognizing the aorist stem. Memorization of these forms is not required. Passive forms of second aorist verbs are not provided because they are rare in the New Testament.

25.3.1 Aorist Active Participle Forms of ἔρχομαι

Although ἔρχομαι is deponent in other tenses, it is not deponent in the aorist tense. The theta (θ) should not be confused with the aorist tense marker. It is part of the stem (ἔλθ-).

25.4 EXERCISES

Read the following sentences out loud and then translate them. For the first 30 exercises, parse the word in bold. For participles, parsing means to write the tense, voice, “participle,” case, gender, number, and dictionary form.

In addition, if the bolded word is a participle:

1. Indicate if its use is adjectival or adverbial. If adjectival, write the appropriate subcategory (substantival, attributive, or predicate).
 2. Indicate why the participle has the case that it has. Is the participle in the case that it is because it is serving a specific function in the sentence such as subject or direct object? (If so, which function?) Or, is the participle in the case it is because it is modifying another word and agrees with that word in case? (If so, which word?)
1. ἀλλ' ὁ πέμψας με βαπτίζειν (to baptize) ἐν ὕδατι, ἐκεῖνός μοι εἶπεν, Ἐφ' ὃν ἂν ἴδης τὸ πνεῦμα καταβαῖνον καὶ μένον ἐπ' αὐτόν, οὗτός ἐστιν ὁ βαπτίζων ἐν πνεύματι ἀγίῳ. (KATA IΩΑΝΝΗΝ 1:33)

Τοῦτο πάλιν δεύτερον σημεῖον ἐποίησεν ὁ Ἰησοῦς, ἐλθὼν ἐκ τῆς Ἰουδαίας εἰς τὴν Γαλιλαίαν. Μετὰ ταῦτα ἦν ἡ ἑορτὴ (feast) τῶν Ἰουδαίων, καὶ ἀνέβη ὁ Ἰησοῦς εἰς Ἱεροσόλυμα. (KATA IΩΑΝΝΗΝ 4:53-5:1)

The above endings are attached to the perfect active and passive tense stems, respectively. Review sections 21.1.8 and 21.1.9 concerning those stems.

26.1.7 Review of the Participle, Its Uses, and the Article

To review, a participle can function adjectivally or verbally. The presence of the article is the most important contextual clue for determining which use is in view. If the article accompanies the participle, the participle's use will always be adjectival. If the article is absent, the participle is often verbal but sometimes adjectival. The context must be examined to decide between the two.

Seeing various examples is the best way to understand the different uses. This chapter reviews the adjectival and verbal uses presented in the previous two chapters with examples from the perfect tense. It will also present two new verbal uses, the periphrastic and genitive absolute participle.

26.1.8 Adjectival Uses of the Participle (Perfect Tense Examples)

Substantival Use (Perfect Tense Examples)

With this use, the participle functions as a noun.

- Example 1: ὁ ἐώρακὼς ἐμὲ ἐώρακεν τὸν πατέρα·
He who has seen me has seen the Father.

The perfect participle ἐώρακὼς is adjectival because it has the matching article (ὁ). The participle's use is substantival because it does not modify any noun in the sentence. The participle is in the nominative case because it is the subject of the verb ἐώρακεν.

- Example 2: Πολλοί τε τῶν πεπιστευκότων ἥρχοντο ἔξομολογούμενοι...
And many of the ones who had believed were coming confessing...

The perfect participle πεπιστευκότων is adjectival because it has the matching article (τῶν). The participle's use is substantival because it does not modify any noun in the sentence. The participle is in the genitive case to relate it with Πολλοί. Those who had believed (τῶν πεπιστευκότων) specifies the identity of the many (Πολλοί).

This example is best translated using the English pluperfect tense (“had believed”) instead of the perfect (“have believed”).¹ It is a good example of the fact that different languages sometimes use tenses differently. The student must be flexible in translation when necessary.

Attributive Use (Perfect Tense Examples)

With this use, the participle modifies a noun.

- Example 3: Περὶ δὲ τῶν πεπιστευκότων ἐθνῶν ἡμεῖς ἐπεστείλαμεν...
But concerning the gentiles who have believed, we wrote...

The perfect participle πεπιστευκότων is adjectival because it has the matching article (τῶν). The participle's use is attributive because it modifies the noun ἐθνῶν as clear from the article-participle-noun construction and because πεπιστευκότων agrees with ἐθνῶν (its subject) in case (genitive), gender (neuter), and number (plural). The noun ἐθνῶν is in the genitive case because it is the object of the preposition Περὶ.

Example 4: ...λάβε τὸ βιβλίον τὸ ἡνεῳγένον ἐν τῇ χειρὶ τοῦ ἀγγέλου...
...take the book which has been opened in the hand of the angel...

The perfect participle ἡνεῳγένον is adjectival because it has the matching article (τό). The participle's use is attributive because it modifies the noun βιβλίον as clear from the article-noun-article-participle construction and because ἡνεῳγένον agrees with βιβλίον (its subject) in case (accusative), gender (neuter), and number (singular). The noun βιβλίον is in the accusative case because it is the direct object of the verb λάβε.

Predicate Use (Perfect Tense Examples)

With this use, the participle completes a thought about a noun. The predicate use of the perfect participle is relatively common.

Example 5: εὐλογημένος ὁ ἐρχόμενος ἐν ὀνόματι κυρίου.
He who comes in the name of the Lord is blessed.

Even though the perfect participle εὐλογημένος does not have the article, the participle is adjectival because it does not modify a verb. The participle's use is predicate because it completes a thought about ὁ ἐρχόμενος (He who comes is blessed). The participle εὐλογημένος agrees in gender (masculine) and number (singular) with ὁ ἐρχόμενος, its subject. In this instance, the participle's case is nominative because of its function in the sentence as a predicate adjective.

Example 6: ...Μαρία ... βλέπει τὸν λίθον ῃρμένον ἐκ τοῦ μνημείου.
...Mary ... sees (saw) the stone removed from the tomb.

Even though the perfect participle ῃρμένον does not have the article, the participle is adjectival because it does not modify a verb. The participle's use is predicate because it completes a thought about the noun λίθον (it had been removed). As in this instance, predicate participles often accompany a verb of perception (βλέπει). The noun λίθον is the participle's subject. As such, the participle agrees with λίθον in case (accusative), gender (masculine), and number (singular). The case of λίθον is accusative because it is the direct object of the verb βλέπει.

26.1.9 Verbal Uses of the Participle

A participle that does not have an article is sometimes adjectival but often is verbal. The particular context must be examined carefully to decide. The most common verbal uses can be divided into the following subcategories: adverbial, periphrastic, and genitive absolute. The first category was presented in the previous chapter and is here reviewed using examples from the perfect tense. This chapter also presents the periphrastic and genitive absolute uses.

Adverbial Use (Perfect Tense Examples)

With this use, the participle (without the article) modifies a verb of the sentence. In other words, the participle provides additional information about the verbal action in terms of “when,” “how,” “why,” etc. Consider the following examples with perfect tense participles.

Example 7: Ἐξανέστησαν δέ τινες τῶν ἀπὸ τῆς αἱρέσεως τῶν φαρισαίων πεπιστευκότες λέγοντες...
But some from the division of the Pharisees, having believed, rose up saying...

Example 8: καὶ τοῦτο πεποιθός οἶδα ὅτι μενῶ καὶ παραμενῶ πᾶσιν ὑμῖν εἰς τὴν ὑμῶν προκοπὴν καὶ χαρὰν τῆς πίστεως...
And, having confidence in this, I know that I will remain and continue with you all for your advancement and joy of faith...

Periphrastic Use (Present, Aorist, and Perfect Tense Examples)

With this use, the verb εἰμί or γίνομαι (to be) and participle combine to form a verbal idea. The appropriate translation for the verbal idea will depend on the tense of both εἰμί and the participle. For the periphrastic use, the participle will usually be in the nominative case. Consider the following examples.

Present Verb with Present Participle

Example 9: ...καὶ ιδοὺ ζῶν εἰμι εἰς τοὺς αἰῶνας τῶν αἰώνων...
...and behold I am living (I am alive) forever and ever...

Imperfect Verb with Present Participle

Example 10: καὶ αὐτὸς ἦν διδάσκων, καὶ ἥσαν καθήμενοι Φαρισαῖοι...
And He was teaching and the Pharisees were sitting...

Example 11: Ἐγὼ ἦμην ἐν πόλει Ἰόππη προσευχόμενος...
I was praying in the city of Joppa...

Future Verb with Present Participle

Example 12: Καὶ ἔσεσθε μισούμενοι ὑπὸ πάντων διὰ τὸ ὄνομά μου.
And you will be hated by all on account of my name.

Present Verb with Perfect Participle

Example 13: ...χάριτί ἐστε σεσωσμένοι...
...by grace you have been saved...

Imperfect Verb with Perfect Participle

Example 14: Οὕπω γὰρ ἦν βεβλημένος εἰς τὴν φυλακὴν ὁ Ἰωάννης.
For John had not yet been thrown into prison.²

² Notice that the imperfect verb requires that the perfect participle be translated with the English pluperfect.

Genitive Absolute Use (Present, Aorist and Perfect Tense Examples)

With this use, the participle modifies a verb in the sentence, usually by describing “when” the action occurs. Although it is technically a subcategory of the adverbial proper use, this participle’s characteristics are unique enough to warrant a separate discussion. Those characteristics are:

1. The participle’s subject always differs from the subject of the verb.
2. The participle’s subject is often a nearby noun or pronoun in the genitive case.
3. The participle is always in the genitive case.
4. The participle often occurs at the beginning of the sentence.

Translating the genitive absolute into English often requires a dependent phrase consisting of a temporal marker such as “while” or “after,” the participle’s subject, and a finite verb.³ Consider the following examples of the genitive absolute.

Participle in the Present Tense

- Example 15: Ταῦτα αὐτοῦ λαλοῦντος πολλοὶ ἐπίστευσαν εἰς αὐτόν.
While he was saying these things, many believed in Him.

Participle in the Aorist Tense

- Example 16: Καταβάντος δὲ αὐτοῦ ἀπὸ τοῦ ὄρους ἡκολούθησαν αὐτῷ ὥχλοι πολλοί.
But after He descended from the mountain, many multitudes followed him.

- Example 17: Καὶ ἐκβληθέντος τοῦ δαιμονίου ἐλάλησεν ὁ κωφός.
And after the demon was cast out, the mute spoke.

Participle in the Perfect Tense

- Example 18: Συνηγμένων οὖν αὐτῶν εἶπεν αὐτοῖς ὁ Πιλᾶτος:
Therefore, after they had gathered, Pilate said to them...

As with a previous example, the perfect (Συνηγμένων) is here best translated with a pluperfect (had gathered) due to differences in the usages of the Greek and English tenses.

³ Sometimes a non-temporal marker such as “because” is required in some contexts.

26.3 EXERCISES

Read the following sentences out loud and then translate them. For the first 30 exercises, parse the word in bold. For participles, parsing means to write the tense, voice, “participle,” case, gender, number, and dictionary form.

In addition, if the bolded word is a participle:

1. Indicate if its use is adjectival or adverbial. If adjectival, write the appropriate subcategory (substantival, attributive, or predicate). If adverbial, write the subcategory (adverbial proper, genitive absolute, periphrastic).
 2. Indicate why the participle has the case that it has. Is the participle in the case that it is because it is serving a specific function in the sentence such as subject or direct object? (If so, which function?) Or, is the participle in the case it is because it is modifying another word and agrees with that word in case? (If so, which word?)

27 INFINITIVES

27.1 GRAMMAR

27.1.1 Introduction to Infinitives in Greek

Greek infinitives combine the natures of two different parts of speech, the noun and verb, into one word. Infinitives are verbal nouns. The verbal nature is reflected in that infinitives have tense and voice. They can also perform several verbal functions in a sentence as well as take a direct and indirect object. The noun's nature is reflected in that infinitives can perform several noun functions such as be the subject or direct object. In English, examples of the infinitive are “to run,” “to walk,” “to see,” etc.

27.1.2 Tense

Greek infinitives have different forms that communicate tense. The possible tenses for infinitives are present, aorist, or perfect. Those tenses convey how the action is presented by the speaker/writer. The following table presents the tenses and corresponding description.

Tense	How Action Presented
Present	In progress or continuing
Aorist	In summary form
Perfect	In summary form with continuing results

For infinitives, tense does not communicate the time of the action. This contrasts with the indicative mood and participles where tense can communicate absolute time or time relative to the main verb, respectively.

Lastly, these descriptions are basic. Various factors influence an author's selection of tense in a given context. Sometimes the author does not really have a “choice.” Consequently, it can be very difficult to know, especially with infinitives and imperatives (the subject of chapter 28), the exact force of the tense in a given context. We urge you not to overemphasize or draw many conclusions regarding the particular tense of an infinitive or imperative until you have a better understanding of the language. Even then, the matter can be difficult to determine.

Infinitives have different forms that communicate voice (active, middle, passive). For active voice, the grammatical subject of the infinitive performs the action of the infinitive. For passive voice, the infinitive's subject receives the action. Middle voice is often translated as active voice.

27.1.4 Mood

Infinitives do not have mood (indicative, subjunctive, imperative). Furthermore, infinitives are not technically a mood. Nevertheless, when analyzing an infinitive, indicate that it is an infinitive by using the mood slot (“present, active, infinitive”).

27.1.5 Overview of Infinitive Parts

27.1.6 Tense Stem

Infinitives use the same tense stems as their indicative counterparts. If necessary, review the stems.

27.1.7 Infinitive Endings

Dividing the infinitive endings into the various parts (connecting vowel, tense marker, ending) is unnecessary. You should be able to identify those parts without difficulty.

Voice	Present	Aorist		Perfect
		First	Second	First	Second
Active	ειν	σαι	ειν	κεναι	εναι
Middle	εσθαι	σασθαι	εσθαι	σθαι	θαι
Passive	εσθαι	θηναι	θηναι	σθαι	θαι

The forms of perfect infinitives are not included below because they are not as common. Moreover, they include reduplication which makes them easily identifiable.

27.1.8 Key Infinitive Words

Certain verbs are very frequently accompanied by an infinitive. The infinitive completes the verbal idea of those words. Learn them well because they are a helpful parsing tool.

Key Words	Translation
δύναμαι	I am able...
μέλλω	I am about...
δεῖ	It is necessary...
ἄρχομαι	I begin...

The verb θέλω also occurs frequently with an infinitive but, unlike the verbs above, also occurs regularly with non-infinitive verbal forms.

27.1.9 Structures and Uses of the Infinitive

The Greek infinitive appears in various structures and has various uses. Several are similar to English and do not require much explanation. Complementary and purpose infinitives are examples of that type. Your time is best spent studying examples that differ from English. Infinitives with the accusative of reference or infinitives as objects of prepositions are examples of that type. Consider each category with the respective examples.

Complementary Use

The complementary infinitive completes a verbal idea.¹ The key words listed above are frequently associated with this use.

Example 1: Μέλλει ὁ νιὸς τοῦ ἀνθρώπου παραδίδοσθαι εἰς χεῖρας ἀνθρώπων...
The son of man is about to be delivered into the hands of men...

Example 2: ...ἐν πνεύματι καὶ ἀληθείᾳ δεῖ προσκυνεῖν.
...in spirit and truth it is necessary to worship.

Purpose Use

The infinitive can also express purpose.

Example 3: Οὐ γὰρ ἥλθον καλέσαι δικαίους ἀλλὰ ἀμαρτωλούς.
For I did not come to call the righteous but sinners.

Infinitives with the Accusative of Reference (Subject of the Infinitive)

The infinitive can be accompanied by a noun (or pronoun) in the accusative case. Sometimes the noun is in the accusative case because it is the direct object of the infinitive. Other times the noun is functioning as the subject of the infinitive.² Since English does not have the same structure, translation will be more idiomatic.

Example 4: Ο δὲ Ἰησοῦς οὐκέτι οὐδεν ἀπεκρίθη, ὥστε Θαυμάζειν τὸν Πιλᾶτον.
But Jesus no longer answered anything with the result that Pilate was marveling (= to marvel with respect to Pilate).

Example 5: Ἡμᾶς δεῖ ἔργάζεσθαι τὰ ἔργα τοῦ πέμψαντός με...
It is necessary that we work (= to work with respect to us) the works of He who sent me...

Example 6: Λογιζόμεθα γὰρ δικαιοῦσθαι πίστει ἄνθρωπον χωρὶς ἔργων νόμου.
For we consider that a man is justified (= to be justified with respect to a man) by faith, apart from the works of the law.

Example 7: Πῶς λέγουσιν τὸν Χριστὸν εἶναι Δαυὶδ νιὸν;
How do they say that the Christ is (= to be with respect to the Christ) the son of David?

¹ Sometimes the infinitive is technically the subject of the verb.

² Those instances are more accurately called “infinitives with the accusative of reference.”

Infinitives as the Object of a Preposition

The infinitive also occurs with various prepositions. The resulting meaning depends on the preposition. This use frequently appears with the accusative of reference.

διὰ τὸ + infinitive (because + verb...)

Example 8: ...οὐκ ἔχετε διὰ τὸ μὴ αἰτεῖσθαι ὑμᾶς...
...you do not have because you do not ask (= because not to ask with reference to you)...

εἰς τὸ + infinitive (to, in order to, so that + verb)

Example 9: ...καὶ ὁ νιὸς τοῦ ἀνθρώπου παραδίδοται εἰς τὸ σταυρωθῆναι.
...and the son of man is given over to be crucified.

ἐν τῷ + infinitive (when, while + verb)

Example 10: Ἐγένετο δὲ ἐν τῷ εἶναι αὐτοὺς ἐκεῖ ἐπλήσθησαν αἱ ἡμέραι...
And it came to pass that while they were (= while to be with respect to them) there the days were completed...

μετὰ τὸ + infinitive (after + verb)

Example 11: Άλλὰ μετὰ τὸ ἐγερθῆναι με προάξω ὑμᾶς εἰς τὴν Γαλιλαίαν.
But after I have been risen (after to be raised with respect to me), I will go before you to Galilee.

πρὸς τὸ + infinitive (to, in order to + verb)

Example 12: Πάντα δὲ τὰ ἔργα αὐτῶν ποιοῦσιν πρὸς τὸ θεαθῆναι τοῖς ἀνθρώποις.
But all their works they do to be seen by men.

27.4 EXERCISES

Read the following sentences out loud and then translate them. For the first 30 exercises, parse the word in bold. For infinitives, parsing means to write the tense, voice, “infinitive” in the mood slot, and dictionary form.

1. Καὶ ἦν ἐκεῖ ἐν τῇ ἑρήμῳ ἡμέρας τεσσαράκοντα (forty) πειραζόμενος ὑπὸ τοῦ Σατανᾶ, καὶ ἦν μετὰ τῶν θηρίων, καὶ οἱ ἄγγελοι διηκόνουν αὐτῷ. Μετὰ δὲ τὸ παραδοθῆναι τὸν Ἰωάννην, ἦλθεν ὁ Ἰησοῦς εἰς τὴν Γαλιλαίαν, κηρύσσων τὸ εὐαγγέλιον τῆς βασιλείας τοῦ θεοῦ, καὶ λέγων ὅτι Πεπλήρωται ὁ καιρός, καὶ ἥγγικεν ἡ βασιλεία τοῦ θεοῦ· (KATA MAPKON 1:13-15)

28 IMPERATIVES

28.1 GRAMMAR

28.1.1 Introduction to Imperatives

An imperative is a verbal form that communicates a command such as “walk,” “run,” “jump” or an exhortation such as “let us walk,” “let us run,” “let us jump.” In Greek, imperatives have tense, voice, person, and number.

28.1.2 Tense

Imperatives have different forms that communicate tense. The possible tenses for imperatives are present, aorist, and perfect. Only the present and aorist forms are common enough to warrant presenting herein.

The various tenses convey how the action is presented by the speaker/writer. The following table presents the tenses and corresponding description.

Tense	How Action Is Presented
Present	In progress or continuing
Aorist	In summary form

For imperatives, tense does not communicate the time of the action. This contrasts with the indicative mood and participles where tense can communicate absolute time or time relative to the main verb, respectively.

Lastly, these descriptions are basic. Various factors influence an author’s selection of tense in a given context. Sometimes the author doesn’t really have a “choice.” Consequently, it can be very difficult to know, especially with infinitives and imperatives, the exact force of the tense in a given context. We urge you not to overemphasize or draw many conclusions regarding a particular tense of an imperative until you have a better understanding of the language. Even then, the matter can be difficult to determine.

Imperatives have different forms that communicate voice (active, middle, passive). For active voice, the grammatical subject of the imperative performs the action of the imperative. For passive voice, the imperative’s subject receives the action. Middle voice is often translated as active voice.

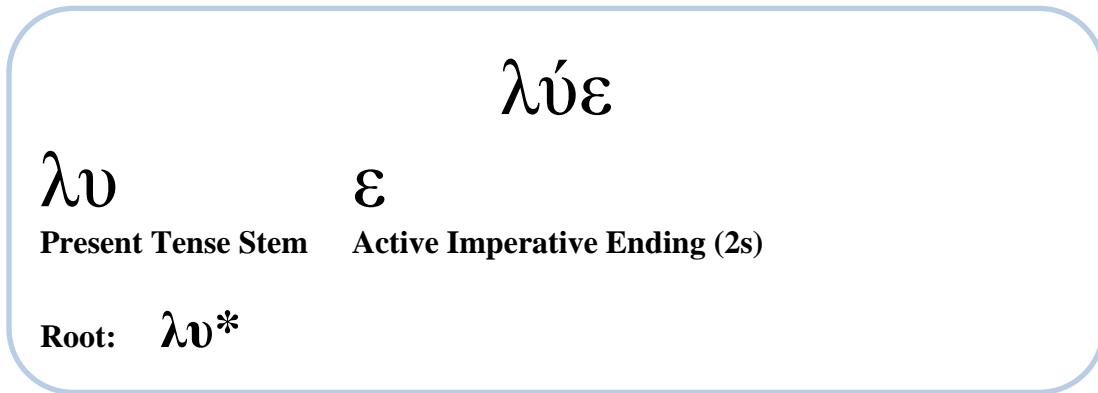

28.1.4 Mood

Imperative is a mood in the technical sense. Its primary use is to communicate a command or exhortation.

28.1.5 Person and Number

Imperatives have different forms that communicate person (only second or third) and number (singular, plural).

28.1.6 Overview of Imperative Parts

28.1.7 Tense Stem

Imperatives use the same tense stems as their indicative counterparts. If necessary, review the stems.

28.1.8 Imperative Endings

Dividing the imperative endings into the various parts (connecting vowel, tense marker, ending) is unnecessary. You should be able to identify those parts without difficulty.

P/N	Present	First Aorist
Active
2s	ε	σον
2p	ετε	σατε
3s	ετω	σατω
3p	ετωσαν	σατωσαν
Middle
2s	ου	σαι
2p	εσθε	σασθε
3s	εσθω	σασθω
3p	εσθσαν	σασθωσαν
Passive
2s	ου	θητι
2p	εσθε	θητε
3s	εσθω	θητω
3p	εσθσαν	θητωσαν

Second aorist imperatives use the present endings shown above. Liquid verbs will only use alpha (α) as the tense marker in the aorist imperative, not sigma (σ) or sigma-alpha (σα).

28.1.9 Examples of the Imperative

Example 1: Ἐγειρέ καὶ περιπάτει.
Rise and walk.

Example 2: Κύριε, σῶσόν με.
Lord, save me.

Example 3: Ποιήσατε οὖν καρπὸν ἄξιον τῆς μετανοίας.
Therefore, produce fruit worthy of repentance.

Example 4: Γρηγορεῖτε καὶ προσεύχεσθε, ἵνα μὴ εἰσέλθητε εἰς πειρασμόν.
Watch and pray lest you should enter into temptation.

Example 5: Ἐλθέτω ἡ βασιλεία σου.
May your kingdom come.

Example 6: Ἔστω δὲ πᾶς ἄνθρωπος ταχὺς εἰς τὸ ἀκοῦσαι, βραδὺς εἰς τὸ λαλῆσαι, βραδὺς εἰς ὄργήν.
And let every man be quick to hear, slow to speak, slow to wrath.

Example 7: Καὶ προσκυνησάτωσαν αὐτῷ πάντες ἄγγελοι θεοῦ.
And let all the angels of God worship him.

2p	λάβετε	Take (you all)

¹ The main exception is φοβέομαι whose second person singular and plural imperative forms are φοβοῦ and φοβεῖσθε, respectively. They often occur with μή (i.e. do not fear).

28.3 MI VERBS: IMPERATIVES (ACTIVE VOICE)

Only active forms appear enough in the New Testament to warrant presenting. In general, memorization of the forms is not necessary.

28.3.1 Present Active Imperative Forms

With the exception of εἰμί, present imperative forms of mi verbs are not common.²

P/N	λύω	εἰμί
Active
2s	λύε	ἴσθι
3s	λυέτω	ἔστω
2p	λύετε	-
3p	λυέτωσαν	ἔστωσαν

28.3.2 Aorist Active Imperative Forms

Among mi verbs that occur in the aorist imperative, δίδωμι and ἀφίημι are the most frequent. Prioritize your study time accordingly. Also, observe that only the root (not duplication with iota) is present.

P/N	Dictionary Form (Uses Present Tense Stem)
	λύω	δίδωμι	ἴστημι	τίθημι	ἀφίημι
	Aorist Tense Stem
	λυ*	δο-	στα-	θε-	ἀπο+έ-

3s	λυσάτω	δότω	στήτω	-	-
2p	λύσατε	δότε	στήτε	-	ἄφετε
3p	λυσάτωσαν	-	-	-	-

² The present imperative forms of mi verbs that do exist in the New Testament are easily identifiable because of context and the duplication with iota.

32. ...οὖν γινωσκέτω πᾶς οἶκος Ἰσραήλ, ὅτι καὶ κύριον καὶ Χριστὸν αὐτὸν ὁ θεὸς ἐποίησεν, τοῦτον τὸν Ἰησοῦν ὃν ὑμεῖς ἐσταυρώσατε.
33. Οἱ δὲ εἶπον, Πίστευσον ἐπὶ τὸν κύριον Ἰησοῦν Χριστόν, καὶ σωθήσῃ σὺ καὶ ὁ οἶκός σου. Καὶ ἐλάλησαν αὐτῷ τὸν λόγον τοῦ κυρίου, καὶ πᾶσιν τοῖς ἐν τῇ οἰκίᾳ αὐτοῦ. Καὶ παραλαβὼν αὐτοὺς ἐν ἐκείνῃ τῇ ὥρᾳ τῆς νυκτὸς ἔλουσεν (he washed them) ἀπὸ τῶν πληγῶν (blows), καὶ ἐβαπτίσθη αὐτὸς καὶ οἱ αὐτοῦ πάντες... (ΠΡΑΞΕΙΣ ΑΠΟΣΤΟΛΩΝ 16:31-33)

29 CONDITIONAL SENTENCES

29.1 INTRODUCTION

In the most basic description, conditional sentences are sentences that contain a condition (if) and a consequence (then). The consequence (then) depends on the fulfillment or non-fulfillment of the condition (if). An example of a conditional sentence in English is: “If it rains this afternoon, I will take my umbrella.” Another example is: “If I am late for work, my boss will fire me.”

Greek has four basic structures of conditional sentences which express five different ideas. The following sections will present those structures (29.2), their meaning (29.3), other factors that affect the significance of the statement (29.4), and examples (29.5). As with the discussions about tense, this chapter presents a very elementary and simplistic introduction to a topic that can be very complex. Students should remember that additional study will be necessary.

29.2 STRUCTURE OF CONDITIONAL SENTENCES

The form of conditional sentences must first be considered. If a conditional sentence is fully expressed, it will have two major components: the “if” clause (protasis) and the “then” clause (apodosis). The “if” clause (protasis) is grammatically dependent, meaning it is not a complete thought but needs additional information (If it rains tomorrow). The “then” clause (apodosis) is grammatically independent, meaning it is a complete thought (I will carry my umbrella). Combining the two clauses results in a sentence where the second part is a consequence of the first: “If it rains tomorrow, I will carry my umbrella.”

Greek conditional sentences are categorized into four classes or groups based on how the “if” (protasis) and “then” clauses (apodosis) are expressed. Those classes are shown in the following table.

Class	“If” (Protasis)	“then” (Apodosis)
1 st	εἰ + indicative of any tense	indicative, imperative, or subjunctive
2 nd	εἰ + imperfect or aorist indicative	(ἄν) + imperfect or aorist indicative
3 rd (FMP) ¹	ἐάν + subjunctive	any tense or mood
3 rd (PG 5 th) ¹	ἐάν + subjunctive	present indicative
4 th	εἰ + optative ²	(ἄν) + optative

¹ Some grammars divide 3rd class conditions into two groups: 3rd class (future more probable) and 5th class (present general). This division is based more on a difference in the conditions’ meaning rather than structure. The future more probable (FMP) presents specific situations that may or may not happen; however, if the protasis (“if”) does in fact occur, the apodosis (“then”) will definitely occur, at least as far as the speaker is concerned. Consider the following example: “If John tries to take all of the inheritance, I am going to fight him in court.” The statement contains a specific event that is still undetermined. Maybe John will or maybe he won’t be so greedy! If John does try to take the inheritance, the person making the statement will be sure to take him to court. The present general condition (PG) presents general activities that take place at any time or possibly things that happen all the time. Consider the following example: “If brothers and sisters get greedy, there are divisions within the body.” The statement is a general description of what would normally be expected to happen.

The most basic distinction between the different types of conditions is the mood used in the protasis (indicative, subjunctive, or optative). Conditions using the indicative mood are simply presenting something as true or not true. The word “presenting” cannot be over-emphasized because the sentence may or may not match reality. The speaker could be mistaken, lying, assuming an untruth with which he disagrees for the sake of argument, etc. Then again, the statement could reflect reality. Factors beyond the statement itself must be considered to determine its validity.

Conditions using the subjunctive mood in the protasis express something that, from the perspective of the speaker, is not yet determined to be true or untrue. The speaker presents doubt about whether or not something will occur. The optative mood expresses something with even a bit more doubt about the fulfillment. Wishes and prayers often belong in the optative mood.

Two final points should be made before proceeding to the next section about meaning. First, the grammatical structures presented above are given in a simple fashion as an introduction. Variations exist in the Greek New Testament. Either the “if” or “then” clause could be omitted (elided) or implied. Instead of a verb in the indicative or subjunctive mood, participles or the imperative mood could be present. Sometimes the parts of the conditions are mixed. Luke 17:6, for example, has 1st and 2nd class parts. John 13:17 has 1st and 3rd class parts. In that use, the assumption is that the disciples presently know, but it is questionable whether or not they will do.

Second, at this point in your study, do not get frustrated with the difficulty conditional sentences may present. Master the “standard” structures now without concern over any conditional statements that do not fit the norm. There will be plenty of time for frustration at a later stage of your study. One needs to approach conditional sentences expecting a great deal of flexibility. That is, after all, the way Greek speakers used this aspect of the language!

29.3 MEANING OF CONDITIONAL SENTENCES

As mentioned previously, the “if” clause (protasis) is grammatically dependent and the “then” clause (apodosis) is independent. In terms of meaning (semantic force), however, the reverse is true. The “if” clause is semantically independent, and the “then” clause is semantically dependent. In other words, the possibility of the “if” clause does not depend on the “then” clause. Consider the following statement: “If it rains this afternoon, I will take my umbrella.” The possibility of it raining this afternoon does not depend on whether or not I carry my umbrella. However, carrying the umbrella (in this linguistic structure) does depend on whether or not it rains.

The following table provides the basic meanings of the different classes of conditional sentences. Further analysis must await a later stage of the student’s Greek studies. Remember that these descriptions are only showing how the different conditions are used in speech or writing. They do not necessarily describe the truth or non-truth of what occurs in the real world.

² The optative mood was being used less and less during the period of Koine Greek, with the subjunctive taking its place. The New Testament reflects this change in that the optative occurs less than 70 times. Not surprisingly, there are no complete 4th class conditional sentences in the New Testament. The optative is not used in modern Greek.

Class	Meaning
1 st	presentation of something as fact
2 nd	presentation of something as contrary to fact
3 rd (FMP)	presentation of something that may have future fulfillment
3 rd (PG – 5 th)	presentation of something that occurs generally at any time
4 th	presentation of something with less probability of occurrence

29.4 OTHER CONSIDERATIONS OF CONDITIONAL SENTENCES

Although grammatical factors such as structure and word meaning are very important for understanding conditional sentences, the overall context and situation also play an important role and cannot be ignored. The following paragraphs present some examples of those issues that may be involved. They are not intended to be comprehensive nor are they intended for you to master. The purpose is to expose you to the complexity and importance of conditional sentences.

Consider the example, “If it rains this afternoon, I will carry my umbrella.” As expressed in this statement, taking the umbrella depends on whether or not it rains. Although the consequential “then” is not expressed, it is certainly there logically. In reality, there might be times I would carry the umbrella because I was going to be out in the hot sun for long periods with no expectation of rain. Then again, I might make the statement and then forget to carry my umbrella even though the weatherman is correct and a heavy rain comes. I could be lying; I could be joking; I could just be making up the sentence for use in a Greek grammar! One must remember that conditional sentences are ways of expressing things and may or may not picture reality accurately. The final significance of conditionals in communication will always be determined by a much wider context that entails the complete situation in which the speech act occurs.

Luke 12:26 provides an example of a condition where the speaker’s intent is important. Jesus says, “Therefore, if you are not able to do even the least of things, why are you anxious concerning the greater things?” Technically, the “then” clause (apodosis) is a question: “Why then are you anxious concerning the greater things?” However, the rhetorical intent of the Lord’s words is not to ask a question but to lead the disciples to the conclusion that they should not worry. In short, the force is that of a command to avoid anxiety over the future. “Do not worry.”

John 18:23 shows how the force of a statement may be influenced more by logical considerations than grammatical structures. Jesus says, “If I have spoken that which is not correct, demonstrate where I have erred.” The statement “If I have spoken that which is not correct” begins a first class condition. First class conditions present something as true. For the sake of argument, Jesus assumes that He has spoken falsehoods when in fact He has not. Then He adds, “But if [I have spoken] correctly, why are you beating me?” Here Jesus is not simply asking a question but pointing out to His adversaries that they should not be beating Him.

The examples of these types of situations could be multiplied. That Peter is asking for permission more than describing a conditional situation in Matthew 17:4 (if you want, I will build here three tabernacles...) is evident from the hortatory subjunctives used in Luke 9:33 and Mark 9:5. The condition found in Luke 23:35 (...let him save himself, if He is the Christ...) clearly involves mockery and slander based on the larger context. This understanding is also supported by details from Matthew 27:39, 41 and Mark 15:29-32 where the intentions of Jesus' enemies are clearly stated. They have no interest at that point of getting into a logical discussion of what might be true or untrue. They are already totally convinced in their minds about the character of Jesus. It was their strong opinion about Him that led them to such ridicule. Lastly, Matthew 7:7 (Ask and it will be given...) is an example where a condition can be present even if the formal structure is absent. In this instance, an imperative verb is used as a protasis.

As seen above, implications derived from the larger context should not be ignored. Learning those various possibilities will come with further study of the language. Even then, however, you should be aware that some complex constructions may have nuances of meaning that are lost entirely to us because there are no longer native speakers of Koine Greek. For now, you are encouraged to learn the basic structures and continue advancing in the beautiful world of conditional sentences.

29.5 EXAMPLES OF CONDITIONAL SENTENCES

29.5.1 First Class Conditions

This condition presents something as true. The structure is as follows:

“If” (Protasis)	“then” (Apodosis)
εἰ + indicative of any mood	indicative imperative subjunctive

Example 1: Καὶ εἰ ἐγὼ ἐν Βεελζεβούλ ἐκβάλλω τὰ δαιμόνια, οἱ νιοὶ ὑμῶν ἐν τίνι ἐκβάλλουσιν;

And if I cast out the demons by Beelzebub, by whom do your sons cast them out?

This is an example of a first class condition that is used in many Greek grammars. Jesus debates with the Pharisees and assumes in the discussion the very point that is the basis of their attack. They think He casts out demons by the power of Beelzebub. The fact that Jesus states this condition in a first class structure does not mean He is casting out demons by Beelzebub. The opposite is true! Jesus starts with the idea that, if it were true, what would follow?

Example 2: ...εἰ τὸν λόγον μου ἐτήρησαν, καὶ τὸν ὑμέτερον τηρήσουσιν.
...if they kept my word, they will also keep yours.

Example 3: Εἰ γὰρ Ἀβραὰμ ἐξ ἔργων ἐδικαιώθη, ἔχει καύχημα...
If Abraham was justified by works, he has a boast...

The condition here has strong theological significance.

Example 4: Εἰ γὰρ νεκροὶ οὐκ ἐγείρονται, οὐδὲ Χριστὸς ἐγήγερται.
For if the dead are not raised, neither has Christ been raised.

This is another good example where the author uses a first class condition for the sake of argument. In the context, Paul is clearly arguing that the dead will be raised. He disagrees with the protasis (if) and uses the reality of the apodosis (then) to deny it. Christ is risen from the dead, which means there is a resurrection of the dead.

Example 5: ...ὅτι νῦν ζῶμεν, ἐὰν ύμεις στήκετε ἐν κυρίῳ.
because now we live, if you stand firm in the Lord.

The apodosis is before protasis and ἐάν appears with the indicative mood.

Example 6: Εἰ νιὸς εἶ τοῦ θεοῦ, εἰπὲ τῷ λίθῳ τούτῳ...
If you are the Son of God, speak to this stone...

The apodosis has an imperative.

29.5.2 Second Class Conditions

This condition presents something as contrary to fact.

“If” (Protasis)	“then” (Apodosis)
εἰ + imperfect or aorist indicative	(ἄν) + imperfect or aorist indicative

Example 7: Ἀπεκρίθη Ἰησοῦς, Οὐκ εἴχες ἐξουσίαν οὐδεμίαν κατ' ἡμοῦ, εἰ μὴ ἦν σοι δεδομένον ἄνωθεν.
Jesus answered, “You would not have any authority over me unless it had been given to you from above.

Example 8: Οὗτος, εἰ ἦν προφήτης, ἐγίνωσκεν ἀν τίς καὶ ποταπή ἡ γυνὴ ἦτις ἀπτεται αὐτοῦ, ὅτι ἀμαρτωλός ἐστιν.
If He were a prophet, He would know who and what sort of woman that is touching him...

The imperfect and aorist tenses do not always refer to past time. This conditional statement refers to the present time of the discussion. Often the imperfect is used of present second class conditions and the aorist is used if it is referring to a time prior to the statement. However, the context must always be the final determiner of the time reference.

Example 9: εἰ γὰρ ἦσαν ἐξ ἡμῶν, μεμενήκεισαν ἀν μεθ' ἡμῶν.

For if they were from us, they would have remained with us.

Observe the perfect tense in the apodosis.

29.5.3 Third Class Conditions

This class presents something that may have future fulfillment (future more probable) or that occurs generally at any time (present general). Some grammars categorize the second use as 5th class even though the structure may be identical.

“If” (Protasis)	“then” (Apodosis)
ἐάν + subjunctive	any tense or mood

Future More Probable

Example 10: Κύριε, ἐὰν θέλῃς, δύνασαι με καθαρίσαι.
Lord, if you want, you are able to heal me.

Example 11: Ἐάν τις ἰδῃ τὸν ἀδελφὸν αὐτοῦ ἀμαρτάνοντα ἀμαρτίαν μὴ πρὸς θάνατον, αἰτήσει, καὶ δώσει αὐτῷ ζωήν...
If anyone should see his brother sinning a sin not unto death, he will ask and He will give to him life...

Present General

Example 12: Καὶ ἐὰν ἀγαθοποιῆτε τοὺς ἀγαθοποιῶντας ὑμᾶς, ποία ὑμῖν χάρις ἔστιν;
And if you should do good to those who do good to you, what good does it do you?

Example 13: Καὶ αὕτη ἔστιν ἡ παρρησία ἡν̄ ἔχομεν πρὸς αὐτόν, ὅτι ἐάν τι αἰτώμεθα κατὰ τὸ θέλημα αὐτοῦ, ἀκούει ἡμῶν.
And this is the confidence that we have with Him that, if we should ask anything according to His will, He hears us.

29.5.4 Fourth Class Conditions

This class presents something with less probability of occurring. There are no complete examples in the New Testament.

“If” (Protasis)	“then” (Apodosis)
εἰ + optative	(ἄν) + optative

29.6 EXERCISES

Read the following sentences out loud and then translate them. For the first 30 exercises, parse the word in bold. Also, categorize any conditions in the first 30 exercises as first, second, third, or fourth class.

- Ἔν δὲ ἄνθρωπος ἐκ τῶν Φαρισαίων, Νικόδημος (Nicodemus) ὄνομα αὐτῷ, ἀρχων τῶν Ἰουδαίων· οὗτος ἥλθεν πρὸς ἡ αὐτὸν ἡ νυκτός, καὶ εἶπεν αὐτῷ, Ῥαββί (Rabbi), οἴδαμεν ὅτι ἀπὸ θεοῦ ἐλήλυθας διδάσκαλος· οὐδεὶς γὰρ ταῦτα τὰ σημεῖα δύναται ποιεῖν ἢ σὺ ποιεῖς, ἐὰν μὴ ἦ ὁ θεὸς μετ' αὐτοῦ. Ἀπεκρίθη ὁ Ἰησοῦς καὶ εἶπεν αὐτῷ, Ἄμην ἀμὴν λέγω σοι, ἐὰν μὴ τις γεννηθῇ ἄνωθεν, οὐ δύναται ιδεῖν τὴν βασιλείαν τοῦ θεοῦ.
- Ἀπεκρίθη Ἰωάννης καὶ εἶπεν, Οὐ δύναται ἄνθρωπος λαμβάνειν οὐδέν, ἐὰν μὴ ἦ δεδομένον αὐτῷ ἐκ τοῦ οὐρανοῦ. Αὐτοὶ οὐμεῖς μαρτυρεῖτε ὅτι εἶπον, Οὐκ εἰμὶ ἐγὼ ὁ Χριστός, ἀλλ' ὅτι Ἀπεσταλμένος εἰμὶ ἔμπροσθεν ἐκείνου. (KATA ΙΩΑΝΝΗΝ 3:27-29)

Πῶς δύνασθε οὐμεῖς πιστεῦσαι, δόξαν παρὰ ἀλλήλων λαμβάνοντες, καὶ τὴν δόξαν τὴν παρὰ τοῦ μόνου θεοῦ οὐ ζητεῖτε; Μὴ δοκεῖτε ὅτι ἐγὼ κατηγορήσω (will accuse) οὐμῶν πρὸς τὸν πατέρα· ἔστιν ὁ κατηγορῶν (one who accuses) οὐμῶν, Μωσῆς, εἰς ὃν οὐμεῖς ἥλπίκατε (you have hoped). Εἰ γὰρ ἐπιστεύετε ἡ Μωσῆς, ἡ ἐπιστεύετε ἂν ἐμοὶ· περὶ γὰρ ἐμοῦ ἐκεῖνος ἔγραψεν. Εἰ δὲ τοῖς ἐκείνου γράμμασιν οὐ πιστεύετε, πῶς τοῖς ἐμοῖς ρήμασιν πιστεύσετε; (KATA ΙΩΑΝΝΗΝ 5:43-47)
- Ἐγώ εἰμι ὁ ἄρτος ὁ ζῶν, ὁ ἐκ τοῦ οὐρανοῦ καταβάς· ἐάν τις φάγῃ ἐκ τούτου τοῦ ἄρτου, ζήσεται εἰς τὸν αἰῶνα. Καὶ ὁ ἄρτος δὲ ὃν ἐγὼ δώσω, ἡ σάρξ μου ἔστιν, ἣν ἐγὼ δώσω ὑπὲρ τῆς τοῦ κόσμου ζωῆς.

30 CONTINUING THE ADVENTURE

30.1 INTRODUCTION

Congratulations! After much hard work and dedication, you have learned the common vocabulary, word forms, and basic sentence structures that occur in the Greek New Testament. In other words, you have a good foundation for future study of Greek and of God's Word in Greek. There is, of course, much more to the adventure of biblical Greek, and you are no doubt eager to discover what lies ahead. The obvious question remains: "Where do I go from here?" The simple answer is read, read, read.

30.2 READ, READ, READ

30.2.1 The Importance of Reading

Reading Greek regularly is the best way for you to develop your understanding of the language. Without question, there is no substitute for consistent reading of the Greek New Testament. Even 10 or 15 minutes a day will reinforce through repetition what you have already learned and allow you to build upon that foundation. Additionally, by being immersed in the context, you will learn the language as it should be learned, as a language. This will help you to avoid certain errors stemming from a limited or isolated understanding of Greek and how it functions. Best of all, you will learn Greek while spending time in the Book of books, the Word of God, which is probably the reason you are studying Greek in the first place. Enjoy!

30.2.2 Helps for Reading

A little practical guidance is in order. First, you will need a Greek New Testament. For reading purposes, we recommend that you buy what is called a reader's Greek New Testament. The benefit of the reader's New Testament is that each page has footnotes with the definition of uncommon words found on that page. This allows for quick translation of unfamiliar vocabulary. It allows you to spend more time reading and less time looking up words in the dictionary (lexicon). With time, you will find yourself consulting the footnotes less and less. Two recommended versions are The UBS Greek New Testament: A Reader's Edition by Barclay M. Newman or A Reader's Greek New Testament: 2nd Edition by Richard J. Goodrich and Albert L. Lukaszewski.¹

If you do not want or are not able to buy one of those readers, there is an alternative. Several versions of the Greek New Testament can be accessed online or downloaded for free. Although different sites exist, perhaps the most convenient is www.biblia.com where you can freely access The Greek New Testament: SBL Edition or The New Testament in the Original Greek: Byzantine Textform 2005. The site has other Greek versions as well. When you read the Greek text, you should have an English Bible nearby so that you can consult it when you need help translating a word or phrase. This is not cheating! It is a tool to help maximize your reading time. The goal is to depend less and less on the English Bible and more and more on your knowledge of the Greek.

¹ In our opinion, a Greek reader is highly preferable to an interlinear with the Greek New Testament and English translation directly below. The interlinear is too much of a crutch because you are not forced to translate even the most basic vocabulary and forms that you should already know.

30.2.3 What to Read

After acquiring the Greek New Testament, the next step is to pick what to read. This step is important because some New Testament books are much easier to read than others. If you start with Acts or Hebrews, for example, you may become frustrated unnecessarily because of their difficulty. Therefore, we recommend starting with an easier book such as the Gospel of John. First John may be better if having a shorter goal would be helpful. The following table groups the New Testament books according to their difficulty. Consult the table for help in deciding what to read as you advance in your ability.

From John to Hebrews: The Relative Difficulty of New Testament Books

Easy	Medium		Hard
John	1 Thessalonians	Mark	Luke	2 Corinthians
1 John	2 Thessalonians	Matthew	1 Timothy	1 Peter
2 John	Philippians	Titus	2 Timothy	2 Peter
3 John	Ephesians	1 Corinthians	Jude	Acts
Revelation	Colossians	Galatians	James	Hebrews
	Philemon	Romans

30.2.4 Plans for Reading

At first, you should simply decide what book you will read and set a reasonable goal for how much you will read daily. Recall that ten minutes per day, five days a week should be your minimum. As your reading ability improves, you may consider a yearly reading plan.

The most basic plan would be to read one chapter in the Greek New Testament per day. Since there are 260 chapters, you could finish it all and still have 105 days left over. Perhaps you could use those extra days if you fall behind. If not, simply start over again. The other plans are provided below for your consideration. The first is the easiest because it only includes two of the four Gospels.

After completing the New Testament, the blossoming Greek student can branch out to other material. In particular, it would be good to read the Septuagint (LXX), a translation of the Old Testament into Greek. The recommended version is Septuaginta edited by Alfred Rahlfs and Robert Hanhart.

30.3 OTHER IMPORTANT RESOURCES

The value of regular reading of the Greek text cannot be overstated. Nevertheless, while thus occupied, you should also begin to study and explore some of the other important Greek resources that have been developed by scholars. A few of those resources are mentioned below.

30.3.1 Greek New Testament with Textual Apparatus

Although the Greek readers discussed above are excellent tools for building proficiency with the language, you will also need to obtain a Greek New Testament with a detailed textual apparatus. A textual apparatus is a tool that appears at the bottom of each page of many Greek texts. It provides information regarding which manuscripts contain the Greek as shown in the text and which manuscripts differ from the text shown. How the manuscripts differ is also in the apparatus.

Differences in manuscripts exist because of the copying and preservation process that has occurred throughout the centuries since the New Testament was written. After all, copy machines and scanners have not always existed. Before the invention of the printing press around 1450, copying a book's contents used to be a very slow and tedious process. Consequently, it is easy to see how differences in copies would emerge. This is not an issue limited to the New Testament but occurred with manuscripts of every historical and literary work of antiquity that has been copied.

Although learning about the copying process and its results might sound like something that could diminish your faith, we believe the opposite is true. Understanding it should strengthen your confidence in the reliability of Scripture. For details, you could read The Text of the New Testament: Its Transmission, Corruption, and Restoration, 4th edition by Bruce Metzger or similar works. The present point is simply that owning a Greek New Testament with a textual apparatus is important for study and teaching.

For our purposes, the most detailed apparatuses are found in the United Bible Societies' (UBS) The Greek New Testament: 5th Revised Edition edited by Barbara Aland, Kurt Aland, et. al or Nestle-Aland's Novum Testamentum Graece, 28th edition published by the German Bible Society. The main difference between the two Bibles is not the Greek text itself but the information presented in the apparatuses. For beginners, the format of the UBS 5th edition is preferable. Although both texts are available with or without a Greek-English dictionary, we recommend purchasing the version with the dictionary. Read the introduction and familiarize yourself with the apparatus of the text that you chose.

30.3.2 Intermediate Grammars

This and other first year grammars introduce the various features of biblical Greek such as case, tense, voice, mood, participles, etc. Intermediate grammars examine the uses of those items in a much more detailed way. A couple of good intermediate grammars are:

- Moule, C.F.D. An Idiom Book of New Testament Greek. 2nd ed. Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 1959.
- Wallace, Daniel B. Greek Grammar Beyond the Basics: An Exegetical Syntax of the New Testament. Grand Rapids: Zondervan Publishing House, 1996.

30.3.3 Advanced Grammars

Advanced grammars cover much of the same material as intermediate grammars but are more detailed and technical. In addition, they explore the exceptions and nuances of the language in a way beginning and intermediate grammars do not. Often the differences between biblical and classical Greek are highlighted. Renowned advanced grammars are:

- Blass, F. and A. Debrunner. A Greek Grammar of the New Testament and Other Early Christian Literature. Trans. and rev. R. W. Funk. Chicago: University of Chicago Press, 1961.
- Robertson, A.T. A Grammar of the Greek New Testament in the Light of Historical Research. 4th ed. New York: Hodder & Stoughton, 1923.

30.3.4 Greek-English Dictionaries (Lexicons)

Lexicon is a fancy word for dictionary. A Greek-English lexicon provides the various possible meanings of a Greek word in English. Usually the meaning is explained using multiple words and then a single word (gloss). Recommended lexicons are:

- A Greek-English Lexicon of the New Testament and Other Early Christian Literature. 3rd ed. By W. Bauer. Trans. and rev. F.W. Danker, W.F. Arndt, and F.W. Gingrich. Chicago: University of Chicago Press, 1979.
- Greek-English Lexicon of the New Testament Based on Semantic Domains. 2nd ed. By J.P. Louw and Eugene A. Nida. Ed. Rondal B. Smith and Karen A. Munson. New York: United Bible Societies, 1989.

30.3.5 Computer Tools

Several good programs exist to facilitate the study of the Greek New Testament. As with most programs, these are available on a range of platforms and differ in terms of features and prices. For that reason, it might be wise to delay purchase of one until you have studied Greek more and know what program might suit your needs best. In alphabetical order, the most reputable programs are:

- Accordance (PC or MAC): <http://www.accordancebible.com/>
- Bible Works (PC or MAC) <http://www.bibleworks.com/> (no longer for sale)
- Gramcord (PC): <http://www.gramcord.org/>
- Logos Bible Software (PC or MAC) <https://www.logos.com/>

30.4 CONCLUSION

We sincerely pray that Biblical Greek: Beginning the Adventure has been a useful tool as you have undertaken the journey of learning this beautiful language in which God, through men, penned the New Testament. May you continue to build upon what you have learned herein so that you can understand, believe, obey, and teach the Scriptures, the word of God, with more accuracy and passion. May you and your students, as Peter says, “Grow in the grace and knowledge of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ.” (2 Peter 3:18)

Αὐτῷ ἡ δόξα καὶ νῦν καὶ εἰς οὐμέραν αἰῶνος. Αμήν.
